

MARSHALL HIGH SCHOOL

THE DIAL

DEDICAT ION

FOUR years as pedagogue in our English language; three years as pilot of both yearbook and bi-weekly paper; coach of two junior and three senior plays; gaining the friendship and admiration of Marshall High's pupils; and even better, proving a real and true friend to all —

We, the staff of the 1939 ANNUAL, hoping this book will measure up to the standards this teacher upholds, wholeheartedly dedicate this 1939 DIAL to—

MRS. BESS MURRAY

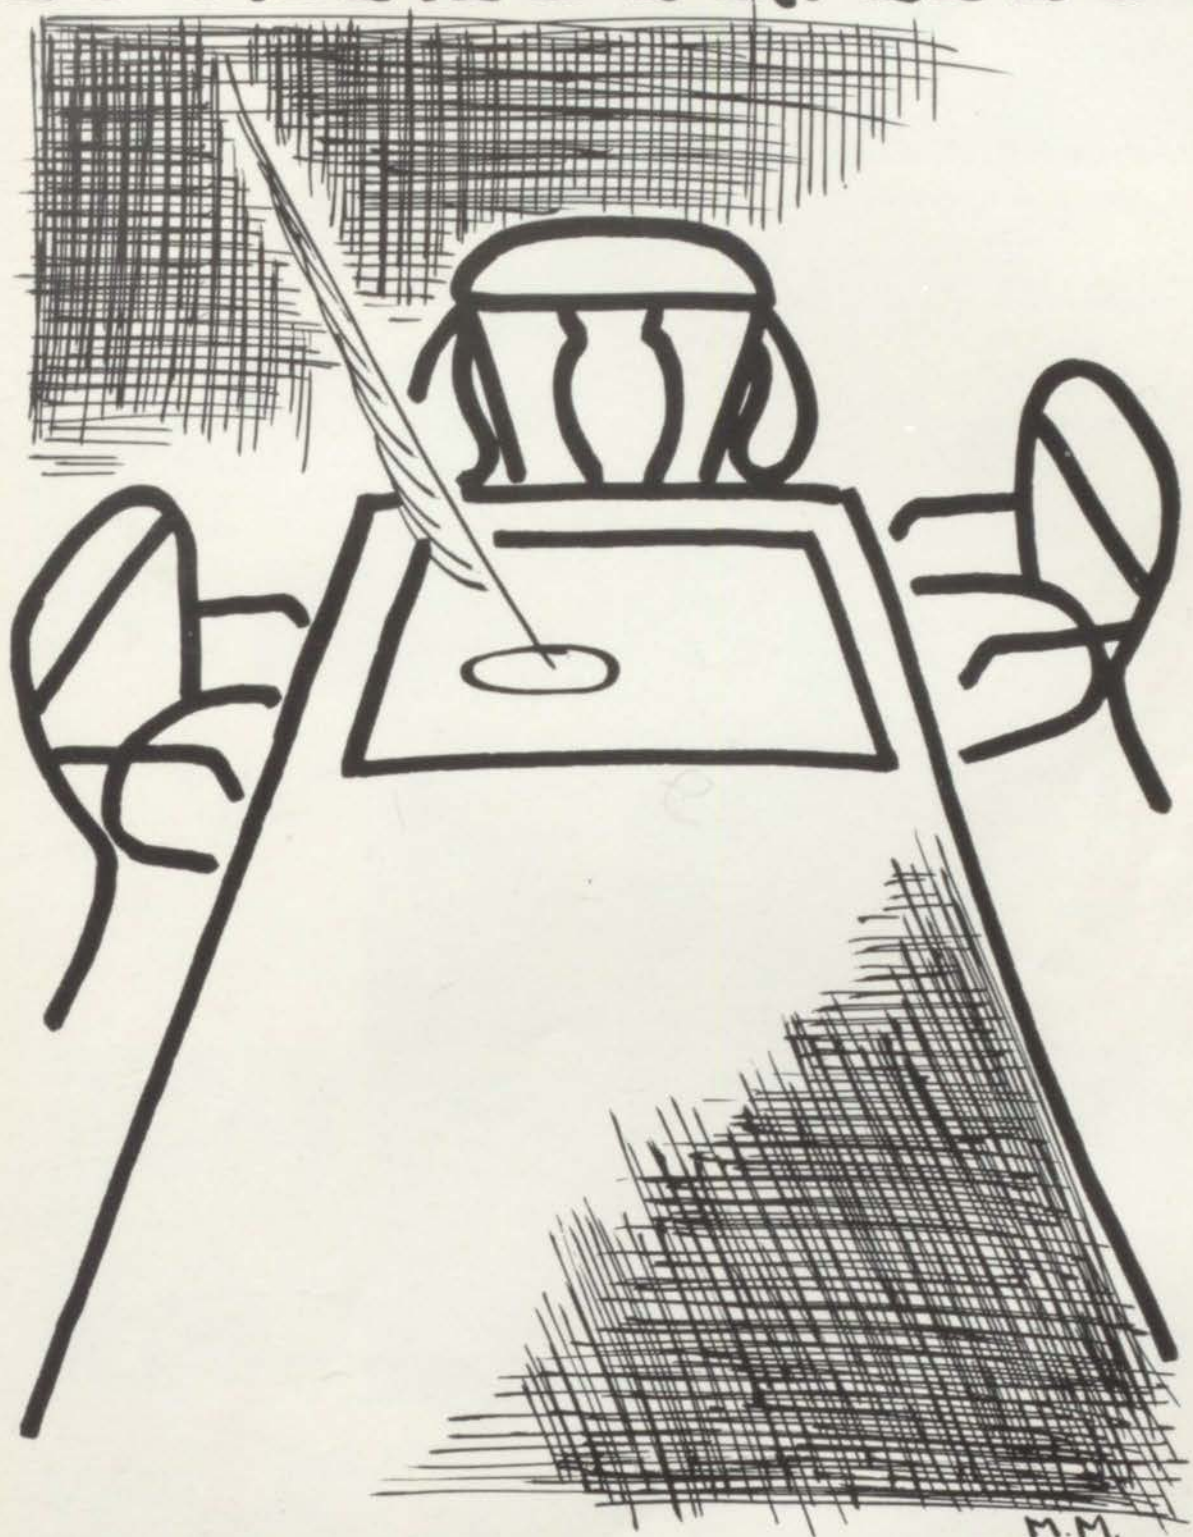

FOREWORD

A TAPESTRY interwoven with fine and colorful threads of scenes depicting enraptured golden moments in Marshall High; a symphony reminiscent of emotions and feelings, a treasure chest, not of gold, silver, and jewels, but something even more precious to an alumnus of our Alma Mater — MEMORIES — all this and more, the Annual aspires to mean to those who open its covers.

SENIORS

"MAGNA CUM LAUDE"

JOE SCHROEDER

Distinguished service and pre-eminence among students mark his imposing record. Debater, orator, editor of the bi-weekly Dial, actor, cheer-leader, assembly-organizer. A-1 scholar, booster of such groups as DeMolay and Wolverine Boys' State, winner of the cup for publicizing Marshall best in Michigan — this could go on forever. Top this list with good sport, courteous gentleman, and clever politician. The University of Michigan will be fortunate in enrolling him.

CATHERINE AALBREGTSE

Modesty and ability combine to command favor for this attractive student. She maintained a notable scholarship record; worked in the speech department, in G. A. A., in Campfire, and assisted in the principal's office. The D. A. R.'s chose her to represent their chapter in the 1939 state conference. Homer's loss proved to be Marshall's gain. She should succeed admirably in her chosen field — the business world.

ROBERT A. MILLER

The hero of the boys' world, this chap went about his multiple activities with poise and efficiency. President of the student council by a tremendous majority vote, captain of the 38-39 football team, business manager of this Annual, performer in both junior and senior plays, winner of state-wide recognition as an athlete, for four years Bob upheld his own standard of sincere, honest, and dignified conduct, seasoned with natural humor and commendable class-work.

NATALIE OVERSMITH

With decided leanings toward the cultural side, Natalie has been extremely active in musical phases of high school life. She has debated brilliantly, and has a scholarship record few ever attain. She helped stage the exchange assemblies and the home performances for two years. Natalie always sees above the trivial and concentrates on the worth-while. Every student agrees that her years in college, probably Western State Teachers' College, should be illustrious ones.

FRED KAHLER

Take abounding good humor, lofty ideals, superior intelligence, and a compelling personality — the product is Fred. Pilot of his class for three busy years, captain of the '39 basketball team, editor-in-chief of this Annual, student trainer of the football squad, portrayer of the long and difficult leading role in Louder Please, baseball player, — student and athletic activities too plentiful for space mark his high school trail. His four-year scholastic standing was consistently par-excellent. He will reflect credit on his college and on M. H. S.

"BESS'S BLIZZARDS"

"THE deadline is Friday, remember" . . . "How shall I start this lead?" . . . "Are you going to proof-read this or aren't you?" . . . I can't get this paper out single-handed" . . . "Let's don't have all this uproar," are only a few of the orders emanating from the well-worn but companionable Room 211.

Of course these orders could not emanate until the Dial staff was elected. The staff burdens fell upon the well-padded shoulders of Joe "Deadline" Schroeder as editor; Mary Ann Page, associate editor; and Melba Mann, wielder of the stylus as art editor. Dorothy Doying was the exchange editor. Roger Corrigan, manipulator of the mimeograph, was evicted from the printing room on many occasions.

As presses began to roll and newspaper mechanism got under way, Shirley Cooley and "Three Star" Corrigan received the football assignments. Kathleen Francisco and Roger presided in the press box at all basketball games.

On Oct. 20, "Bess's Blizzards" were the proud guests of Miss Shoup at her home in Holland. The cub reporters visited the high school printing and journalism classes. They withdrew to Miss Shoup's attractive home for further hilarity, and eight of them enjoyed a delectable dinner there. A spring trip, an annual feature to inspect metropolitan news in the making, topped off a breath-taking year.

The gentleman's contingent of this memorable and somewhat roistering educational venture were victors in the Annual staff election. Fred W. Kahler, Jr., became editor-in-chief; Donald Dibble, his right hand man; Wendal Thompson, ye art editor; and Robert A. Miller handled the financial problems.

A definite departure from former Annuals has been introduced, and this staff will be amply rewarded by favorable reception from the entire student body.

SENIOR REMINISCENCES

AS a green freshman from the country, trying to decide just how many stairways were in the building, five or six?

And those budding romances, some of which dried up. Fred and Doris, Fred and Bernice, Fred and Martha — our president was quite a Don Juan, wasn't he. Bob Miller and Dorothy Smith or was it Joe — and then what about Catherine A. — Mary Ann Page and Tom Wilson, Dorothy D. and S. Trupiano, Billy and Kathleen. Some that lasted — Roger and Marion — Wendal and Jeanne — Dorothy and Chuck — Melba and Owen — Marie and Bob — Jesse Stage and J. Goodrich.

Do you remember our freshman belle — Maxine Casey???

A freshman still, but also a G. A. A. initiate, trying to emerge from a wastebasket, after being deposited there by an ambitious senior. (Can this be I?)

A warm ginger ale party after the J-Hop in '37 (the ginger ale, I mean); Egolf played cops and robbers. During the process of decorating for the '35 G. A. A. formal, those five lads who contracted sumac poison, and several girls found themselves without an escort for the formal — what a sight Bob Miller was.

Knees knocking, chin quivering, as Miss Diehl ventured in a tone meant to be definitely understood, "Sit down! If you'd work like Martha, you'd know your assignment instead of stumbling around."

Junior year — Kahler saved the day in the Sturgis game; one point victory in last seconds of game — dramatic moment. Bernice and Art.

The gang went to see our near-state champions, and got snowed on, returning — Wendal called up mothers announcing that their children were not in school, (sr. idea of a joke) — Lee got stuck at 2 a. m. in front of Mary Ellen's house — C. Jennings blossomed forth with piano improvisations — Doris and her zipper dress at Dena's party — "Zip" Holmes. Abendshein and Iretha Fountain.

Sophomores skip party of seven on Roger's birthday — M. A. Page fell downstairs as a freshie, chasing Larry Hazel. That junior headache — trying to sell 500 megaphones, did Schroeder have something to do with that?

Kathleen's scavenger hunt — Fred and Shirley — ("Junie's" first date) what would Mahrle say, Shirley — later, after same party Choo-Choo almost ran over Mary Ann's car and contents in B. C.

Feeling our way home from Coldwater our jr. year in the fog — but we won! That G. A. A. banquet (?) our soph. year. Potatoes — no meat; pickles — no cheese; meat — no potatoes. Billy McKinstry and M. A. Page swapping cars and driving head onto each other out by the Artesian Wells. Dena's house burning down the senior play night — everyone unhappy for her.

Miss Shoup left our soph. year; and Foug, or was it Fuog, left us stranded in the middle of our senior year. Star-Dusters organize and symphonize in '39. Jr. play, "Big Hearted Herbert." Elected Miller to School Council all four years — add "Star" Lower as vice-pres. senior year. Thelma Rocco engaged and unengaged.

That study party at Doris' house for jr. exams from Herrick — can't forget Herrick's exams.

Catherine's waffle party staged Dibble as the star; Onderdonk carried a waffle in his pocket to the dance — grief. Virginia Armstrong and her Battle Creek Romeo — Mary Louise Aldrich and Dick Allen — the melody lingers on.

Two glorious years of upper-classmanship. Two years of looking down on green freshmen, pale yellow sophomores. Selling candy and hot dogs at the football games, bruising my fingers twisting cherry blossoms on to wire and getting very, very angry because the wire broke. All this in preparation for the J-Hop, a gala affair, if I do say so myself.

Freshman year G. A. A. formal was Southern Plantation; soph. year — French Vineyard; jr. year — Mexican Patio; sr. year, due to recession, arrangements were somewhat slow — Mrs. Parry departed our jr. year, and Miss Whiteley got herself engaged our sr. year. Bob Burrows and Edith Hoisington —

Then at last — a SENIOR after years and years. A little flat feeling accompanies the illusion of power, because I really don't feel a great deal different — not a great deal different, anyway, from what I did before. It was the "graduality" of the thing, I guess. Now a little bit afraid of graduation, but glorying in my supremacy, I look ahead into a wide, wide world and — just where do I belong?

SENIOR

PLAY

LOUDER PLEASE

LLOUDER, PLEASE, the 1939 senior play was a roaring success. The scene was a publicity office of the Criterion Movie Studio. The story was a hectic publicity stunt that went awry, then into smooth sailing through the opportune lying of Herbert White, the live-wire, fast-talking publicity director (Fred Kahler). He was in love with Polly Madison, alluring and coquettish star of Criterion Pictures (Melba Mann). The rest of the almost perfect cast included: Kathryn Block, winsome and feminine story planter for the publicity office, Virginia Armstrong; Allen West, calm and capable scenario writer in love with Kathryn Block, Harold Lower; Ruth James, efficient and world-weary secretary to Herbert White, Dorothy Doying; Eddie Maney, easy-going, resourceful newspaper man full of bright ideas, Robert Burroughs; Snitz Gumbel, hard-working handy man and cameraman, Lawrence Desy; Kendall King, an overbearing big-shot executive, Earl Abendshein; Heinie, Mr. White's faithful reporter, Mary Ann Page; Frederick Garrett, tall, dark, and handsome Broadway actor, Robert Miller; George Brody, cynical, arbitrary Associated Newsman, Leslie Connelly; Charline Harris, a dopey, flippant newspaper woman, Bernice Van Zant; Bailey, a plainclothes man, sharp, hard, and smart, Joe Schroeder; Herman Schneider, Bailey's stooge, Armand Dunn; Santa Claus, anxious for a job, George Onderdonk.

Mrs. Murray directed, assisted by Catherine Aalbregtse and Doris Holmes. Make-up was expertly handled by Kathleen Francisco and June Miller. Stage properties were in charge of Lawrence Woods and Lawrence Desy.

CHERRY BLOSSOM LANE

THE fairyland of cherry blossom time in Washington, D. C., was the theme of the junior-senior reception on that memorable rainy eve of May 27, 1938. The Lincoln Memorial, the Capitol dome, and the Washington Monument, creations of Leslie Conelly's ingenuity, were depicted by murals on three walls of the gym. The fourth side opened under a rustic balcony, with rustic benches provided for the weary. A large oval of myriad-blossomed cherry trees encircled a lagoon of blue cellophane, where the couples danced on the waters blue.

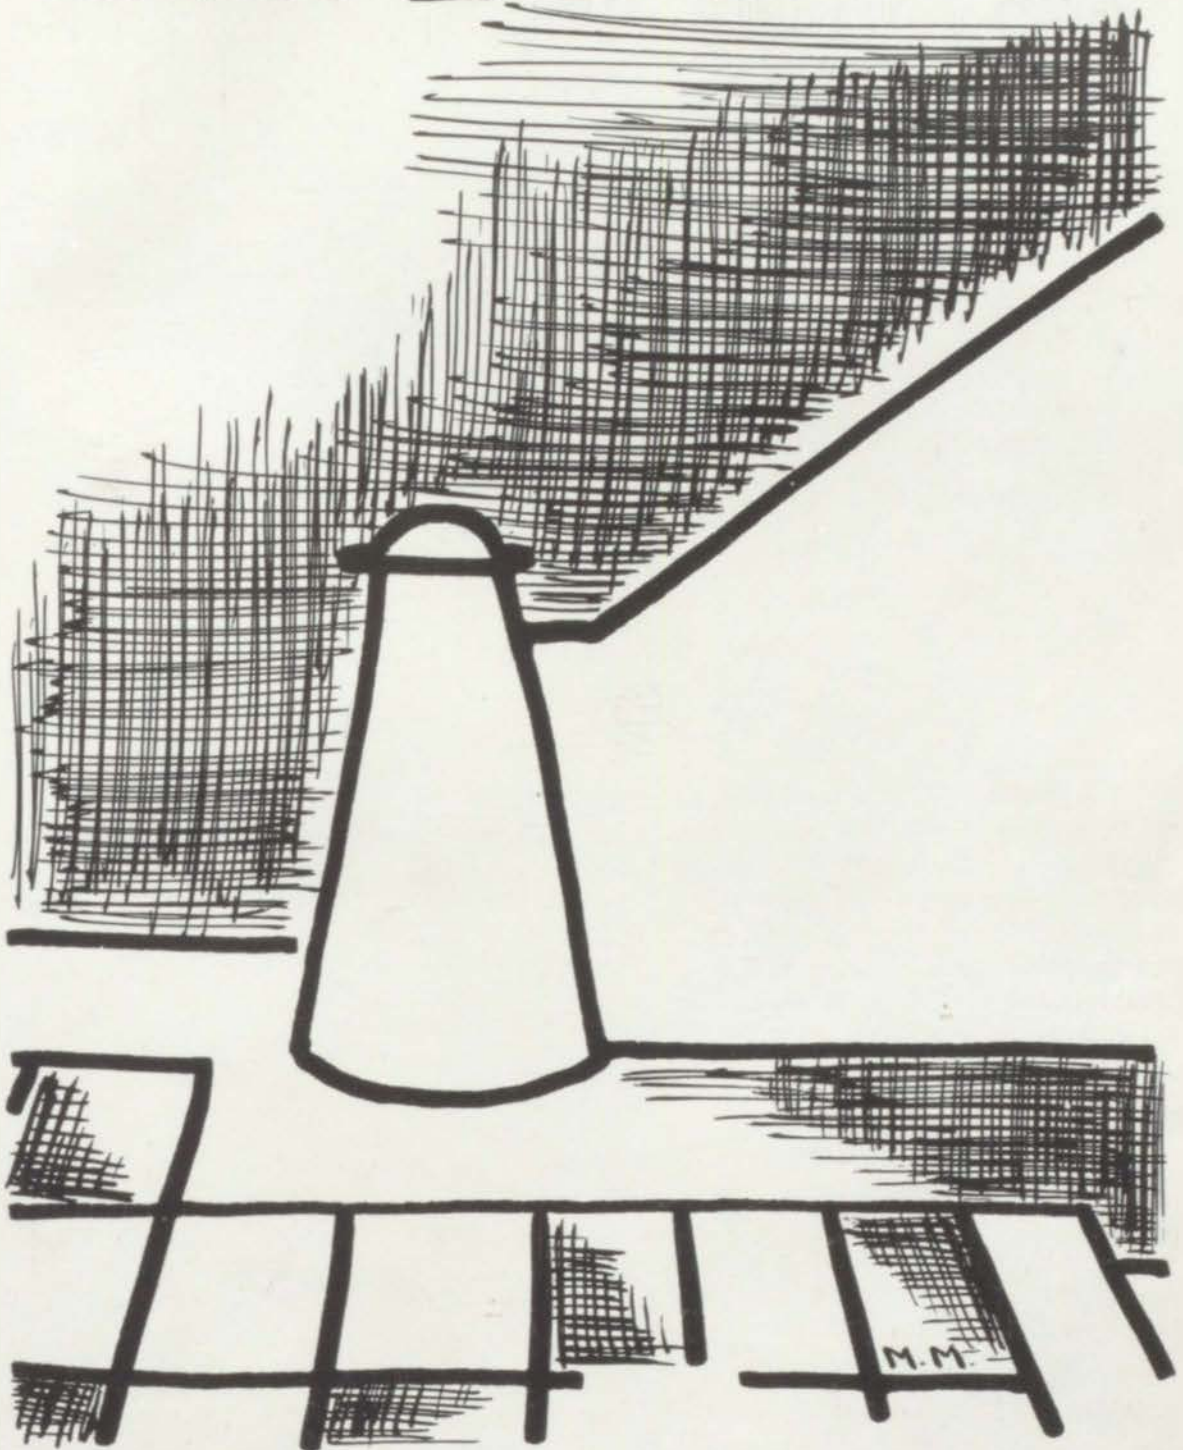

In full charge of decorations and arrangements on this gala night was Robert A. Miller, who did an admirable job.

Toby Tobias' orchestra of Battle Creek was engaged for the occasion by George Onderkonk, committee chairman. Alberta Peck provided a floor-show of note. Shirley Cooley, official cateress, ladled out ginger ale and cookies. The dance programs, designed by Bernice Van Zant, were presented at the door, together with gay parasol favors supplied by Margaret McClure. Marion Thomas directed games for those seeking relaxation from dancing.

Miss Ruth Erskine and Mr. Walter Jenvey lent experienced aid in every detail, in their sponsor-ship capacities.

With cherry blossoms in their hair, and with fragrant memories, the hundred or so couples moved on to further fields of enjoyment to complete a perfect evening.

"THE BRAT"

A MATEUR footlight stars of the Class of "40" trod the boards on November 18, in "The Brat," one of the most outstanding successes ever staged in M. H. S.

With the elegant Forrester home as the setting and with the players displaying most extraordinary talent, "The Brat" brought out both laughter and tears from the responsive audience.

Martha More, as the "Brat," a waif from the slums, gave a splendid performance. Mac Millan Forrester, an author and the eldest son of the family, was excellently portrayed by Don Wheeler. The role of Mrs. Forrester was dramatized in a stately manner by Helen Mackey. Bob Kempf made the character of Steve, the lovable "black sheep" of the Forrester family, quite real, while Jane Depew and Angela Smythe, two deceitful females in love with Mac, were effectively done by Barbara Alexander and Jeanne Orn. Bishop Ware, Mrs. Ware, and Dorothy, their young daughter, were efficiently enacted by Owen Hotchkiss, Meredythe Frost, and Barbara Rowland. William Taffee in the role of Timson, the butler, and Delzora Leighton as Margot, the housekeeper, gave perfect characterizations.

Under the expert direction of Mrs. Bess Murray and with the able assistance of Mr. Walter Jenvey and the high school orchestra, the play was a tremendous hit. Veldean Brownfield, as assistant director, handled the prompting; while Dale Cosgrove, Albert Curtis, and Gerald Bachman took care of the properties and lighting. Marilyn Staver and Helen Schnaitman handled make-up, costumes, and hand properties.

After a week of boisterous campaigning by the four classes, Bob Miller and Harold Lower, senior candidates, were elected president and vice-president. Eugene Moushey, a sophomore, was reelected secretary-treasurer. The election occurred on November 8. Assemblies, intramural sports, school parties, and an exchange assembly series were again sponsored and supervised by the council. Lakeview, Albion, Coldwater, and Hillsdale exchanged assembly programs with us.

Eight council members, accompanied by Mr. Rose and Miss Hodges, attended a meeting of surrounding school councils at Lakeview, January 10. Discussion groups on high school programs featured the day.

Mr. Rose capably guided this student governing body through its seventh year.

USHER CLUB

"This way please, Row H, Seat 10" . . . "Will you rise please?" . . . Thank you so much" . . . "Here is your stub, and a program" . . . "What time does the play start? 8 o'clock" . . . "Yes, they usually start on time" . . . "No, I'm not just sure how long it will last; I'll be glad to find out."

This information is a mere fragment of that supplied at the junior and senior plays and other school functions, by the twenty ushers. Ten of these girls are former members; from the ten newly-elected members, two are from the sophomore class, six from the junior, and two from the senior.

"Oh, I put that lady in the wrong seat! Where's Doris Holmes, head usher? She'll have to straighten this out" . . . "What?" . . . "She's helping someone else! Then get Martha More, assistant head-usher!"

This Usher Club, organized fourteen years ago, served again under the capable leadership of Miss Elsie Wagner. Their stunning black taffeta dresses, touched with red, lent distinction to their services.

MUSIC

Twenty-four fiddle-sawers, horn blowers, and piano pounders constituted Mr. Walter Jenvey's orchestra. This orchestra furnished entertaining music at both the junior and senior plays, and extra-school programs. The orchestra has shown a superior quality of work, and the ensemble evoked favorable comment on appearances in the community.

A second successful year is credited to the thirty-four lads and lasses of the Marshall High School Choir. Mr. Jenvey's skill with this group increases yearly, it seems. The group met each day and accomplished more this year than ever before. The choir sang Christmas carols on fifteen-minute programs over WKZO and WELL, and these reverberated all over the state. The choir acted as hosts to Lakeview and Albion in a vocal musical festival, March 22. The three schools sang together under the direction of Mr. McIntyre, director of the famous Lansing Eastern High A Capella Choir. A double quartette from the school sang on the exchange assemblies and the group has lent its melody to many school programs and extra-school activities.

W. Jenvey
Director

In this same group the band holds a place of honor, having played at all the football games at home and at the Albion game. They helped cheer on the basketeers at basketball games. New uniforms were made possible through the combined efforts of the Music Department, Music Boosters, and other organizations. Mr. Jenvey and four members of the band attended the band clinic at Sturgis in February.

DEBATE

Starting the season with a new coach, Mr. Charles Hampton, and six inexperienced debaters, Marshall's debate squad attained a brilliant record for itself, winning twenty-four of twenty-seven judged debates.

The question for 1938-39 was: "Resolved: That the United States should establish an alliance with Great Britain." In the Twin Valley tournaments Marshall defeated Adrian and Lakeview and lost to Albion.

Marshall won from Lansing Central and Hastings in the state elimination debates; but met defeat in the third round, bowing to Battle Creek.

A new experience awaited the squad when they debated with Jackson on next year's question over station WIBM.

Those participating in the state debates were: J. Schroeder, C. Aalbregtse, K. Peabody, R. Warfield, and K. Ferguson. Mrs. Hampton proved a valuable aid to the team.

The Speech Club organized, electing the following officers: Helen Face, president; Kenneth Ferguson, vice-president; Natalie Oversmith, secretary-treasurer.

People who have been outstanding in speech compose the club. They are: C. Aalbregtse, G. Barber, S. Bentley, V. Brownfield, H. Face, K. Ferguson, R. Hale, W. Lch, M. More, N. Oversmith, D. Packard, K. Peabody, J. Schroeder, M. Scott, J. Stage, and M. Weers.

The artists of Marshall High School again splashed bright social and artistic achievements upon the canvas of activities for the M. H. S. Art Club.

The chief brush-wielder and palette-holder was Miss Elizabeth Burgett.

Various Raphaels, Michelangelos, and Fra Angelicos left their paints long enough to entertain the critics with Christmas carols on the eve of Yule-tide.

These masters of line and design sponsored three art exhibits: one of Old Michigan Architecture from the J. L. Hudson Co.; another of winners in Scholastic's contest, sent by the American Crayon Co.; and again our color-revelers participated in the rotating art exhibit with six neighboring high schools.

Quips and quirks of mummery characterized the antics of initiates at by far the most jovial social meeting of the year. The scavenger hunt proved to be a regular hey-day, as did the waffle-party; and even the routine business get-togethers were highlighted by the escapades of the artist embryonics.

Gazing back on the varied scenes portrayed by the artists of Marshall High, we discern a panorama of variegated activities.

The Marshall Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, with Mr. Culver D. Wilcox as overseer, has driven ahead reaping their harvest in school and outside activities.

These would-be-ploughmen assisted the farmers of the community by establishing a laboratory, testing soil and milk.

This productive self-financed organization has beautified and aided the community by landscaping, planting trees, and constructing and operating feeding stations for wild life.

'Twas no husking-bee at which these modernites entertained their parents and former members, but a highly up-to-date parent-son banquet. Another successful social endeavor at which rural freshmen were informed of club requirements, structure, and purposes, was an added social stunt.

These future harness-slingers tested their basket sharp-shooting skill against neighboring F. F. A. basketeers.

Junior Farmers' Week lured these worthies to East Lansing for an interesting and educational visit.

This chapter participated in the National Best Chapter Contest which rewards the chapter in the nation accomplishing the most during the 38-39 year, local speaking contest, judging contest at Kellogg Consolidated Schools, and Swift Essay Contest.

A county F. F. A., sponsoring county judging and speaking contests, was organized in 1936-37 with Marshall's representatives Earl Abendshein, George Blanchard, and Ward Clark fulfilling the offices of secretary, treasurer, and reporter.

Green-hands are mowed down and raked over when initiated by the county degree team — cultivating the farming of this great nation.

On the evening of November 2, the party for the initiates in the home economics rooms proved a fun-fest and a food-feast. The flour and molasses didn't agree with some so well as with others. The key-grabbing was satisfactorily shocking.

On Friday, January 27, the Science Club members put on a battle royal in their pep assembly in preparation for the Sturgis game. The characters were "Joe Marshall Louis," played by Dean Maurer, and "John Henry Sturgis Lewis," portrayed by George Onderdonk. These two were fighting on even terms when "Marshall," little but game, landed with a solid smash sending tall and tired Sturgis down to defeat, counted out by Arthur Donovan Miller. Many celebrities, including Katherine Hepburn Thomas, Dead End Kids More and Hoenes, Myrna Loy Francisco, Sonja Henie Aldrich, Popeye Reeg, Zasu Pitts McClure, and Gene Tunney Bachman attended this pugilists' battle.

At the ringside was "Clem McCarthy Orn," bringing the battle of the centuries to millions of radio listeners.

The Science Club took its first trip to Kalamazoo on Friday, January 20, 1939, and enjoyed a busy day taking in the Upjohn Chemical Company, State Hospital, and the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company.

Spring trips were also on the program.

HI-Y

W. Taffee V. Zull

The Hi-Y is the high school organization of the Young Men's Christian Association. The Marshall chapter was organized two years ago. The present membership is considered about ideal for clubs in schools the size of Marshall.

The Hi-Y started its activities last fall with a potluck supper and motion pictures. In addition to the several business meetings at which the following officers presided: Wendal Thompson, Roger Corrigan, Harold Lower, Lawrence Desy, and George Onderdonk (president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and sergeant-at-arms respectively), there have been discussion meetings, recreational meetings, (both indoors and outdoors), and joint meetings at Battle Creek with the Battle Creek Hi-Y clubs. At the latter they had sterling good times, eating and playing basketball, and incidentally winning their share of the games.

The Hi-Y sponsored the assembly at which Dr. Samuel Grafflin spoke. The Hi-Y Club sent a representative to the Older Boys' Conference at Grand Rapids.

The Hi-Y promotes Clean Living, Clean Athletics, Clean Speech, Clean Scholarship, and Christian Character.

LIBRARY CLUB

CHECKING out mystery stories, biographies, histories, dramas, every type of magazine from "Photoplay" to "The Nation"; wearing out shoe leather carrying notices for books long past due; every Friday unscrambling the books in their respective sections: all these comprise the duties which keep these seven proteges of Miss Dorothy Powell busy during their hours in the library.

Junior and senior girls make up the Library Club, formerly under the sponsorship of Mrs. Martha Parry. Mrs. Frances Miller aids the girls in their work, and is an invaluable asset.

One hundred and twenty-five new books adorned our shelves this year, at a cost of two hundred and fifteen dollars. The library has grown into a major project, indeed.

APPRENTICESHIP

LAST July, the local apprenticeship training program, completing its first year successfully, and with better methods and a substantially larger group of apprentices, launched into its second year. Marshall was the third city in Michigan to adopt a vocational guidance program. Since then, twenty-one other cities have inaugurated such courses, and approximately seven hundred apprentices are now enrolled.

The program, capably engineered by Mr. H. H. Harrison, is under the supervision of Mr. Holmes, who is in turn responsible to the State Board of Control for Vocational Education. The related class room instruction is supervised by the University of Michigan.

The all-year course is open to juniors, seniors, and people out of school sixteen years of age or over. The purpose of the course is to give the student both practical and academic instruction in his chosen vocation. An apprentice spends one-half of the day in related class room work, and one-half day employed in local industrial and business concerns. He receives a high school — in addition to a trade — diploma, granted jointly by the local school board and the state vocational board.

FRENCH CLUB

“PARLEZ-vous Francais?” The new French teacher, Miss Dorothy Powell, organized a French Club, with the interests of the students in mind for learning more about the customs and language of our romantic friends across the sea. Emily Brooks was president of this cultural organization; Eugene Moushey, vice-president; and Sally Bentley, secretary-treasurer. The club has a constitution which members must adhere to in every detail, in order to remain a member. “Les garçons et filles” met every two weeks at the High School, except for a few social occasions.

All members of the beginning and advanced French classes were eligible to the club, unless guilty of a “faux pas” in relation to the rules.

YOUTH ORGANIZATION

WITH Mr. Hoimes the originator, and Mr. Fuog (followed by Mr. Lott) the faculty advisor, the newly-organized Marshall Youth Association undertook the responsibility of supplying facilities for dancing during the year, for the pepladen feet of the high school students and the young people of the community.

Kathleen Francisco, cooperating with a committee, ably selected the orchestras. Everything from jitterbug bands to slow-motion orchestras harmonized for the delight of the terpsichoreans once a week throughout the year.

The officers of the Association were: Roger Johnson, president; Lohrman Zerble, vice-president; and Kathleen Francisco, secretary and treasurer.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

THE Photography Club was organized February 24, 1939. The club included eight snap-shot shooters: Mr. Robert E. Lott, sponsor; Wesley Sayer, president; Lawrence Woods, secretary and treasurer; Mario Acevedo, Robert Burlingame, Sherwood Frezon, Kenneth Peabody, William Taffee, and Kenneth Ferguson.

The club met each Friday afternoon after school, for a short business meeting followed by a program featuring some particular phase of photography on which a student or a visiting expert spoke. Two members worked in the dark room (the laboratory closet) each afternoon, to develop and print. Projects launched were the enlarging of pictures and building dark room equipment.

ARCHERY

THESE Cupids, or Robin Hoods, or what-have-you's, clutching massive bows and arrows, completed their second successful year under the supervision of Mr. Hulbert who introduced this interesting activity into our extra curriculum. Robert Clayborn, president in 1938, was a great help to the new members in demonstrating to them the construction of the bow and arrow.

The Archers appreciated the privilege granted them by Mr. Hulbert of using the Manual Arts room for their regular meetings each Tuesday night, when the boys worked on their bows and arrows.

The officers were: president, Wendal Thompson; secretary and treasurer, Rex Hoenes. The remaining members are Morris Harvey, Frederick Miller, and Jesse Stage.

BADMINTON

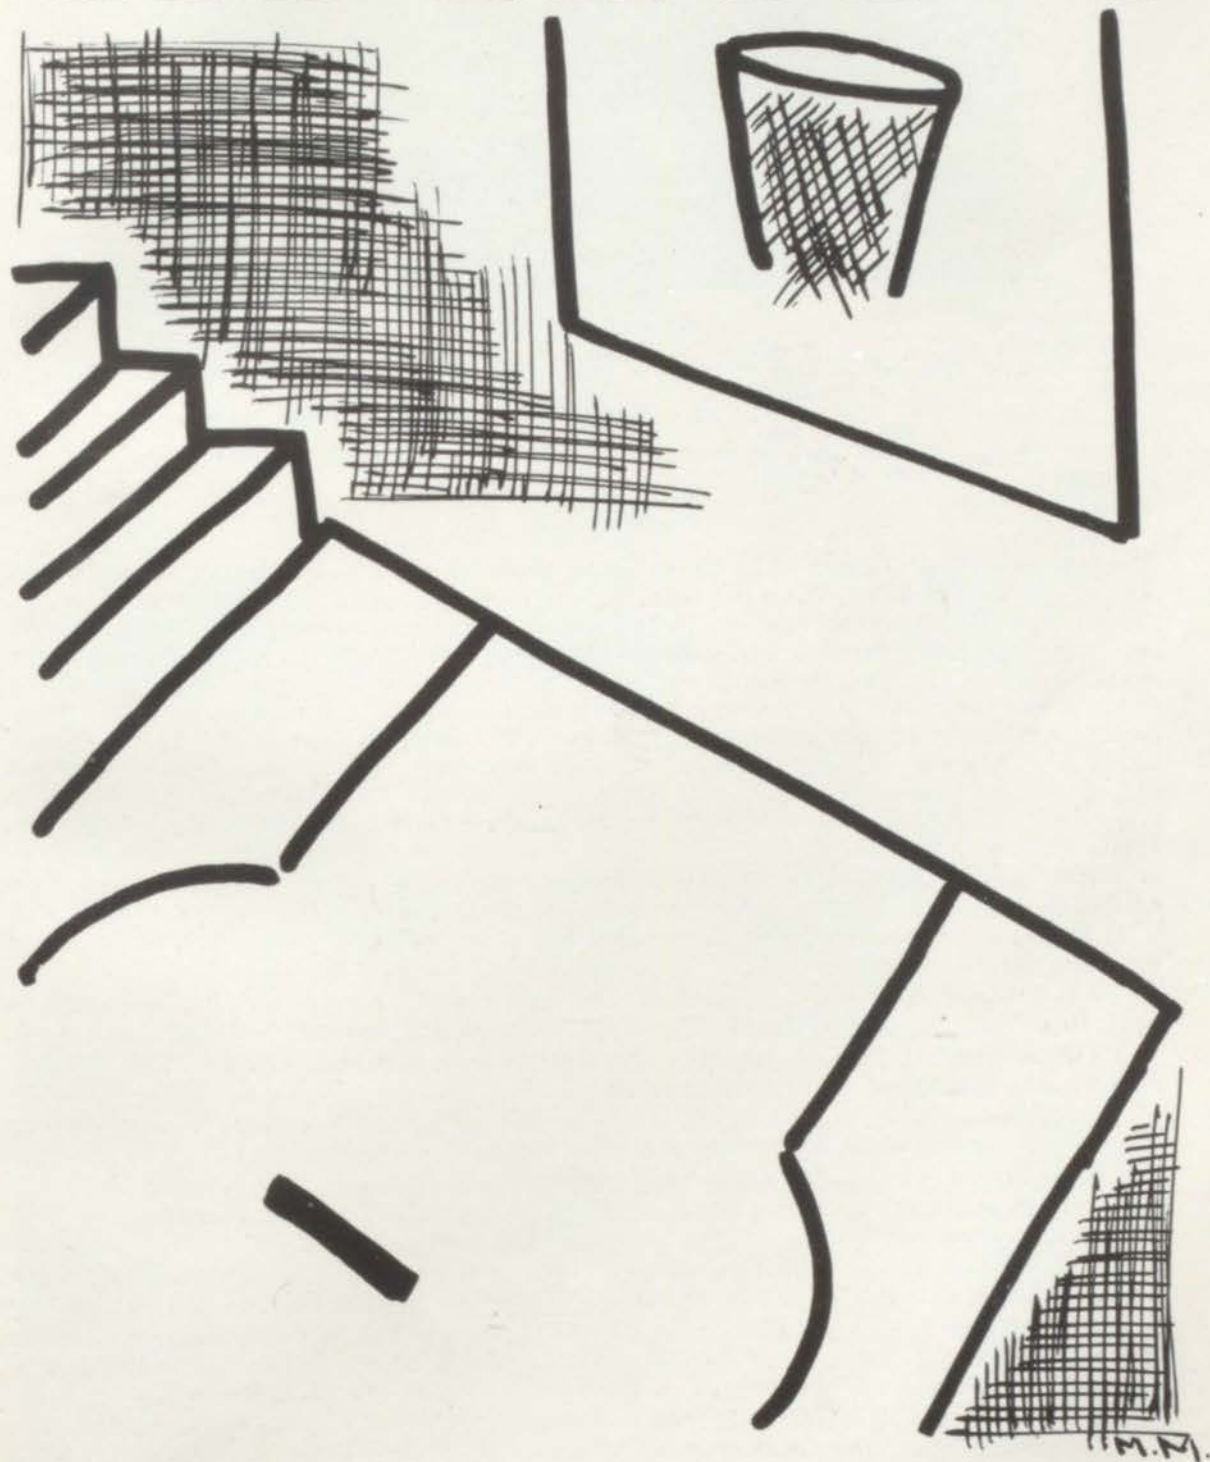

THE bird batters of M. H. S. opened the school year with a tournament in which thirty lads and lassies participated. The winners of the tournament were given a chance to participate in rivalry with other schools. Contests were held with Hillsdale High and Olivet College. Miss Whitley sponsored the group again this year.

Helen Mackey, Marilyn Staver, Jack Stuart, Bob Ellis, Maurice Stulberg, and Myron Ells were bright particular stars. Jack ie Sentz and Betty Hazel gave indications of future expertness.

FOOTBALL

THE score is tied 13 all. The timekeeper glues his eyes to the flying second hand of his stop watch. The fleet second hand reaches the fifty-third mark on the timer's watch. Seven seconds to go! Ball in Marshall's possession! Albion fighting to stop this last Redskin onslaught! Marshall, everything to gain! Albion, everything to lose! The Redskins come out of their huddle! Can they carry the pigskin over that last white stripe just five yards away? Albion digs in! The timer tightens his grip on the trigger of his gun! The ball is snapped! The fullback charges! The gun bangs! Silence! Has he made it? The referee dives into a mass of scrambling arms and legs! The attempt is short! Two sighs — Marshall's, a groan of disappointment; Albion's, an ejaculation of relief. The annual Armistice Day battle ends in a tie.

Bob Miller, in the first important event of the football year, was elected captain of Coach Carr's footballers. Assistant Coach Gray tutored the second stringers. This fact, plus new floodlights on our athletic field, diffused a cheery atmosphere over our tribe's camp.

On September 24 our warriors traveled to Flint Central's hunting grounds to play this Class A. aggregation. The Flint Central Indians scalped our tribe 26-0.

On September 30 our Redskins played the role of an impolite host to the Adrian Maple Leafs, the Maple Leafs falling 26-0.

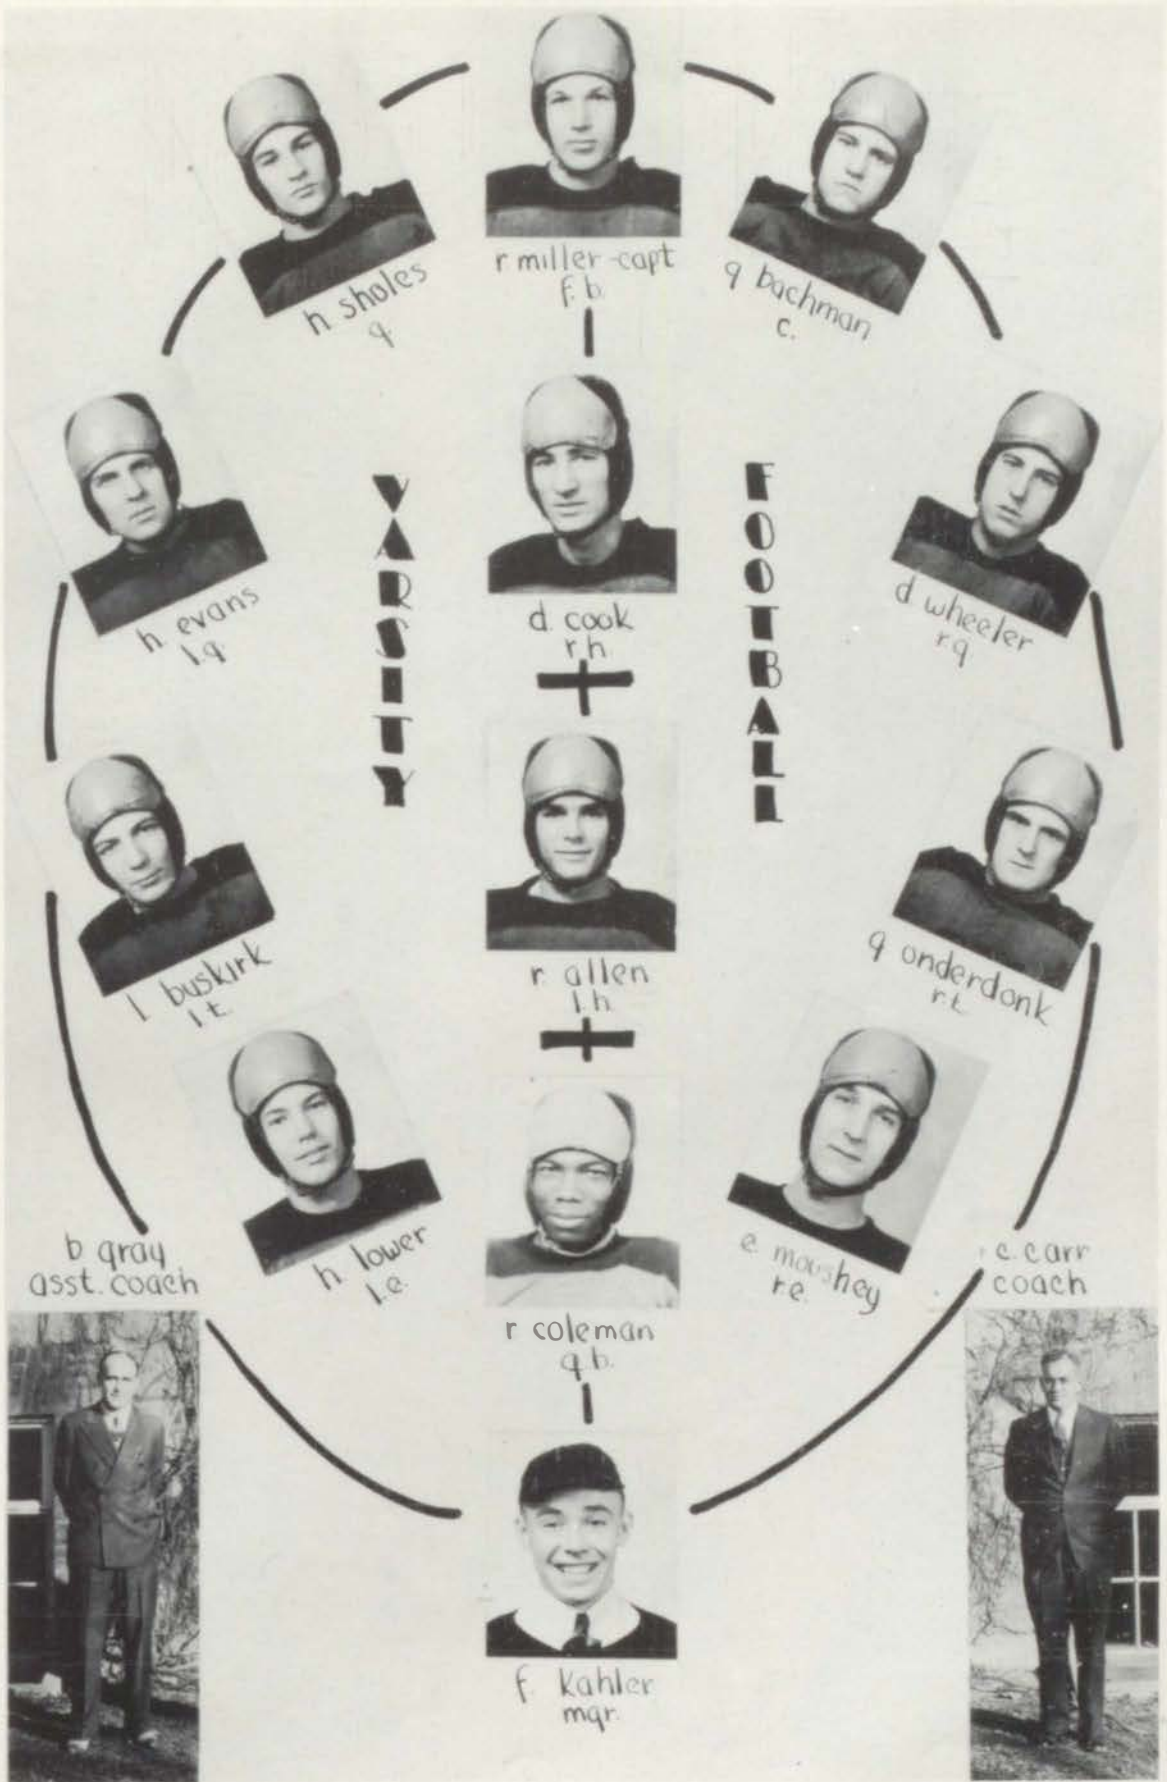

On October 8 the Battle Creek team journeyed here. We were kinder to our Class A opponents than to Adrian, and they emerged victorious 19-14.

On October 14 the Cardinals from Coldwater winged over our encampment. Another spine-chilling battle ensued; our War Chiefs plucked the feathers from the Red-Birds to the tune of 20-19.

On October 21 the Redskins again hit the trail, this time to the battlefield of the Sturgis Trojans. OUCH! The worst defeat for a Redskin team in years, 31-0.

On November 5 the Marshallites turned their tomahawks on St. Augustine. This time our hatchets, dulled by some unknown grinding wheel, lacked a keen enough edge to cut down the Augustines, and we took the short end of a 27-7 score.

In the T. V. Conference, Marshall finished third with three wins, one defeat, and one tie. Three boys from Marshall, Capt. Bob Miller, Rosey Coleman, and Don Wheeler attained positions on the all-T. V. team. These same boys placed on the all-county team, and received honorable mention on the all-state team.

BASKETBALL

THE Redskin quintette garnered nine scaps from thirteen bloody frays in the 38-39 season. They shared second spot with Sturgis in the Twin Valley finish.

Marshall rolled along, bowling over every foe until it struck that arch-enemy, Albion. We vanquished Jackson St. John's twice, Sturgis twice, likewise Coldwater and Adrian; and Hillsdale once. The flu epidemic checkmated our second attempt against the latter, and our breakdown proved their salvation from a complete "nullo" deal in the T. V. Albion took Marshall's measure three times, once by a one-point margin.

Came the tournaments! Everyone predicted victory in the big college gym. The oracles read the stars awry. We led at the half, but bowed to height and might, 38-34. However the score doesn't reveal the spectacular story of Marshall's gallant men of mettle in their never-to-be-forgotten fourth quarter rally.

Capt. Fred Kahler, polling the largest number of player-votes on the ballots, topped the final All-Twin Valley list. He won the conference free-throw title by two tosses. Lower, Samson, and Miller attained honorable mention. In spite of Albion and influenza, Coach Carr and his plucky, skillful five checked up another far-above-average season. M. H. S. chalked up three hundred eighty-one points against their competitors' three hundred two.

BASEBALL

GRASPING their war clubs firmly, co-chiefs Miller and Kahler astutely led their band of ball scalpers bravely forth, onto the battle ground of baseball. The sturdy band of some twenty men (some wig-wam full) included seven braves famous for their warring ability in past hunting seasons. The spring campaign consisted of two unofficial wars (not T. V.) with Class A Jackson, and one with a wandering tribe of fire-eaters, Blanchard. Besides scalping contests with Coldwater, Albion, Adrian, Hillsdale, and Sturgis, practice T. V. club fests were engaged in with Albion and Coldwater. Early printing prevents publishing outcomes of these bloody clashes.

TRACK

CINDERS thrown haphazardously; flashing, flying spikes; muscles rippling; lithe, graceful forms, skimming low over hurdles; flashing figures; leaping bodies — the thin-clad war was held in the night air on May 17, under the floodlights of the local athletic field. Starting at five o'clock p. m., the qualifying heats in the varied contests were run off, but the final leaps and dashes for acclaim were given the added spectacle of night lighting.

East Lansing, the latest addition to the Twin Valley, participated in their first T. V. contest, while Sturgis withdrew from the competition. Marshall's opportunity for victory in this field-and-dash conflict greatly strengthened when members of the baseball squad were allowed as competitors on the track aggregation. Preceding the major combat of the year, Marshall attended a meet between Albion, Hillsdale, and Marshall. Due to our deadline, the outcome of these battles could not be included.

INTRAMURAL

FFIFTY-FOUR basketeers, future Twin Valley champs, reported for seventh, eighth, and ninth grade intramural basketball in January, the games continuing through February.

The intramural program, directed by Mario Acevedo, gave junior high athletes a firm grounding in the fundamentals of basketball — clean sportsmanship, accuracy, coordination, teamwork, and the technical points and problems of the actual game. Seniors Fred Kahler and Harold Lower were the efficient referees for the series.

Out of eight twenty-eight minute games played, the mighty 8-1's won seven, lost none, and tied one, playing their way to the championship with a percentage of 950; they were captained by Hills. The 9-3's, led by Captain Heckman, were runner-ups, with a percentage of 666.

High scorer for the champs was Christman, with 79 points, an average of 10 points to the game. High point man for the nine teams participating was Thornton of the 8-2's with a total of 94 points, an average of about 12 to the game. Also ranking high in scoring were: Wheeler, 9-3, with 71 tallies; Hazel, of the 8-3's, with a total of 59 points; Bennett of the 8-3's garnered 59; and Heckman, a 9-3, chalked up 52.

High school athletes also participated in hotly contested intramural basketball games.

The 12-1's, co-captained by Cook and Onderdonk, and the 11-1's, led by Metzgar, tied for the championship, each with a percentage of 900. Both teams won seven games, lost one, and tied none. The co-champions closest contender, with Corrigan as chief, was the 12-2 team, with a percentage of 650.

High scorers for the nine teams participating in the eight-game series were Onderdonk of the 12-11's with a total of 91; Cook, 12-1, with 83; Rogers, 11-1, who totalled 79 points; Schroeder, 12-2, with 57; and Ludy, 12-1, garnered 43 markers.

In inter-tribe warfare, the blood-thirsty seniors proved themselves the mightiest wielder of the tomahawk on the basketball floor. After humbling the jolted juniors, 41-23, in a fast game, sparkling with fine and accurate passing, the mightiest warriors trod down the rampaging sophomores in the decisive game of the tournament. Rapidly sinking several short shots, breaking the half-time 6-6 tie, the desperate sophomores momentarily blewup, which resulted in a 22-11 victory for the "big chiefs." Previous to this loss the fighting sophomore team drubbed the hapless papoose (Freshman) five, 73-11. The victors were hot, missing hardly a shot in the first half. Medicine Man Carr officiated at these contests in which the seniors stoically moccasined off with the laurels. Braves in the honor tribe were: Kahler, Lower, Miller, Samson, and Onderdonk.

Rosey Coleman, chosen quarterback on All-Twin Valley and All-County teams; honorable mention on the All-State Team at this same post.
