We are... at Starting MHS

Q & A

Top Left: A Great thing about Marshall High School is the location. It is easy to find and the signs help out too. Top Right: Another thing Marshall is known for is the fantastic sports teams. We are definitely a competitive team in the Twin Valley. Bottom: Marshall is a great place to be. Many students agree our campus is one of the best. " I like all of our trade-marks, like the big Marshall High School sign," said senior Catherine Crouse.

Are You Ready?
This is where it all starts, the MHS Basketball court. Many fun assemblies have been held here as well as competitive sporting games.

We have Redskin Pride!
Despite all the controversy of the Redskin Logo, students will always be proud of Marshall High School.

We Rock...
Perhaps the Rock outside the football stadium is the most monumental symbol at MHS. Many names have been on it.

Opening, By Molly Miller & Bethany Weare

Q: What's your favorite thing about being HERE at Marshall High School?

A: "Hanging out with my friends at four corners."

Elizabeth Neidlinger, Freshman

A: "You basically know everyone; drama also gives me giggles."

Katie Murphy, Sophomore

A: "There are more people to get to know, and seminar class to finish work."

Tasha Grove, Junior

A: "Being a Redskin and being proud of our spirit at MHS."

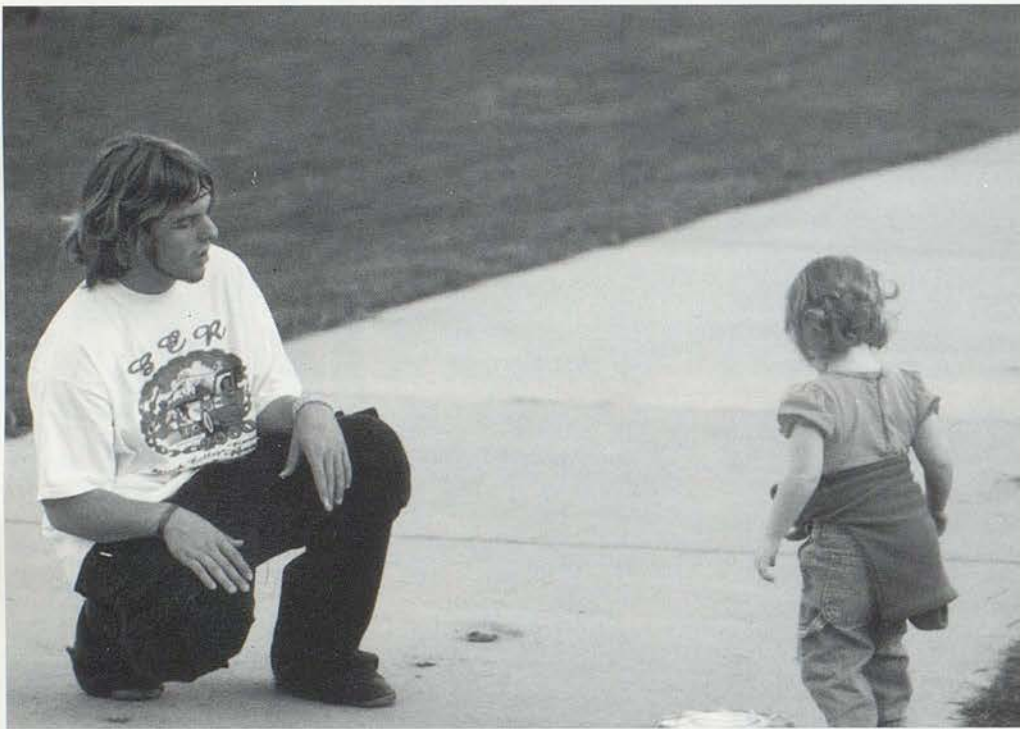

Molly Miller, Senior

Playtime + Joey = Fun Time

Always willing to lend a helping hand, senior Joey Wilson plays some frisbee with a fellow soccer fan. "I thought I'd take a break from my long, extensive barbeque grilling to play with my friend," Joe said.

Excited for Education

Learning new skills on the computers is one of the many advantages of being in high school. "I love being an individual at Marshall High School because you get to meet a lot of new people and learn new games," Kara Keibala, sophomore, said.

What's my Age Again?

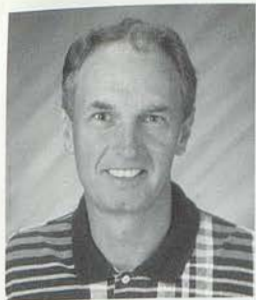

Nightmare on Science Street
She may not be Freddy, but Mrs. Krueger still finds a way to scare students into studying. Mr. Skeleton keeps an eye on the class while she corrects papers with the mere lift of a finger.

Get to Work...

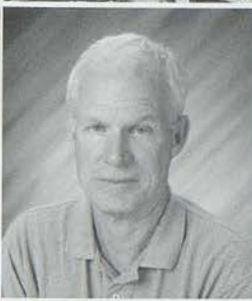

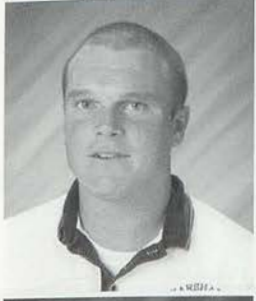

"Mr Triece was mad that day so he was about to lick his fingers and give us another assignment," said freshman Kaitlin Smith. Mr. Triece has another story saying, "I was about to start yelling at someone for not following directions."

Where are my buttons?

"You should have all big papers in by the end of this semester, or I will have to push your buttons. I'm not saying... I'm just saying," Mr. Burns said.

Can I enjoy that tasty beverage?

"I was getting so thirsty that I had to hold my throat. Mr. McCauley wanted me to finish my work before I could drink the delicious Coke," sophomore Chris Sayers said.

Don't Quit

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will, when the road you're trudging seems all up hill, when the funds are low and the debts are high, and you want to smile, but you have to sigh, when care is pressing you down a bit-- Rest if you must, but don't you quit. Life is queer with its twists and turns, as every one of us sometimes learns, and many a person turns about when they might have won had they stuck it out-- You may succeed with another blow. Often the struggler has given up when he might have captured the victor's cup; and he learned too late when the night came down how close he was to the golden crown. Success is failure turned inside out-- So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit,-- It's when things seem worse that you mustn't quit.

Seniors enjoy their last year together

Grrrr!!!

Uh oh! Senior Ryan O'Compton is mad about all the work he has to do. "I took this block to sleep, and this is what I got!"

Girls all pause

"Man, I tell you lately..seems no one can fade me!" Travis Sims said.

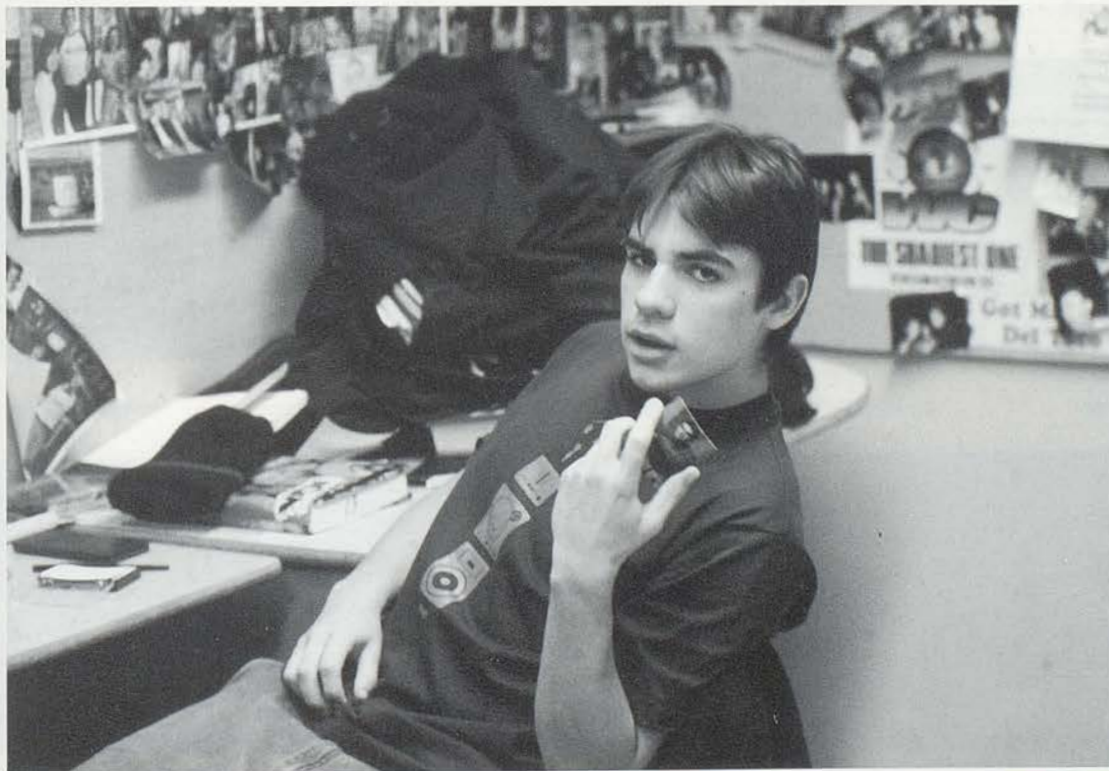

Basketball is fun

Some people in Marshall think that football is the best sport, but Mark Loyer and Jon Hausler beg to differ. They're all smiles in this friendly game of one on one.

What a wonderful world

"Art is exposing scenes from your imagination," said Kristi Paavo as she ponders what will flow from her pencil next.

Behold!... The Prince of Narsbee

"Yes, I am the Prince of Narsbee, and we will crush you pitiful disc hurlers," Joe Wilson said.

I Think We're Alone Now

Seniors bid farewell to MHS

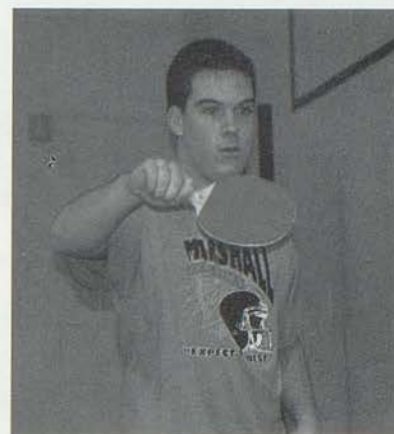

Deep Thought

Concentrating at the task at hand during Studio Art are Amy Romanowski and Samantha Case. "I enjoy art class... especially the paintings. They really let me express myself," Samantha said.

Drumming to the beat

Performing during the Homecoming assembly is Damascus drummer John Lambrix. "We are just four guys who like to play. We got together once, and it was pure chemistry," John said.

Pure Concentration

During Redskin Fitness Kyle Albrecht focuses on his ping-pong match. "Gym is a great class. It is a lot of fun, and it is a break from my tough academic schedule," Kyle said.

The Plan is ...

Discussing the tactics for the upcoming basketball game are Brad McCormack and Coach Dan Coddens. "I really enjoyed my Senior season. It was a great experience. The team really came together," Brad said.

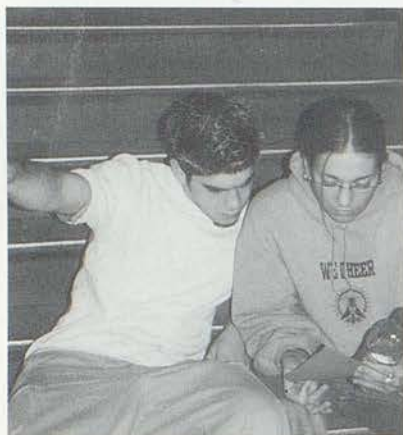

Come join the fun

Looking out the door to see what is going on during Women's Ensemble is Ashley Nichols. "I love this class. It is lots of fun. We are like a family," Ashley said.

Time to Break Free

Seniors are Ready for a New Beginning

Remembering the good old times

Reviewing a pass they are about to deliver and reminiscing about all the fond memories they have of MHS are Ryan Varner and Tonya Dawson. "My Senior Homecoming is the event that I will never forget," Tonya said.

Elizabeth Roberts

Practice Makes Perfect

All four of these girls have been involved in the music department throughout their four years at MHS. Here they practice for an upcoming performance. "My fondest memory of choir was performing at the Chamber Fest," Courtney Burdette said.

Y ou Are Here To Have Fun

Everyone knows that high school is the best four years of your life, but no one expects it to go by as quickly as it does. Throughout the course of those four years, students are able to participate in numerous activities and attend many formal dances.

Tae-Bo 1 on 1

Finger Licken Good

Who knew reading a book could be so tasty? Sophomore Vanessa Lindsey understood the concept of a "good book".

----- You are here to have fun..

They came all the way to America...

To Sleep?

Are metal benches better than wooden benches... After the girl's last home swim meet, senior exchange student Rieke Wiehler decided to rest after her big night of swimming.

Dreaming of the Falls...

On his way to Niagra Falls, senior exchange student Stian Ottem was watching the movie "Never Been Kissed." "I fell asleep because it was so boring," Stian said.

The Lord of the Dance...

"It's 2 AM and I'm tired of dancing and translating," exchange student Yoshihiro Mukumota said. Here he is sleeping after the Homecoming dance.

German Dreamer...

"I speak English, but dream in German," senior exchange student Matthias Wolff said. Here he is dreaming in German.

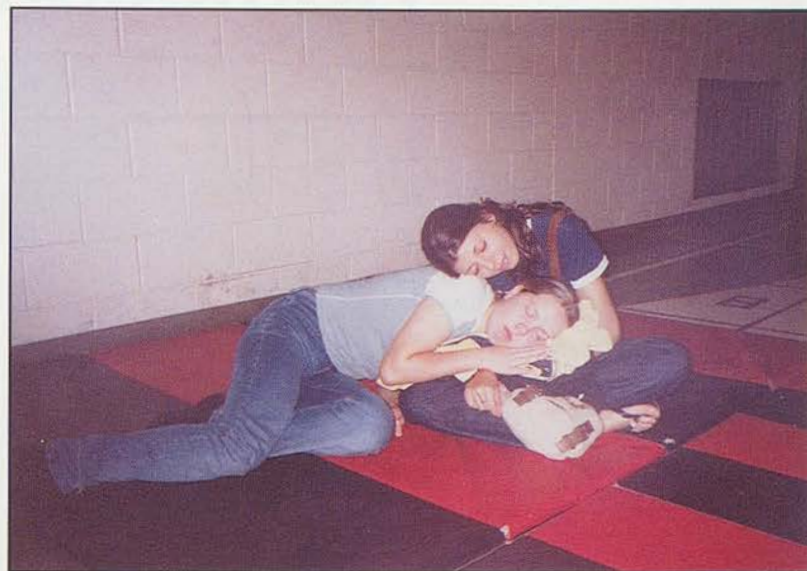

Sleeping Beauty...

"I was so excited about Homecoming dance and so sleepy that I didn't care about watching the movie, I just wanted to sleep," senior exchange student Chie Okada said.

Wakie Wakie Drowsy Sleepers...

After watching an exhausting swim meet, seniorexchange students Camila Teixeira and Heddy Veeleid fell asleep as well.

"I'm enjoying so much being here, because everything is different of my country. The experience is good and I'm learning my English," Marcela Barra said.

Imagine living ten thousand miles away and packing up all your belongings and leaving all your friends and family behind as you make your way toward that small speck on the map known as Marshall, Michigan. Can one even begin to think about how scared and exhausting all of this must be for them?

Between August and September 2000 Matthias Wolff, Marcela Barra, Yoshihro Mukumota, Chie Okada, Stian Ottem, Jouke Posma, Camila Teixeira, Heddy Veeleid, and Rieke Wiehler came to Marshall. Not knowing what to expect or what would come out of all this, or the fact that you're being isolated from everyone you ever knew, these nine courageous kids took the opportunity to flee their homeland and move into a house with people they've never met.

"I was so excited to come here, but my first day in school was so confusing and funny. Now I'm liking, because I know nice people," senior exchange student Marcela Barra said.

"I think that people are very friendly here. The school is very different. At my school in Estonia, they give you a time card and you choose your classes for the week. Now I like here very much," senior exchange student Heddy Veeleid said.

Homecoming Daze...

Floats, Dress, and Craze

No escaping a Redskin... was the Junior's theme from the movie King Kong. "We spent many long hours of hard work and it all paid off in the end with our first place award," many juniors said.

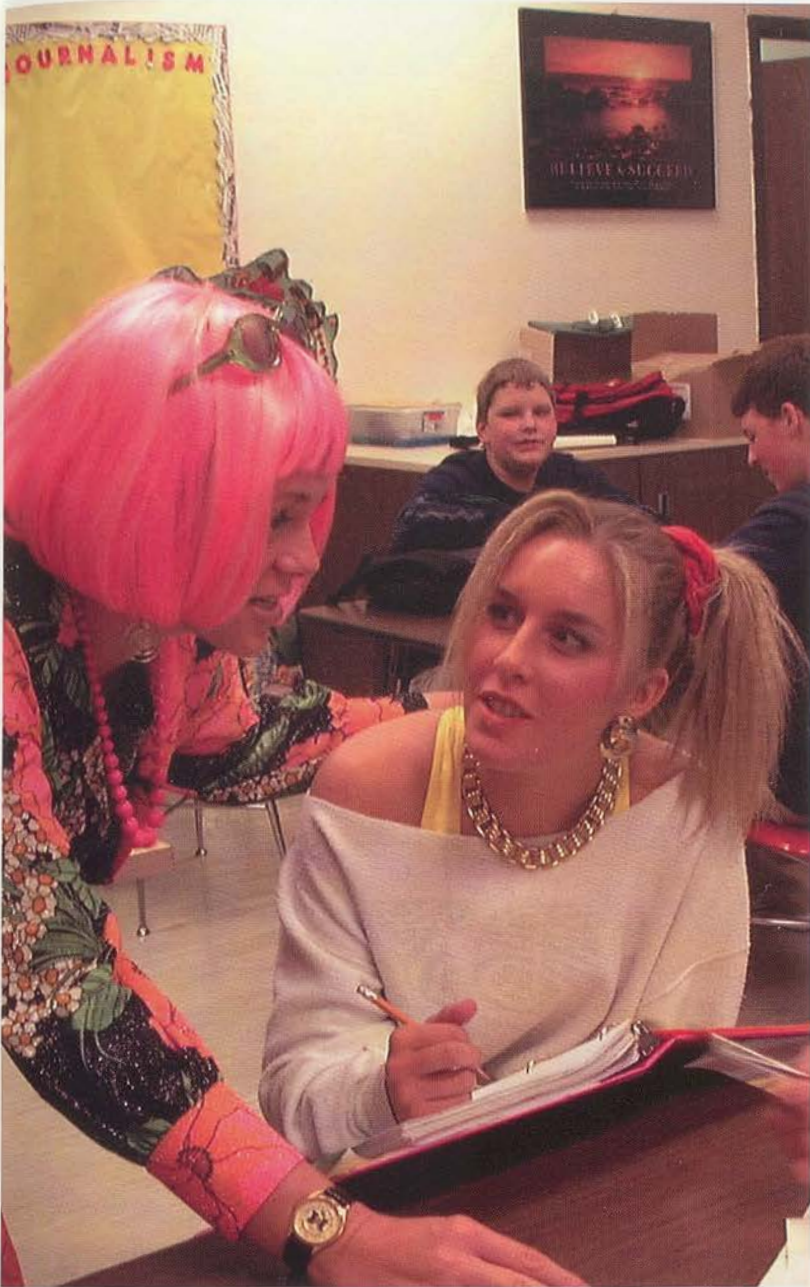

That's hilarious "When Aaron Ebner spit out half his Mountain Dew on the gym floor I couldn't contain myself," freshman Lauren Fletcher said explaining what was so funny.

Headless horseman or headless horse? After the freshman's head of the horse fell off, the frosh managed to get it back together before the judges sneaked a peek and awarded them with third place.

You wish you were a junior The juniors united as one to cheer on their fellow classmates participating in the events. The junior's hard work payed off with another first place finish.

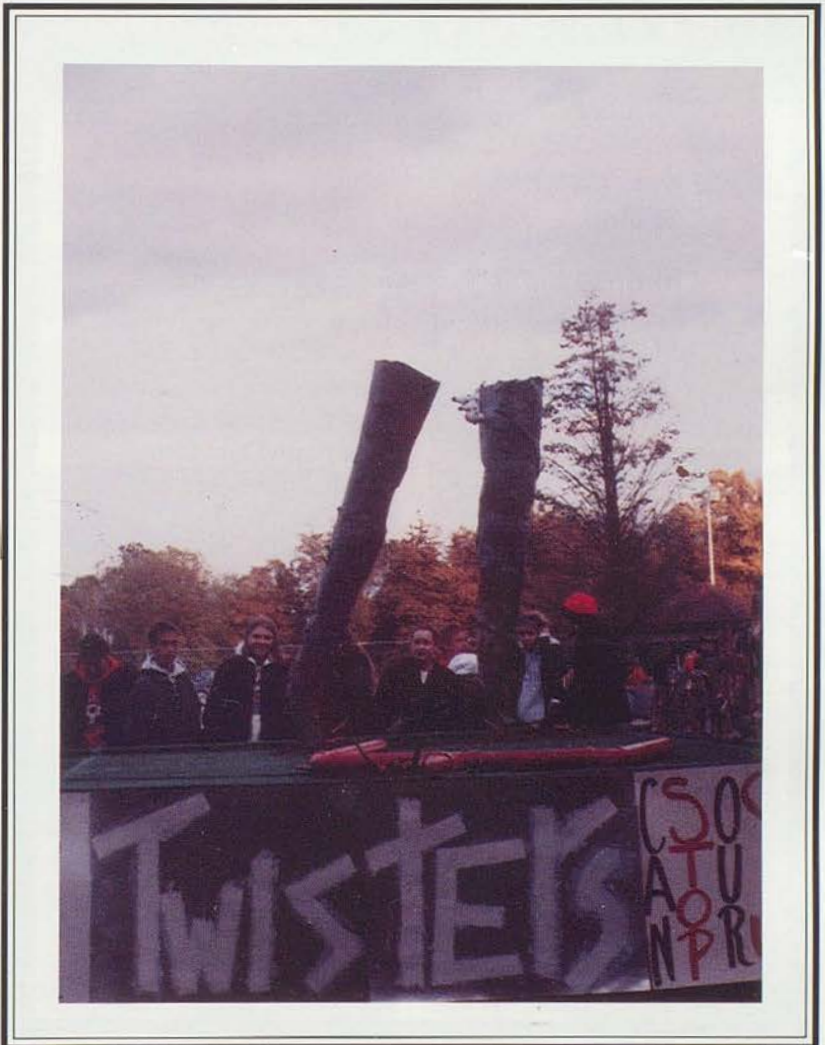

Are you sure?

Amazed at how well her teacher dressed for the occasion of crazy day. "Maybe her mind is crazy today too," said Beth Weare as she questions Mrs. Long's authority.

Step into my Colosseum

The seniors made their last high school float reflecting the movie Gladiator. Although they didn't win this battle, they still earned their second place prize.

Sister Twisters...

may not be able to stop the Redskins, but stopped the sophomores right in their tracks with a fourth place finish.

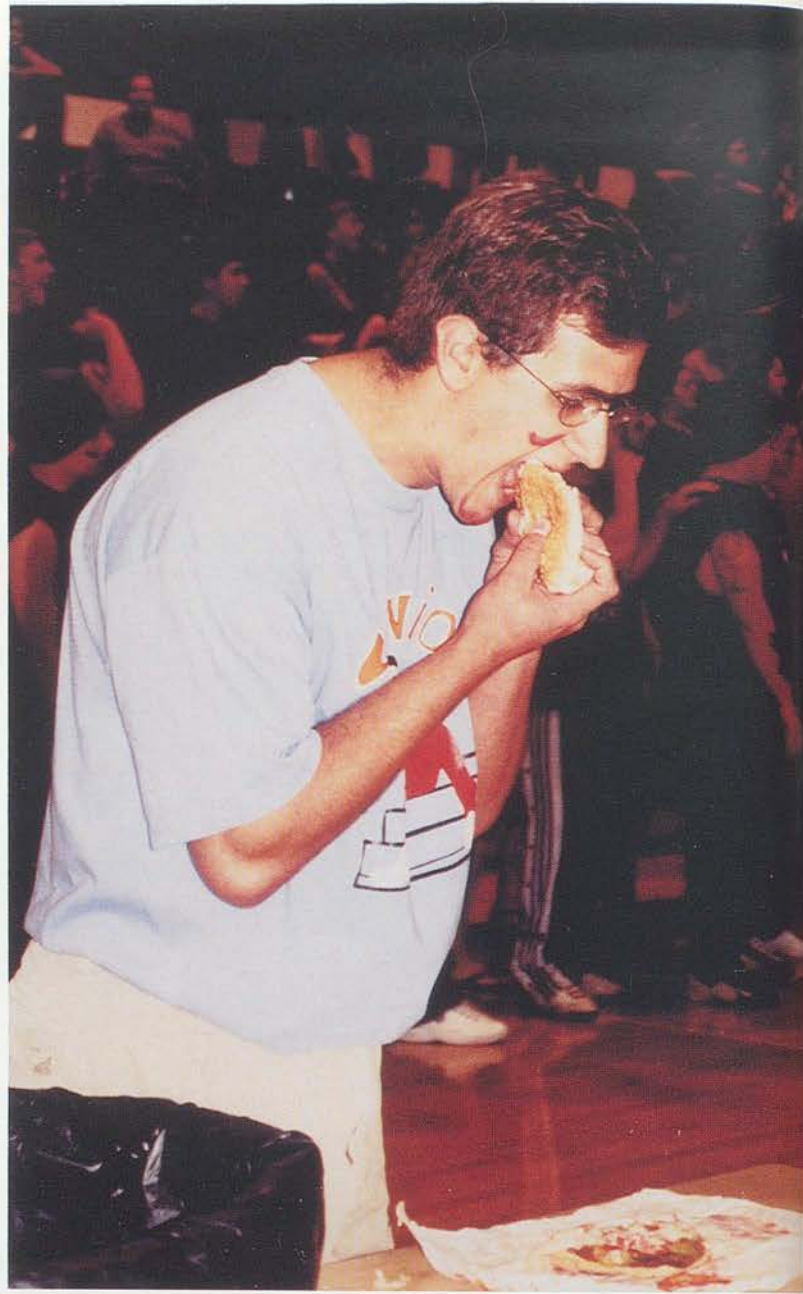

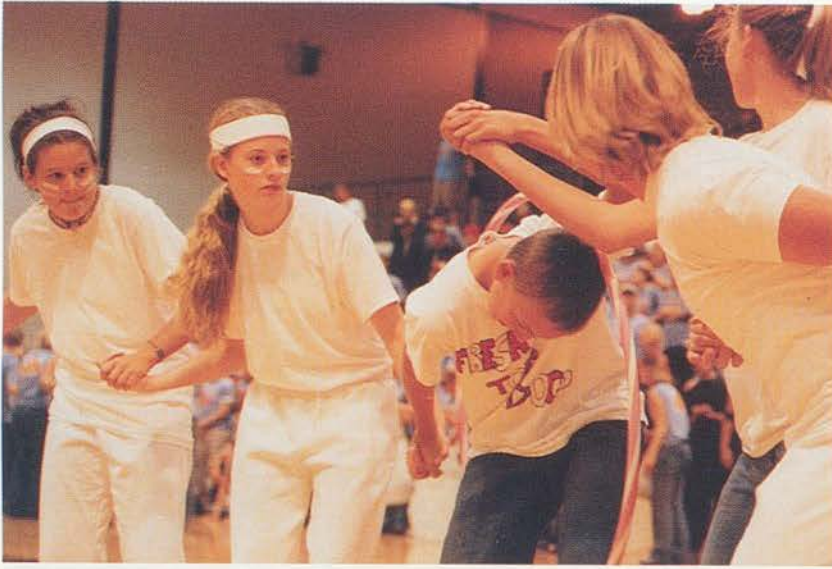

You are here to have fun...

Concentration!

Equals class participation! Freshmen Erin Skidmore and Hannah Robbins watch as Lance Crull concentrates on getting through the hoop. Overall the freshmen recieved third place in the hula-hoop race.

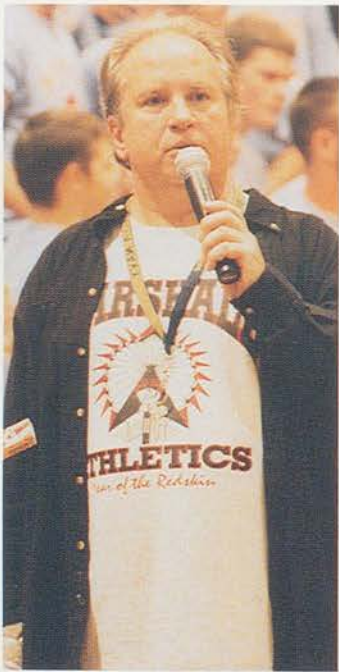

On your mark...get set...CHOW!

The first person to finish his or her whopper finds out what it means to be full, as senior Joe Hutchings found out. Joe and other participants agree... "Somebody's gotta do it!"

The First Story of Homecoming

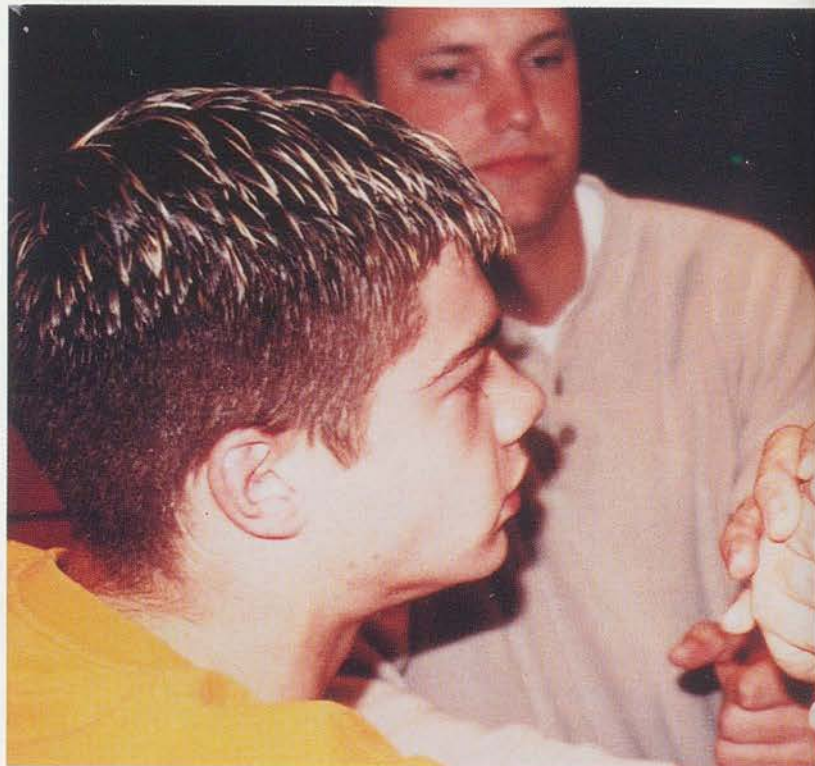

Let the Games of the 2000 Homecoming Activities Begin.

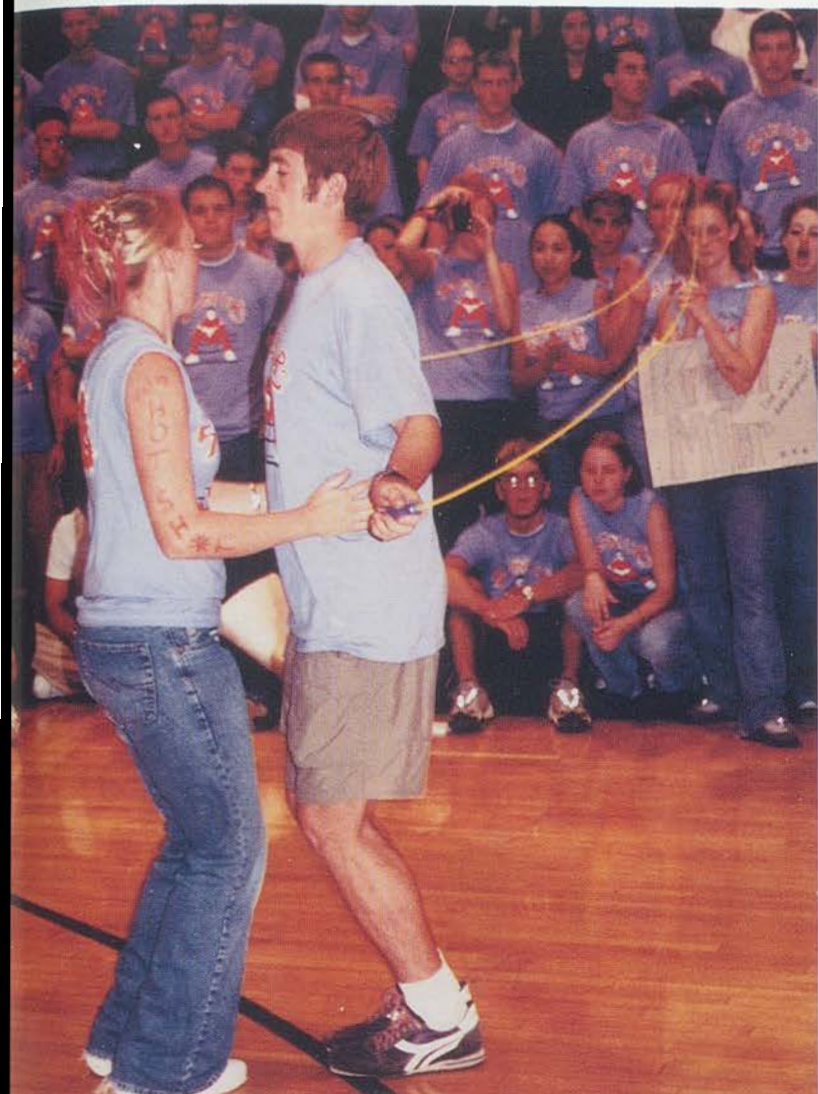

In the beginning, Marshall High School Homecoming Games were created. Then Mr. Burns said, "Let there be competition," and there was competition. The classes competed against each other in various events such as the Mountain Dew Chug, football hike, and arm wrestling. Then he said, "Let there be class pride," and there was pride. Each class dressed in one of the school colors to show their class spirit. Finally he said, "Let there be unity, so all Redskins unite as one," and all the classes came together to show their support for the football team. Burns saw all that was created, and it was very, very good.

Freshmen...Senior?

The arm wrestling competition gets very intense as senior Ian Root finds out. Freshman Lance Kilbourn recieved third place for his class by defeating a senior.

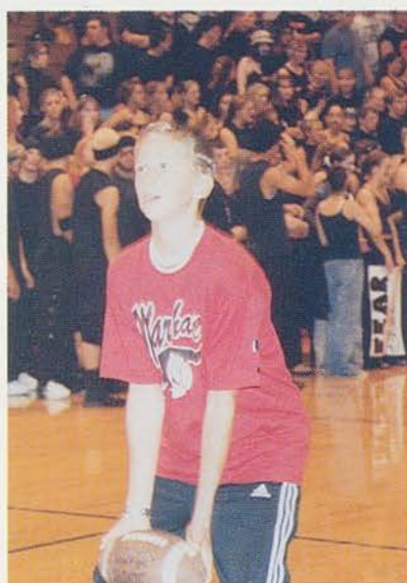

"And the gym is Jumpin' Jumpin'!" Underclassmen leave your ropes at home, the gym is full of seniors and the outcome is known. And all you others better understand, seniors Jessi Johnson and Rob Backlund won before they began.

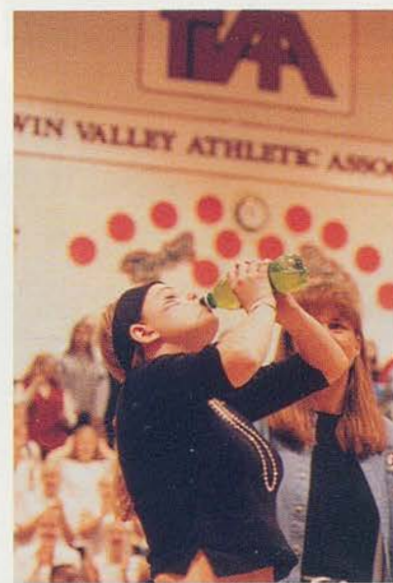

Get Psyched...

It's the Football Hike. Freshman Kristen Welch assumes the position to Hut, Hut, Hike! No matter the great efforts put forth by the freshmen class, all teams were disqualified, except the sophomores.

Granny Style!
Displaying his old school basketball skills which were taught to him by his grandma, sophomore Collin Hoffmann readies his toss.

Chug-a-lug, chug-a-lug...
What time is it...? It's Mountain Dew Chug time. Junior Jenna Hurd represents her class by gulping until she receives the 2nd place female chugging title.

----- You are here to have fun...

Catch the fever...the dancin' fever.

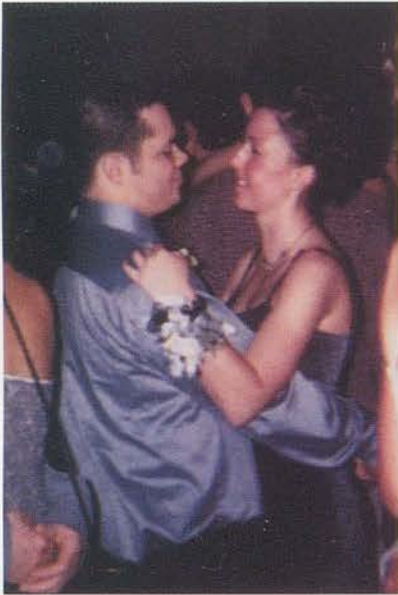

The "Saturday Night Fever" craze has everyone dancing!

I'll treat you right girl

"I'm everything you'll ever need," junior Ian Stewart said to junior Jenny Stulberg. Although Ian and Jenny didn't go to homecoming together, they stated, "We still had a wonderful time."

When I look into your eyes...

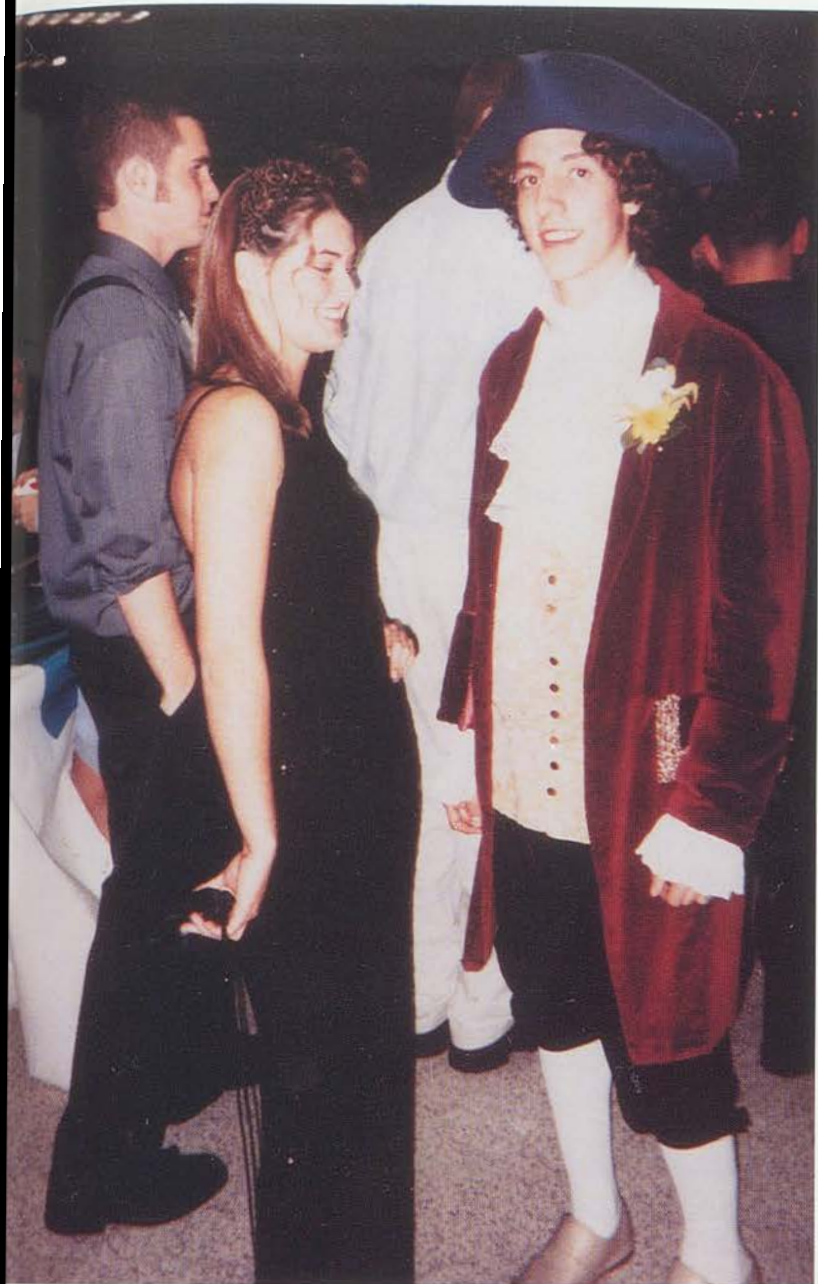

"I can't stop laughing," senior Dawn Saylor said. "I loved dancing the night away with my babe while making faces at her!" Ian said.

"There's bugs all over you," says senior Doug Rasher as he tried to wipe them off her. Senior Stacey Roberts just smiles pretty for their picture.

"Who are these guys?" asked sophomore Justin Vanderberg. These soccer boys can't seem to stay out of everyone else's pictures.

"Is Jeff at the right dance?" senior Emily Taylor asks. Jeff Hammer decided to dress up in a little "Saturday Night Fever" from the 1700s. "It was fun to dance with Paul Revere," Emily said.

One last dance "I'm glad I could spend such a special night with such a special person," senior Kristen Dominique said of her date Jon Hausler.

"Nuh-uh...you did not just step on my platinum kicks." ~ Aubrey McCauley

Where were you on the night of October 7, 2000? Many Marshall High students laughed the evening away at dinner, and then headed off to the exciting, "Saturday Night Fever" Homecoming dance.

"My favorite part of the night was going to three different restaurants for dinner," said junior Josh Petty.

The cheerleaders, as always, transformed the cafeteria into a "Saturday Night Fever" dance by decorating with disco balls, passing out beaded necklaces, and providing an abundance of blacklights and smoke out on the dance floor. People dressed up from every era for this year's homecoming.

"My favorite part of dressing up like a patriot was the hot pants we got to wear underneath," said junior Jeff Hammer.

All Smiles

There were no complaints when this year's court was announced. The court takes one last picture before getting into their respective cars, awaiting their turn to go around the track.

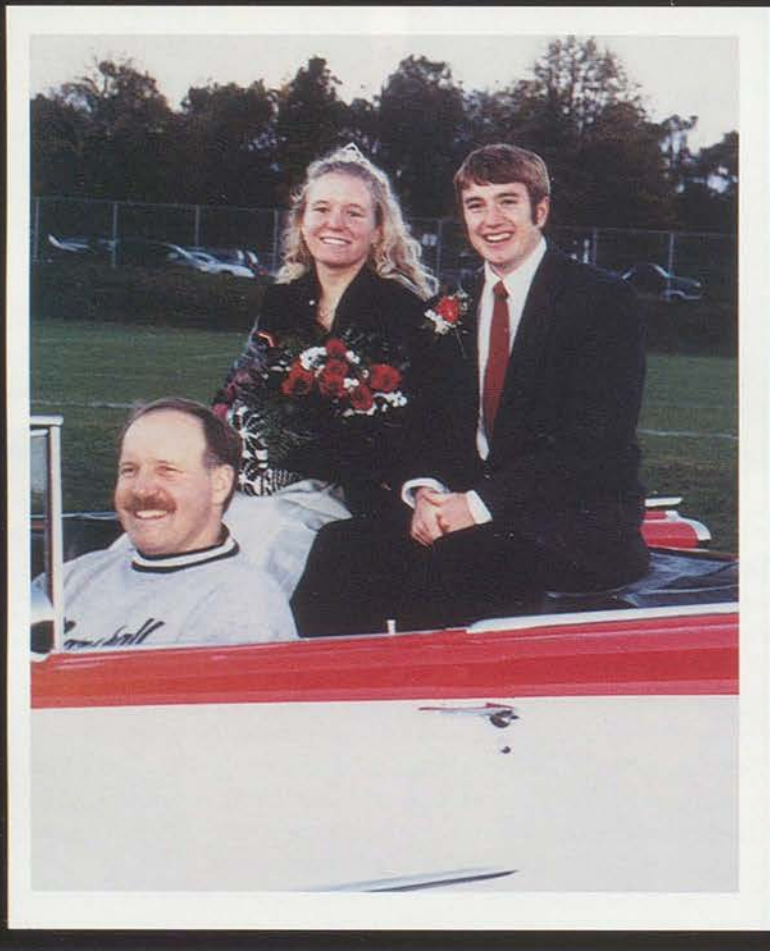

Enjoying the ride

"It was amazing and an honor to be chosen," Jenny Rodgers, senior attendant, said. This fall Jenny was a member of the girls varsity basketball team and Randy Day played varsity football.

Simply Marvelous

MHS students pick the best of the best to represent them on the 2000 Homecoming Court

True Colors

"This was great, it was also really special because my dad got to drive our car around the track," queen Kari Searles said.

We Were Merely Freshman

Taking in all the action are freshmen Erin Skidmore and Casey Eash. "This was an amazing experience that I will never forget," Erin Skidmore said.

Dazzling Duo

Junior attendant Morgan Goodwin and escort Tyler Bradshaw are all smiles as they are presented to the crowd. During the fall Morgan was a member of the varsity girls basketball team and Tyler played varsity football.

Super Sophmores

Attendant Ingrid Edwards and escort Jimmy Biggs enjoy the ride in their baby blue Mustang. During the fall Ingrid was a member of the j.v. basketball team and Jimmy was a member of the j.v. football team.

Gather Around

The 2000 Homecoming Court are presented to the crowd. "Being on the Homecoming Court was one of the happiest times of my life. To represent MHS was an honor," said junior Morgan Goodwin.

Your Time to Shine

"This was a great night! I got to spend it with one of my best friends," Casey Eash said. "I felt honored to be chosen and enjoyed the night tremendously," Erin Skidmore said.

Shining Through

"This was an awesome way the start my senior year," king Rob Backlund said.

- - You are here to have fun..

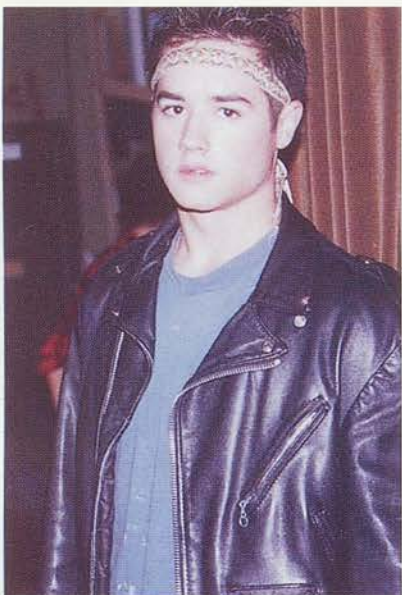

Up the Down Staircase

Many students show "up" to watch the fall play participants get "down".

Footloose?

Chillin' backstage, senior Megan DeJong and sophomore Heather Nickols discuss their all time favorite musical. Megan gets in the spirit by kickin' off her Sunday shoes, while Heather shakes her head. "Grease is the word," she argues.

"This character was the complete opposite of myself. Once I got into it, I had fun. Plus, I got to style in leather..."
~Junior Jared Palmer

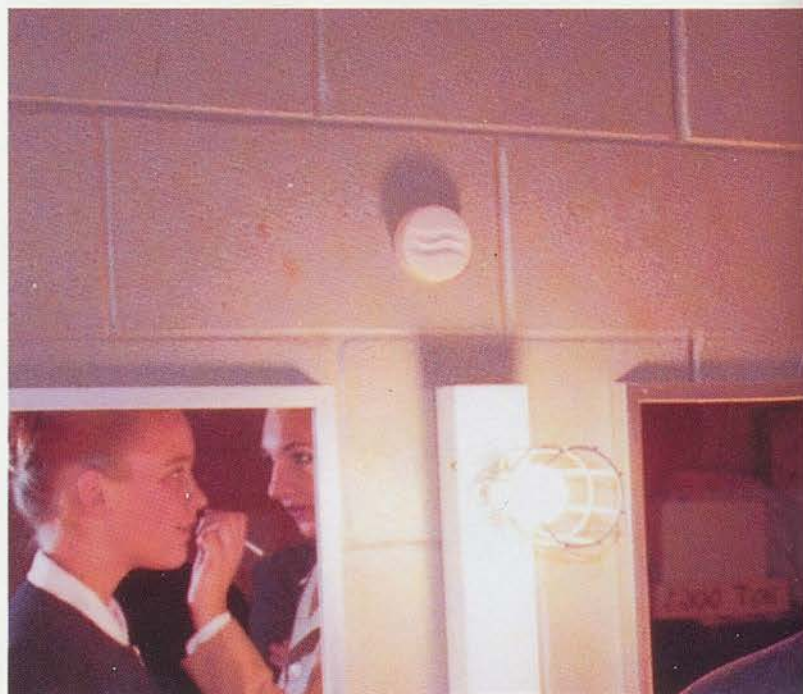

Talk to the hand

Strutting across the room, sophomore Devin Thomas leaves the classroom. Exchangestudent Chie Okada helps while freshman Aubrey Carpenter looks on.

Mirror, mirror on the wall...

"Pain is beauty," senior Kristi Budinck comforts freshman Sandae Bonaire as she concentrates on her eyeliner. Students cake on make-up before the show.

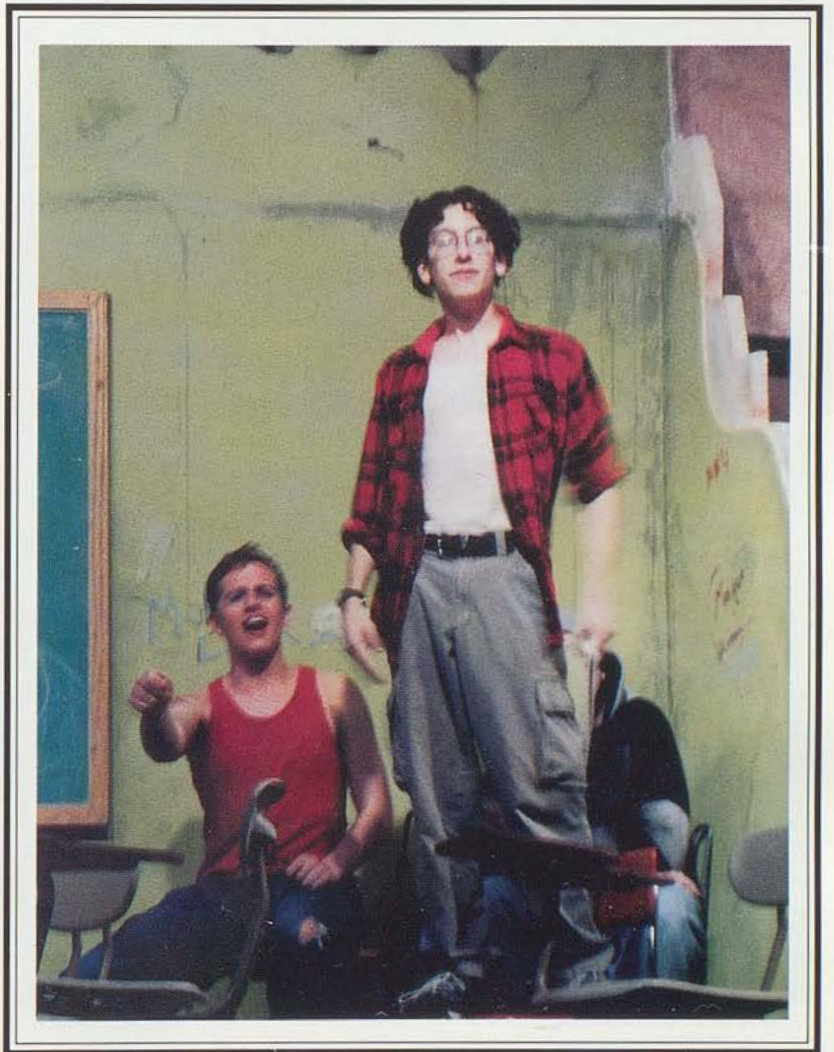

The Enforcer

No more will trouble roam the halls.
No more will chaos rein. The "principal" a.k.a. junior Nate Powers enforces all the rules on the stage.

Is this the down staircase?

Offstage wandering led junior Ryan Norton and sophomore Brandon Gill to discover
"the staircase of deep thoughts." "If I go down an up staircase, wouldn't it be the down staircase...?" Ryan asks.

Here I come to save the day!

There's no need to fear, Tony Barroso is here. Along with his sidekick Kenny Sink, the two sophomores jump homework,
school, and teachers in a single bound.

----- You are here to have fun...

Student Council, What?

Although busily working on her algebra in seminar, freshman representative Hannah Robbins took time out to say, "Student Council is nifty!"

Grand Theft Locker?

Breaking into other students' lockers is not what Student Council members do. Freshman Doug Brotherton actually is getting some homework since he's such a scholar.

Student Council - What Don't They Do?

These kids go the extra mile to serve you.

When one thinks of Student Council, what comes to mind? "They make decisions for the class," sophomore Lyndee Eldridge comments. This is true, but Student Council is much more than what meets the eye. Student Council representatives are elected in the fall by their fellow classmates. Each class has five representatives, a vice president, and a president. Throughout the year, Student Council members perform community service acts in the area. They help out in the Soup Kitchen in Battle Creek, raise money for the Humane Society, MACS, and work concessions at home sports games. Many representatives also work at the bookstore during lunch.

"Student Council is the best darn thing that anybody can be a part of because there's nothin' better than helping out. Helping your peers, helping your community, and helping people who just need a hand. I personally enjoy being on Student Council because we contribute ourselves to the overall morale of the student body," freshman Student Council member Jessica Broyles said.

Have You Hugged Your Dog Today?

Being a three year Student Council veteran, junior Josh Petty knows enough about Student Council to sit back and watch everyone else do the work.

Taking a Bite Out of ...What?!

"I was celebrating Christine Schaum winning arm wrestling," sophomore Student Council president Jeff Cox said.

Brainstorm

"I feel that Student Council is a good way to participate in school activities," explained senior Stacey Roberts. Stacey was one of the seven senior representatives. She also worked in the bookstore.

Chillin' Like Villians

All The Small Things

*All the small things
and hard work pay off for National Honors Society members.*

The National Honors Society is a special privilege among juniors and seniors at Marshall High School. Students must meet four requirements to become a member. They must seek good scholarly habits, take part in worthy service, act as a leader, and build character in the process. The National Honors Society inducts new members twice a year. "I was honored that I was one of the few people to be inducted in to the National Honors Society," said senior member Dawn Saylor.

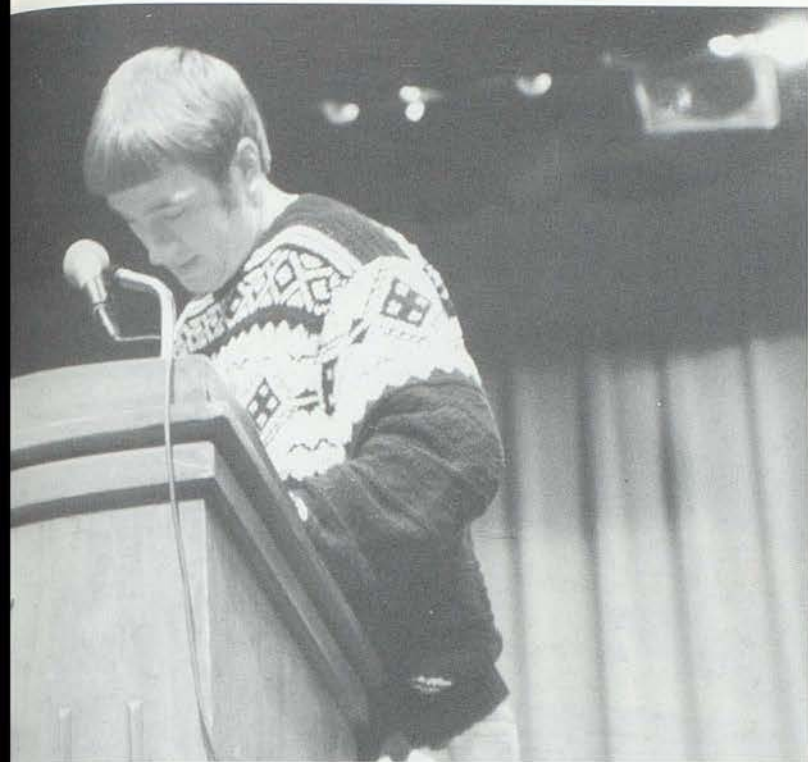

What's the inside joke?
Sitting and waiting excitedly as they become the newest members of the National Honors Society are seniors Dawn Saylor and Jayme Frye. "I was excited that I could become a part of this," said Jayme.

We didn't start the fire
Lighting his candles at his induction ceremony is senior Patrick Clark. Each candle represents a quality by which the members were chosen. Green represents leadership, blue service, red knowledge and understanding, and white represents purity.

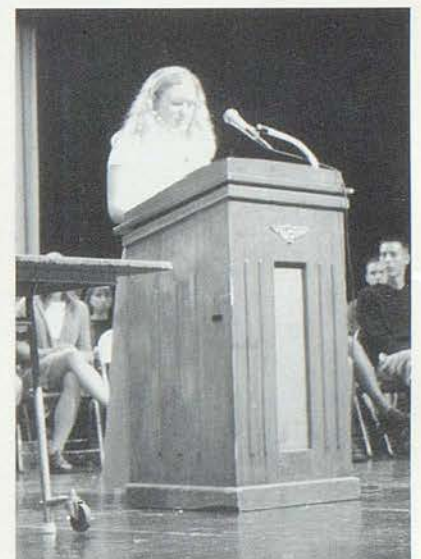

"It's nice to know that all of my work through out high school payed off for something. Getting in to The National Honors society was a great accomplishment," said senior member Joe Hutchings.

Welcome to NHS!
 Giving an inspirational speech is senior Rob Backland. As well as being president of the senior class, Rob is president of NHS.

Wee did it!
 NHS members take time out of their busy day to smile for a picture. These are the few lucky seniors whose hard work payed off.

And the candidates are...
 Using her words of wisdom senior Kari Searles welcomes the new members to The Society. Kari's hard work payed off last year. She was inducted her junior year at MHS.

Easy does it
 One of three new snior members, Jayme Frye, lights her candels during the induction ceremony. Jayme met all four requirements prior to becoming a member.

----- You are here to have fun...

Drinking and Driving Don't Mix.
 "It feels good to be able to get the word out that you can have fun and be safe without alcohol," junior Megan Adams said of her view on S.A.D.D.

12 x 53 = ???

Dream a Little Dream...
 Although sophomore S.A.D.D. member Maggie Adams is in computer class, she looks as though she would rather be at a S.A.D.D. meeting.

Ms. President
 During a S.A.D.D. meeting, senior Kaity Adams goes over the agenda. Kaity was the president of the 2000-2001 group of S.A.D.D.

SADD-A Commitment to Life

"SADD is a good way to raise awareness about student underage drinking," said sophomore SADD member Alison Jenks. That's exactly what SADD is. It's an organization that promotes the decision not to drink. Periodically, SADD organizes a mock car crash that involves drunk driving. SADD is most visibly active to students when they do fundraising activities. During Homecoming Week, members sell daisies to young lovers. At Halloween, they sell Boo-grams. To ring in the Christmas season, they sell candy canes. On Valentine's Day, SADD sells carnations. The profits are carried over to fund the next sale or a mock car crash. Most members are happy to be SADD.

S.A.D.D. members stay committed to their promise to not drink and drive.

Being SADD is good!

"S.A.D.D. is good because it's keeping kids away from drunk driving," commented junior S.A.D.D. member Kara Byrne.

Born to be SADD

Senior Jenny Yang recalls her first desire to be in SADD: "When I was little, my mom was drinking a coke while she was driving and I cried 'Mommy!!! Don't drink and drive!!!"

Reading the Day Away...
During an idle day in lunch, sophomore Brent Root reads an enticing book. Brent is a very active member of S.A.D.D.

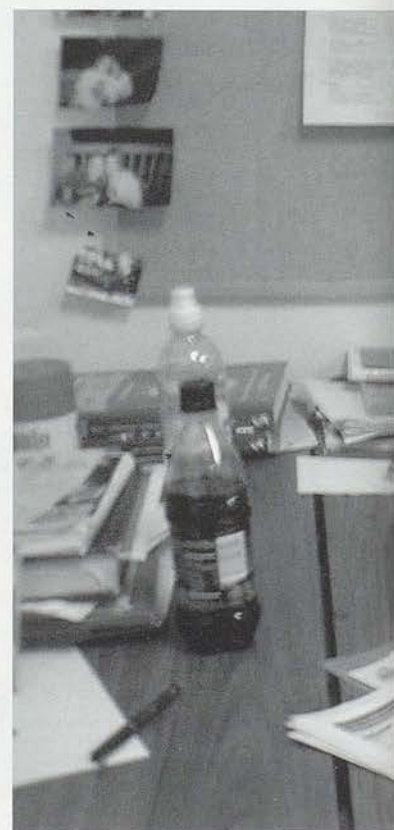

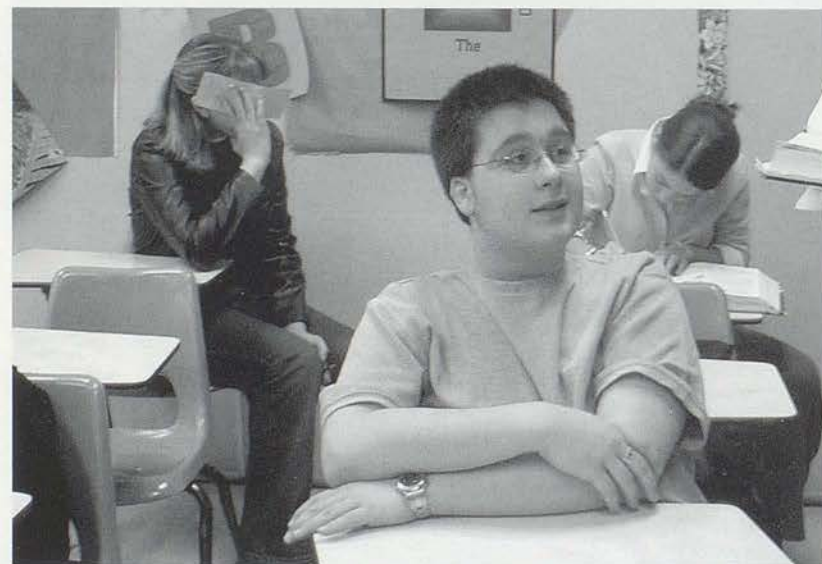

- - - - - You are here to have fun...

Top Secret ...Shhh...

Discussing the upcoming events for Yackers are sophomores Steven Weaver and Devin Thomas, and freshmen Janna Hibler and Christen Galang.

Lending a Helping Hand

"I like adopt a family because it's fun, and you're truly making a difference at the same time. I plan on being a Yacker throughout high school," freshman Emily Boedecker said.

Whistle While You Work

Digging in her locker is senior Julie Ballard. "I enjoy being in Yackers because I know how much we are helping other youths in need."

Yacking up a Storm

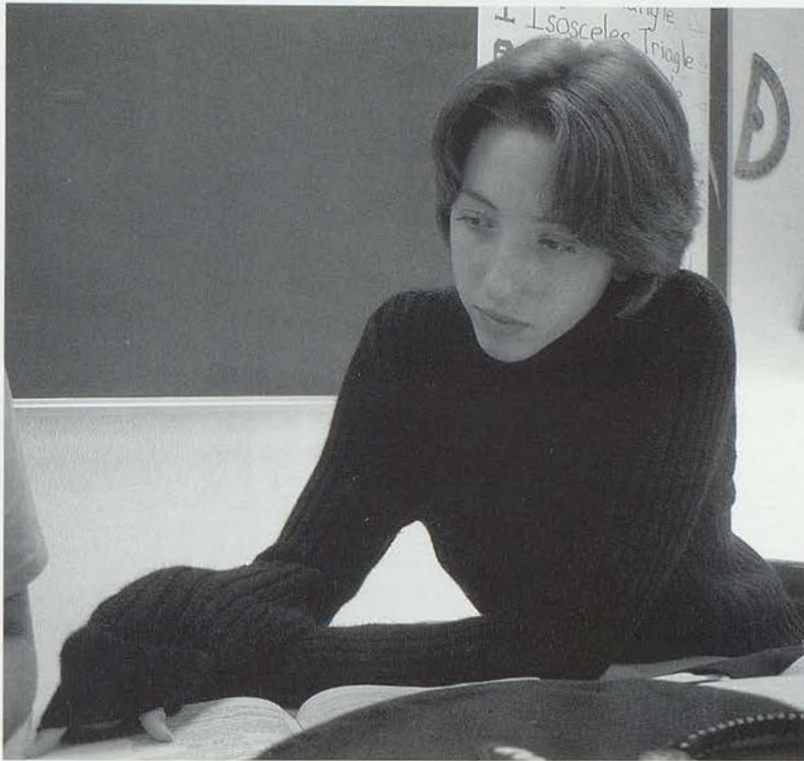

"Yackers is all about helping others. We get grant money from the foundation and use it for people who need it. I enjoy reading to the fourth grades for March is Reading Month," senior Jason Wright said.

The Yac Attack

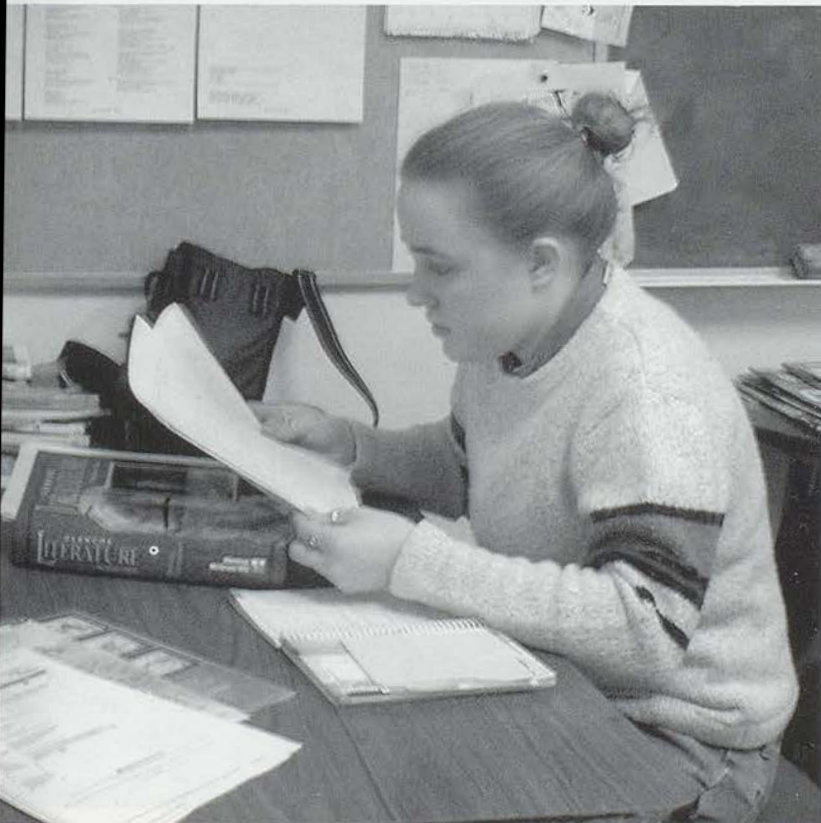

Working together to improve their community...

Yacking Away

"Yackers is great, and it's a good way to get involved in your community," sophomore Alison Jenks said.

"I believe Yackers is a good experience to have. We do a lot of different things, one being Dollars For Deeds, and we just mainly help out others," sophomore Anna Morgan said. Recycling, Adopt a Family, Dollars For Deeds, and Grant Cycles are just a few of the many things for which Yackers are responsible. "Adopt a family was one of my favorite projects we did this year. We got to go out and buy all the food for the families. Afterwards we all got to go to Mrs. Dobbins house and have a pizza party," junior Megan Adams said. Yackers is an organization devoted to helping others.

Leader of the Pack

Senior Catherine Crouse is this year's Yackers president. "I feel Yac is a really good organization because we get to help youth in Marshall," Catherine said.

Yackie, Yackie Don't Talk Back

"Yackers is a lot of fun! It gives high scholars a chance to get involved in their community and see how a formal meeting is run," freshmen Laura Davis said.

----- You are here to have fun...

Help!

I need somebody.

Lending an ear, a shoulder, or even a hand, Peer Listening is all about friends. Peer Listening is a group of people just trying to make the school a better place. Being devoted to helping others, their job is to be a friend and help people if they really need someone to talk to. The group consists of freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors who are willing to give up their time to work their hardest to satisfy peoples' needs. Thanks to them, our school has responsible people who care about others.

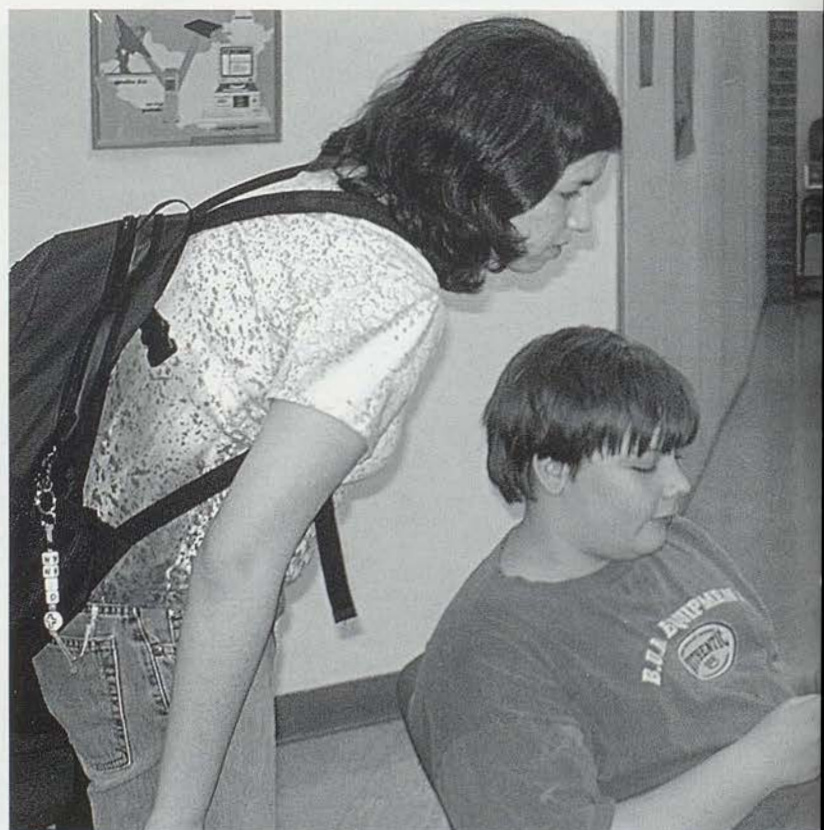

All Eyes On You.

In a meeting during seminar, freshmen Janna Hibler and Christen Galang sit watching their instructor while they talk about their new t-shirts.

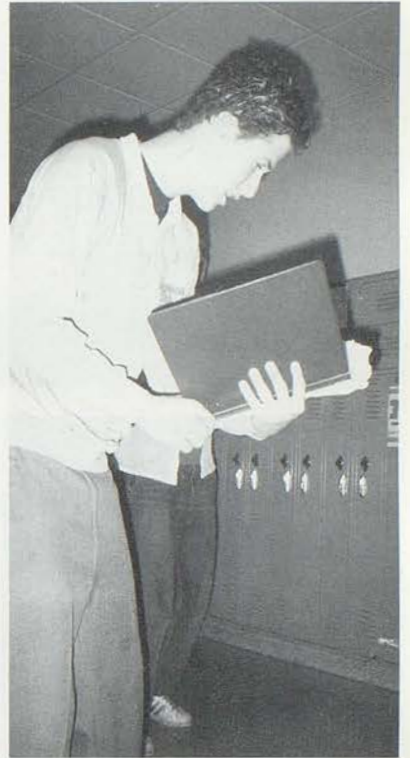

Lemme Show You How it's Done.

Helping freshman Jennifer Wright in Peer Listening is fellow freshman Mykl Holt. "This is what our group is supposed to do," Mykl said, "help people."

Team Work!
With their senior year coming to an end, Emily Taylor and Jamie Blossom spend extra time working for Peer Listening.

Hitting it High.
Hunching over so he won't hit his head is senior Mike Dillon. "Peer Listening," Dillon said, "gives me the chance to get to know my fellow classmates. It makes our group worth while."

What I want is...
Getting a chance to speak her mind is freshman Christen Galang. "Getting to be in Peer Listening is a great experience," Christen said, "but along with it comes different challenges."

Groupies!
All 2001 Peer Listening members from Marshall High School join together for a group picture in front of the school.

Mmmmm... Club Sandwich

Students

When you think of M-Club, what comes to mind? If you think of a handful of candy and a pocket full of change, you're on the right track. This club consists of Varsity sport athletes with a will to serve. These students don't just do it out of the goodness of their heart though. A major motivator is the chance to go to Cedar Point at the end of the school year.

"Everytime I scoop some popcorn or grap someone a coke, I imagine myself on the Raptor!" senior Molly Miller comments. These students dish up quality food with an attitude, dude.

Dazed, but not Confused

"I'll bet you twenty bucks that little kid comes and asks me for gum," seniors Amy Hoffdahl and Kristin Dominique often argue about who is more likely to attract a customer. Both girls are determined to win this age-old dispute. Amy continues, "Kristin may be a peach, but this one's definately mine."

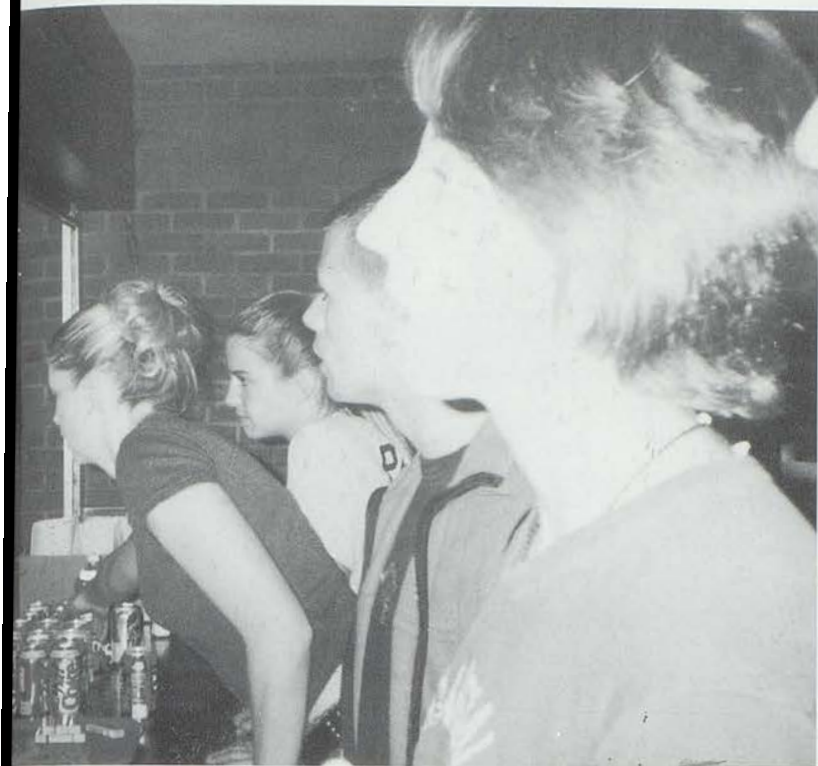

Your Hair Looks Yummy!

With all the handling of snacks, senior Geno Klisiak is reminded that it's past dinner time. As he hungrily eyes senior Corrie Edwards' hair, she tries to ignore him unsuccessfully.

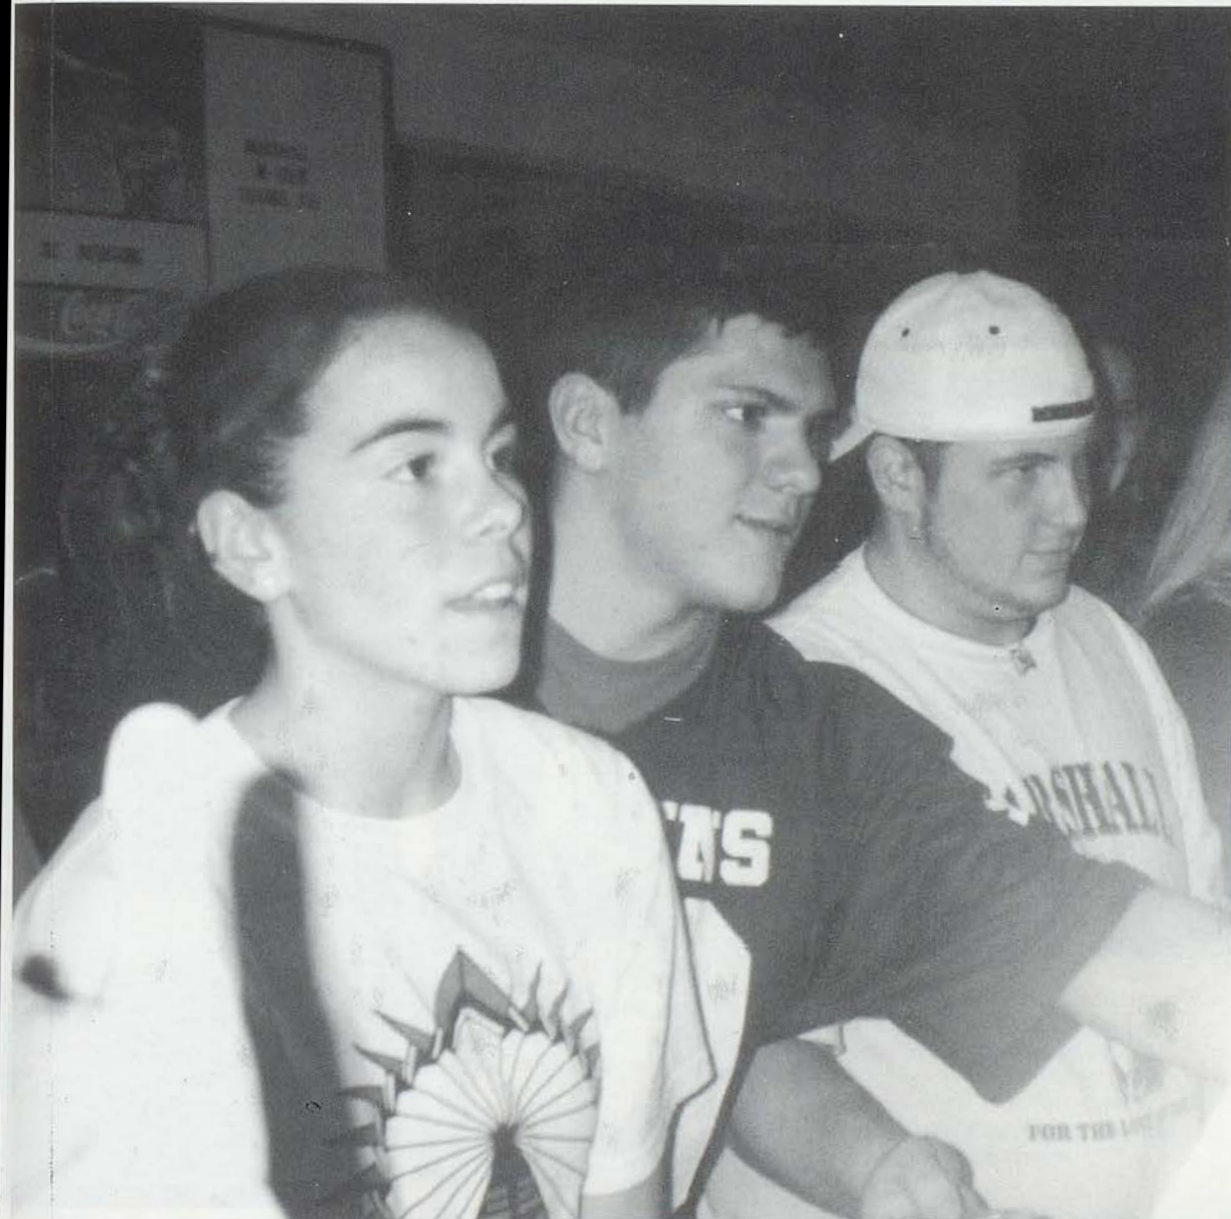

"Working here has been a great experience. I've enjoyed every minute of being a part of all that goes on. The noise of the hungry half-timers, the scrambling for refreshments, the clinking of cold hard cash... there's nothing like it."
~sophomore Ashley Heitmeier

Be All That You Can Be
 "I'll have a coke and popcorn," one person shouts. "I want starbursts and water," another orders. "It's times like these that get really crazy!" sophomore Allison Jenks says. With a war-front like this, only the strong survive behind the counter.

"Sometimes I get sad when a person walks up and we don't have what they want. It's really hard to see the disappointment on their face. It's like that commercial where the boy drops his mac and cheese. Poor little boy. I'm so sorry." ~sophomore Jen Henry

The Waterboy
 "Now that's some high quality H2O!" senior Paul Mestemaker boasts as he comes through for his fans. His job may not be the most glamorous, but he's willing to sacrifice for the crowd.

Can I Help You?
 With a calm voice and steady hand, members of the M-Club collect money and hand out food like well oiled machines. The team of freshman Mallory Feeney, sophomore Ben Taylor, and junior Lance McCreary work together like a happy family.

Looking good

In the hydroponic unit senior Randy Day and senior Mindy Smith check to see if their lettuce and basil are growing without any problems.

Almost got it!

Persident of the Future Farmers of America junior Todd Segar tries to put on a gigantic tractor tire.

Wow I really did it.

"I was trying to make a monkey, but it didn't quite work. I wrote it down in high hopes to figure out what went wrong," freshman Kyle Fuller said.

I want that one!

As the young Tilapia fish are swimming around junior Eric Hamilton and senior Chris Robinson attempt to catch one for dinner.

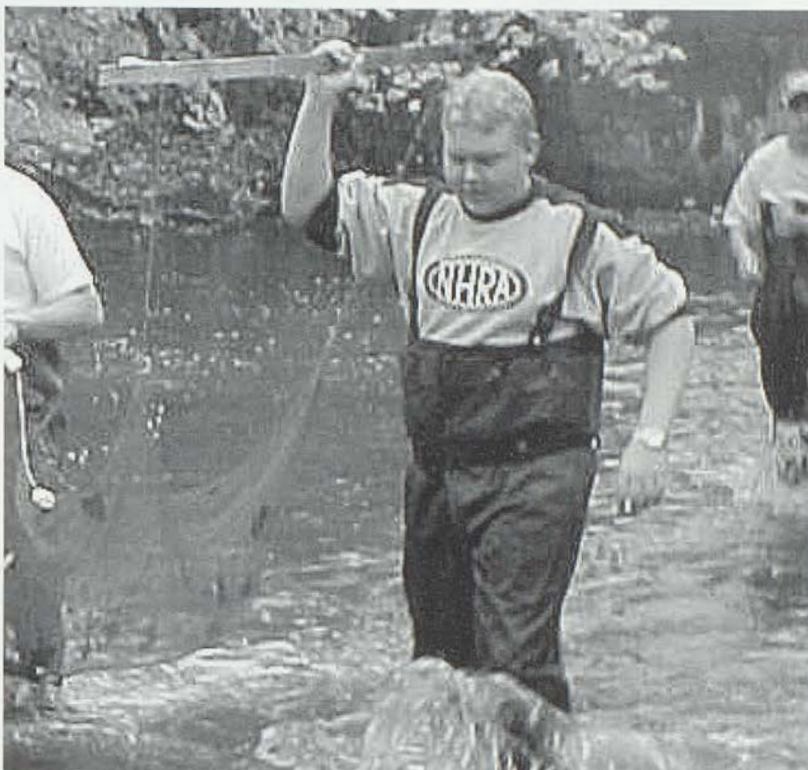

Future Farmers

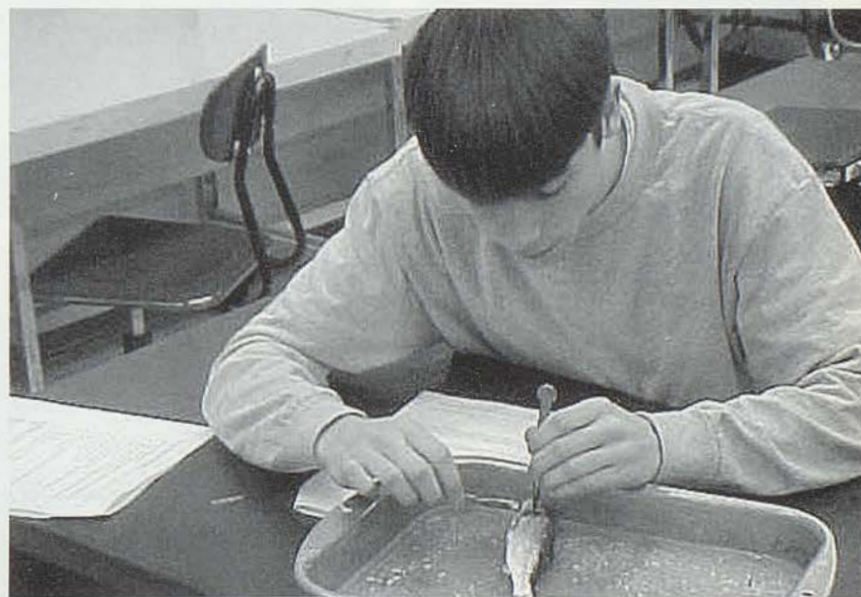

These farmers are growin' up some brilliant ideas for the future.

It Smells Fishy Out Here

"We were using a sain net to get the fish out so we could bring them back to the lab and dissect them. We wanted to see thier organs. It was interesting." sophomore Doug Huffman said.

The Marshall FFA has one main goal, to prepare members for leadership and careers in science, business and technology of agriculture. The president is the junior Todd Segar. When Alyssa Reniger was asked her thoughts on being President next year she said, "I hope I can take the FFA above and beyond anywhere they've gone before." Senior Wendy Hamilton is Vice President. During the FFA year they go to State and they go to Nationals. There they have leadership contest, such as green hand public speaking, prepared speaking and parlipro. Thier parlipro event this year was awarded a gold medal. The FFA was ranked second in state, they were tenth in nationals. The Future Farmers of America have a motto, Learning to do, to learn, earning to live and living to serve.

Now click on that... The Marshall FFA tutored senior citizens over a six week period. Sophomore Alyssa Reniger and senior Mindy Smith get down to business and try to catch the past generations up to date.

Is that suppose to be there? "It really smelt bad and nothing looked like it was in the right spot. I think my fish was an alien." senior Doug Potter said.

What Next?

Junior Ryan Norton is thinking about his next project he will be working on in electronics. "It's nice getting away from the school and getting to work on stuff I really enjoy," Ryan said.

Is That What That Does?

Seniors Dan Wilkinson and James Loyer assist their teacher on working on a motorcycle cylinder and piston. "In VO-ED we learn about different kinds of engines and auto parts," Dan said.

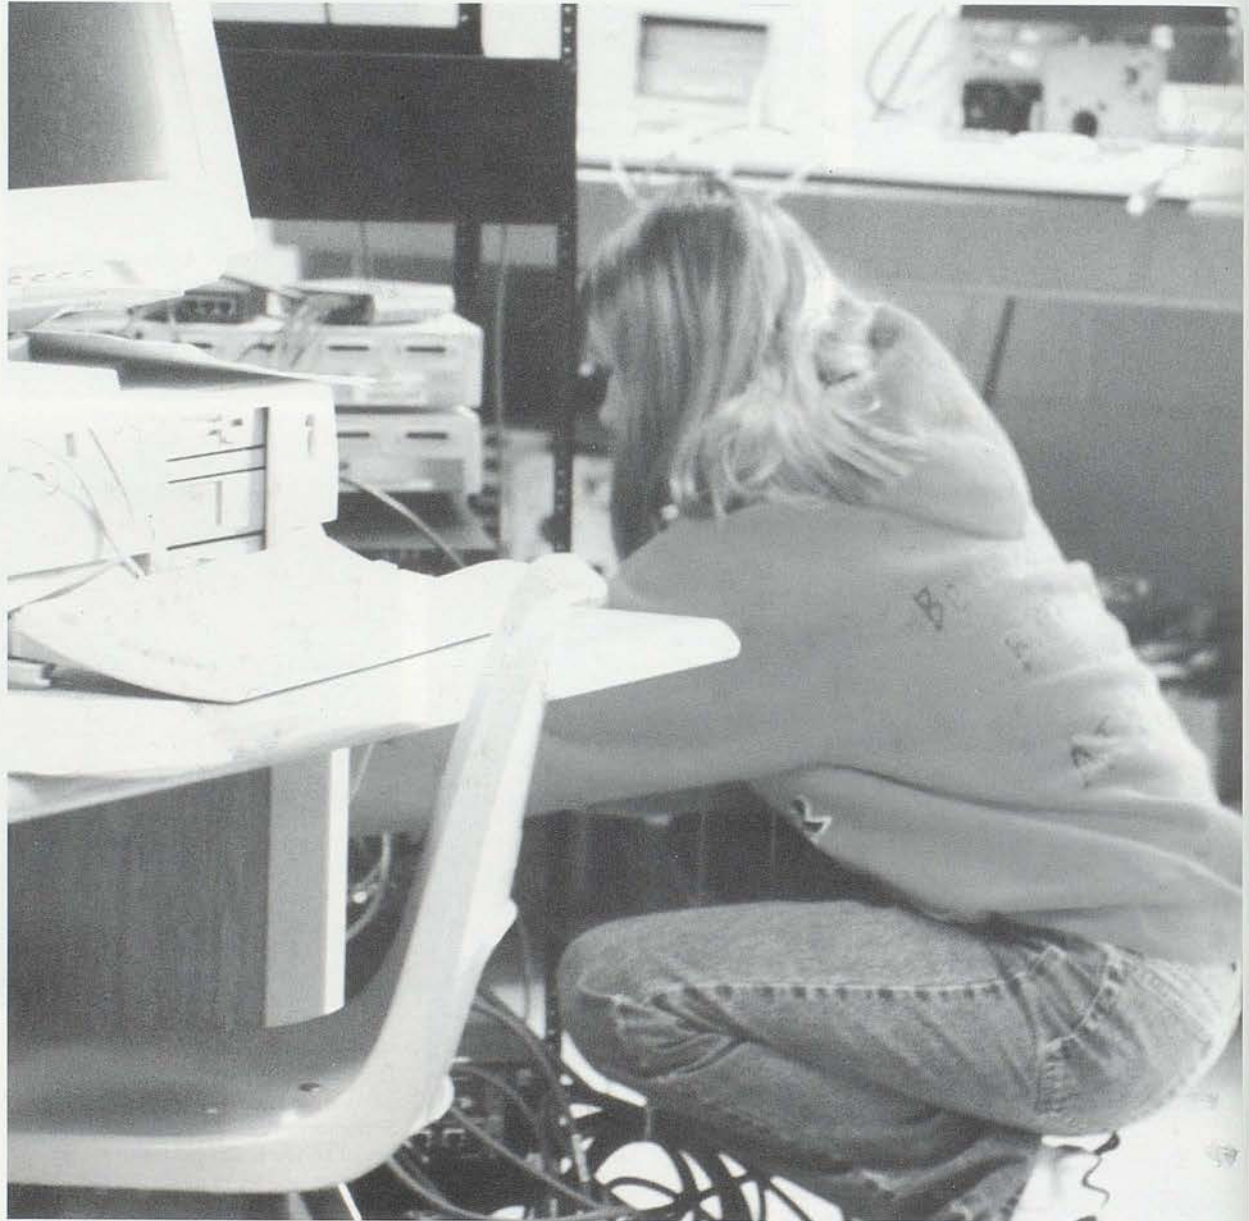

The Arm Bone's Connected to The Wrist Bone.

"I broke him! I broke him! I broke Mr. Skeleton!" said junior Elise Granteir. Elise tries to put her friend, Mr. Skeleton, back together in 21st Century Health.

What Does This Cord Lead To?

Junior Cherise Blakney is trying to untangle all those cords that somehow got tangled up. "It's cool knowing that the stuff I learn how to do here can actually help me in the future," said Cherise.

Connecting Education and Careers

At the Career Center in Battle Creek, Marshall High School juniors and seniors get to spend half of their day training in the field of their choice which could be anything from engineering to childcare. These students get the opportunity to try different things relating to their potential future job while getting high school credits.

"I chose to take the course of twenty first century health rather than finish up my last two years in high school because I knew that I wanted a career in health, and this program gives me the chance to see what a career would be like in the medical field," said junior Elise Grantier. The CATC creates an atmosphere of hands on activities that can help make one's decision in going into a certain career easier.

Marshall High School juniors and seniors get a jump start on their future.

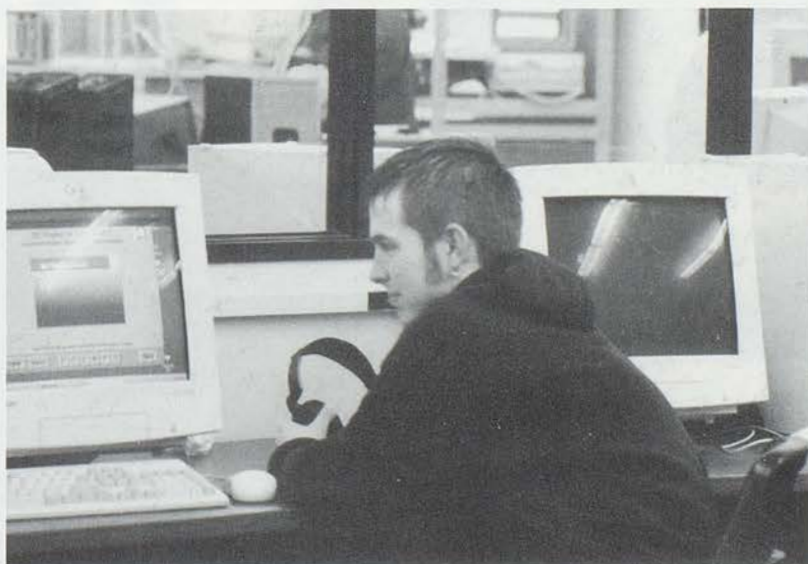

Workin' on the Press
"VO-ED is very educational and with fun hands on experience," said junior Liz Tarmel. Taking a break from working on the press Liz talks with some friends she met in Graphic Communications.

Soon I'll Get Things Rollin'

Junior Matt Shoch is busy working on changing a tire in auto services. "I like learning to work on the equipment and being able to do some of my own autowork," Matt said.

Hypmatizing

Junior Cody Lepper sits and waits for his turn. He plays the computer and listens to his music. "Unlike some classes in school, I am actually interested in electronics. That's why I chose to come to the VO-ED center," said Cody.

Where Have All the Cowboys Gone?
 One of those disappearing cowboys, senior Cody Burghdorf, made an appearance along with his sweet, sidekick cowgirl, junior Cherly Hedges, at the MHS Valentine's Dance. "I reckon we's had a goll darn swell time. Yee-Haw!" exclaimed cowboy Code One.

Peek-A-Boo!
 I see you! Sneaking a peek at her date (Matt Fish) is senior Corrie Edwards. "Matt kept hiding from me all night," said Corrie. "It must have been because I kept making him take pictures of me and my friends. What a sweetheart!"

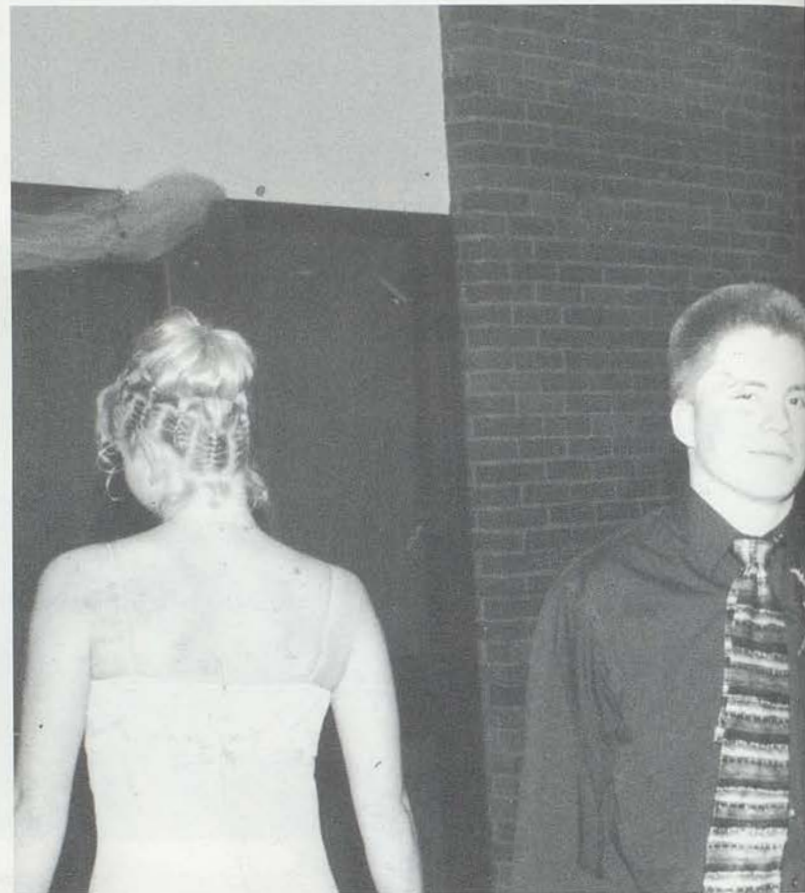

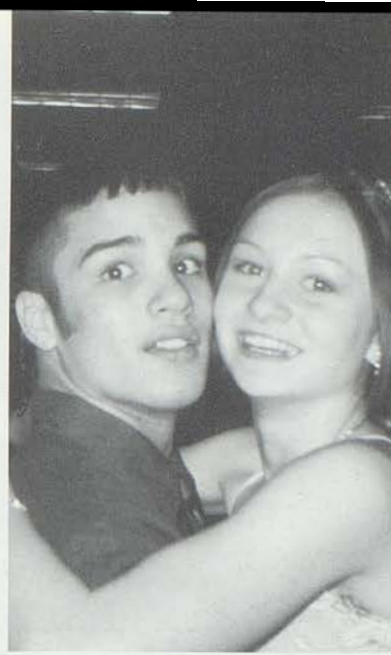

Don't "Wig" Out...
 Before their wigs were stolen by two unknown boys after the dance, seniors Erica Eash and Beth Weare enjoyed busting a move on the dance floor. "It's not fair that our dates looked better than us in our wigs, but we could dance better!" said Erica.

You're So Perdy!
 Who would have guessed that these two beauties were studly men before the Valentine's Dance! "Our dates looked so great in their wigs, and we just wanted to see what all of the fuss was about!" said junior Jon Booth. "It felt so nice!" exclaimed senior Brad McCormack.

We Love To See You Smile!
 McDonalds sounded good to freshmen Tabitha Bess and Lindsey Fast as they worked up an appetite from all the dancing, laughing, and picture taking at the Valentine's Dance.

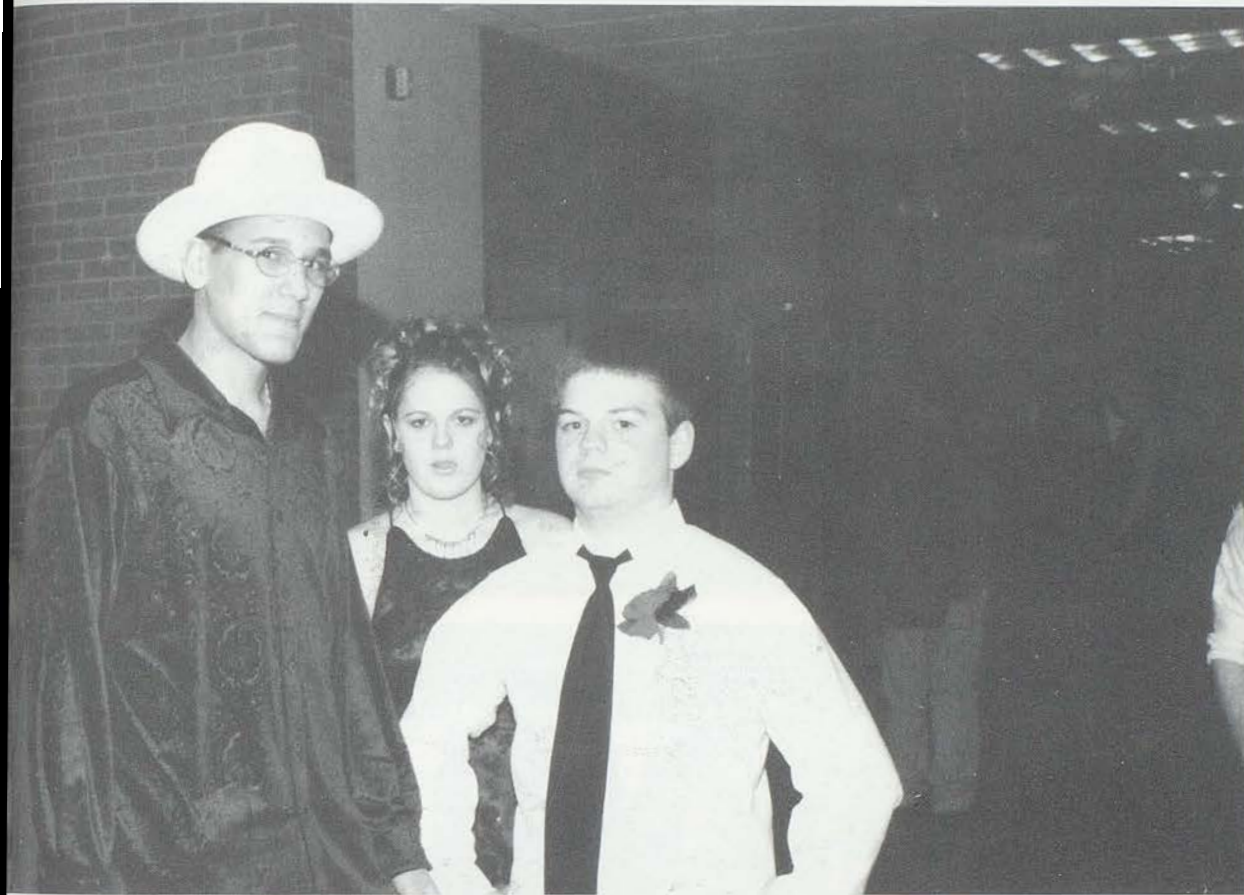

Dancin' Fever

While dancing the night away, sophomore Bill Sleeper and Freshman Emily Conant suddenly turn to see a flash go off in their faces. Shocked, they only stop momentarily to comprehend what the bright, white light was. Once the white spots disappeared from their eyesight, they resumed their dancing.

Revenge of the Nerds!

As the top student of the Senior class, Rob Backlund decided to show off his knowledge of teen pregnancies. Junior Josh Petty felt Rob's balloon baby to see if it was real. Rob came to the intellectual decision that it was a false alarm.

Tuff Stuff..

This year at the dance extra security was added to ensure the safety of all who wanted to dance. Junior Trevor Endsly, and seniors Andy Correlez and Scott McClain were the designated bouncers for the evening. Junior Jenna Hurd had their backs.

Conversation Hearts...

*Couples Enjoyed
Some "Sweet"
Conversations
at the 2001
Valentine's Dance*

"Kiss Me," "Hug Me," "Be Mine," ... These conversation hearts all deliver a universal message to Valentines everywhere. But did you know that some new conversation hearts were created right here at MHS during the Valentine's Dance?

"Hot Stuff," was senior Emzy Collins' response, "because my date [Julie Ballard] was looking good!"

Freshman Aubrey Carpenter

used "Best Friends Forever" to describe her heart. "Me and my date [Beau Hutchings] are just really good friends."

Next, senior Lindsey Cox said hers would say, "Revenge of the Nerds" because, "my date [Rob Backlund] went as a nerd and I was his hot mama!"

Freshman Jillian Risnes said, "Pimped Out" as her conversation heart since her date, sophomore Seth Clark, was "...wearing a pimped out outfit. He looked great!"

"Wow!" was senior Ben Hughes's response. "Because my date looked extremely hot."

Finally, sophomore Jenny Litton described her conversation heart as saying, "'Super Sophisticated' because my date [junior Bruce Hamilton] looked really, really smart, like a writer, in his cute little glasses!"

Going Up

Taking a second out of their time to show their scared faces before the chair lift takes them away are freshmen Tyler Peters, Robert Bess, and Jeremy Pierce.

Skating in Style

Coming down the hill, not knowing where to go, is Freshmen Tyler Peters. "Ski-club was a lot of fun, it gave me time to relax after school instead of doing homework," Tyler said.

Sliding, Sliding.....

Sliding down the hill very carefully is freshmen Jeremy Pierce. "After Mr. Foreman took the picture I wasn't paying attention and I fell," Jeremy said.

Chillin' Out

Just a few of the members on the ski-club who are waiting patiently to hit the slopes are Keegan Dillion, Jeremy Pierce, Robert Bess, Julie Ballard, Stacey Roberts, Keith Carver, Chie Okada, Seth Burger, Brad Phillips, and Hedly Veeleid.

What goes up..

Must Come down

Snow-bunnies what?

"I liked ski-club because I like to be outside and check out all the snow-bunnies," sophomore Keith Carver said.

The law of gravity has it's way when it comes to hills, ski's, and snow. When you're going down the hill with the wind blowing in your face. You think that your doing great for the first time and you believe that you're going to make it to the bottom without falling. But then all of a sudden your face is buried in the white, crisp snow and you have no idea on what just happened. Many skiers experienced that.

Some people believe you have to know how to ski to join the Ski Club but that's not true at all. All beginners are welcome and that's why the Bitter Sweet Ski Resort has the bunny hill for all the beginners. "It wasn't very scary for me when I first started because I like new challenges," Megan Adams said.

Making a U-turn

Coming down the hill with the sun in her eyes and the wind in her hair is junior Hillary Osborn. "I thought snowboarding was a lot easier then skiing but I enjoyed both," Hillary said.

Taking a break

Deciding to take a break after hitting a bump on the hill is freshman Robert Bess. "When I fell it didn't really hurt because I fell right onto this guy, it was really funny," Robert said.

Intramurals

King of Sports, Sport of Kings

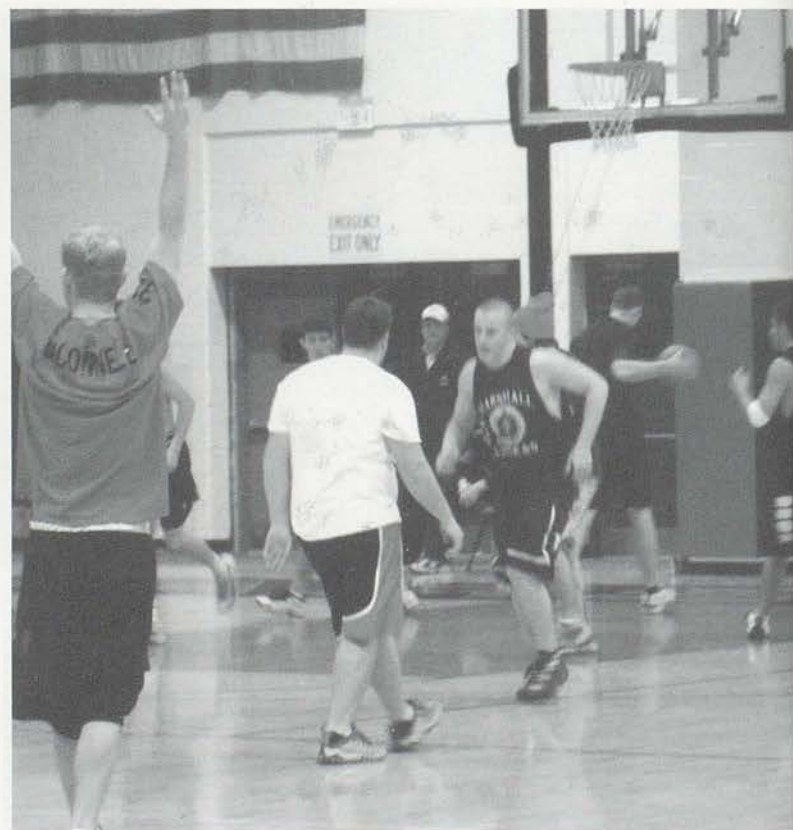

For hundreds of students at Marshall High School, the greater part of the year is spent in anticipation of the upcoming Intramurals season at MHS. When the anticipation cannot be borne any longer, and the echoes of "Let's play some ball" straight from the mouth of Coach Reynolds resonate across the land, the faithful flock to the gymnasium. Thus is the beginning of the Intramurals season. For the girls, few could compete with the volleyball stylings of senior Amy Bibler's MIPs. On the boys side, Team Ushuaia, led by seniors Travis Sims and Marc Mead, and including seniors Ryan Varner, Mike Dillon, B.J. Van Dyke, Ben Brott and Cody Burghdorf and juniors Jeff Hammer, Aaron Ebner and Ryan Meeder evoked a reign of terror built upon a second consecutive season gone undefeated.

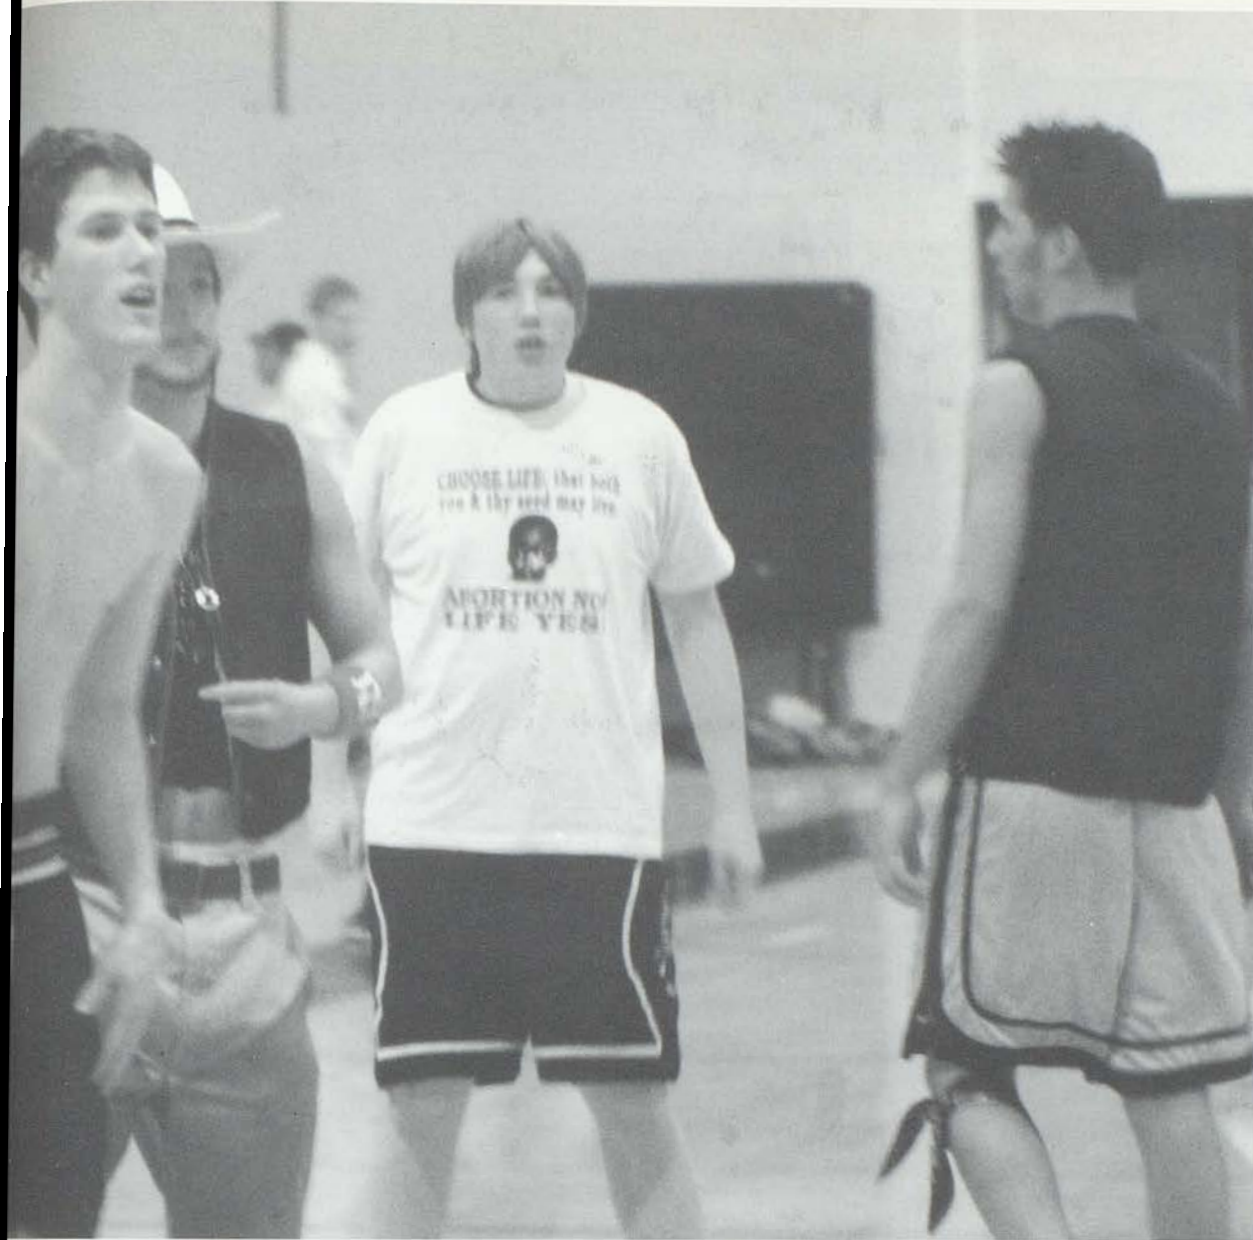

Straight Up Ballin
Keeping the court in check is junior Tyler "Puerto Rican Fabulous" Candelaria. Tyler was a key player in this intramurals season.

Volleyball is Fun
After being violently smacked in the face with a volleyball, junior Megan Adams arranges herself into a volleyball inspired stance to avoid further embarrassment.

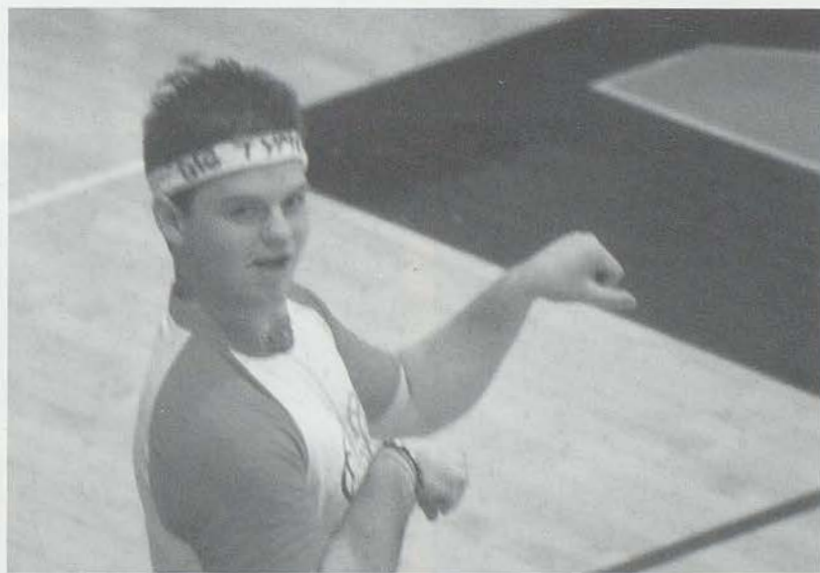

Marc Just Got 3 Points
Hands raised in a triumphant assertion of pointage, senior Ryan O'Connell verifies the amazing three point shot of senior Marc "Mark" Mead.

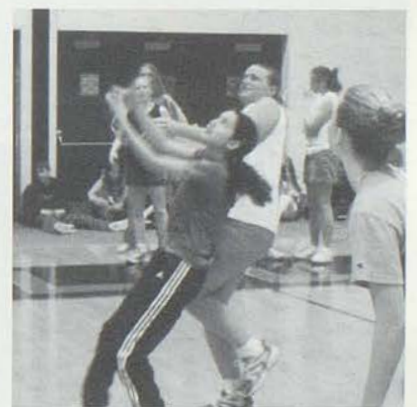

Oh My God! They're Gorgeous Representing Team Ushuaia are juniors Jeff Hammer and Aaron Ebner and seniors Mike Dillon, Ben Brott and Code One. "You look good; you play good," as Aaron has said so many times.

Those Crazy McConnell Kids Bursting on the floor with excitement is sophomore Danny McConnell. "Danny never does much, but he's got spirit," sophomore Andrew Steele said of his eccentric teammate.

McLain Rules
Getting ready to break out of his third shirt of the night is senior Scott McLain. "Could you show me to the weight room?" Scott said, taunting his insufficiently buff opponents.

Volleyball is Great
Hitting a volleyball are freshmen Jesse Broyles and Cassie Palik. No one knows for sure which one really hit the ball, and the controversy continues...

Was it...Murder?!

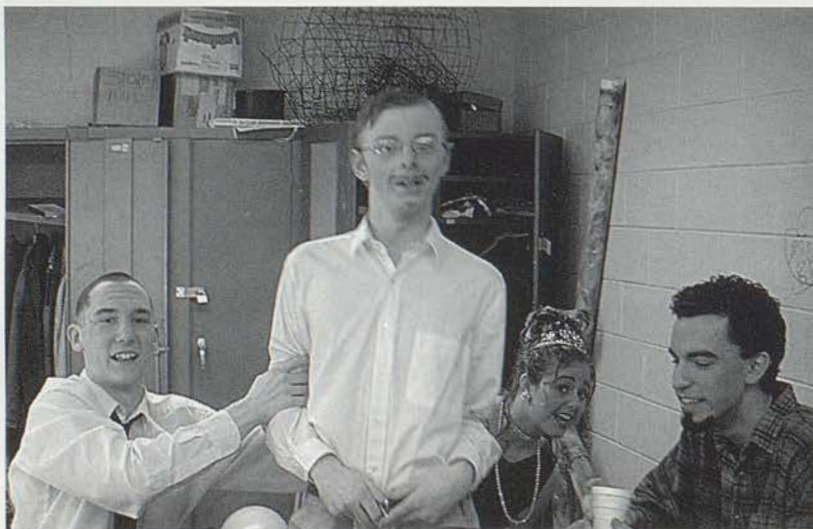

That was the question on everyone's mind during the MHS spring play, "Murder in the Magnolias".

Chain Reaction

Responding to senior Kristi Budnick's last moments of life are freshmen Laura Davis and Casey Eash, and senior Janine Woods.

"I was hoping for more than a glass cameo..."

Very unimpressed by her share of Colonel Chickensling's estate is senior Janine Woods. Her cousin, played by Megan DeJong, looks on.

Keep Your Pants On

During a play, limited time demands quick costume changes. Senior Dave Richardson is just one of many victims of this fact. This was especially hard for Dave, who played a cross-dresser.

Behind the Scenes

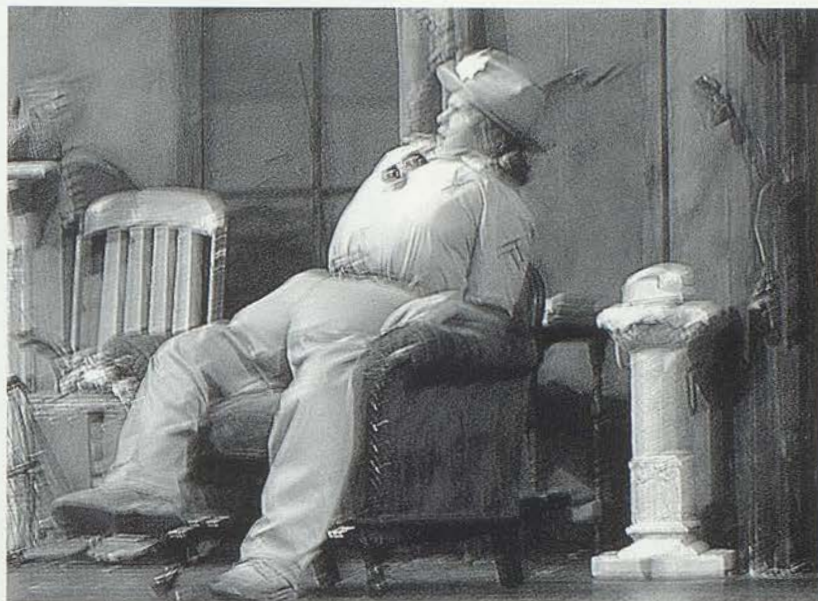

This was the last show for seniors Janine Woods, Kristi Budnick, and Megan DeJong. On her part in the play, Kristi said, "My favorite part was getting to play the villain."

All Together Now
 Demonstrating that five heads are always better than one are senior Megan DeJong, junior Kari Hamaker, senior Janine Woods, freshman Laura Davis, and sophomore Tony Barroso.

"I'll ask the questions here!"
 "I know what people say when they see me coming- 'Here comes big boy, here comes fatso, here comes the Big Mac without the special sauce.'" -Sheriff Billy Lerk, played by freshman Casey Eash.

Senior Spotlight
 These two seniors, Megan DeJong and Jeff Tarkiewicz, have devoted their high school years to the theater. In their final performance, Megan played Amanda Chickensling and Jeff played Pete Bogg.

Swimming in a Sea of Knowledge

Redskin Students Dive into the Computers and Put Their Smarts to the Test.

The Knowledge Master Open is a program which tests the skills and intelligence of students. Not only do they compete statewide, but they also compete nationwide.

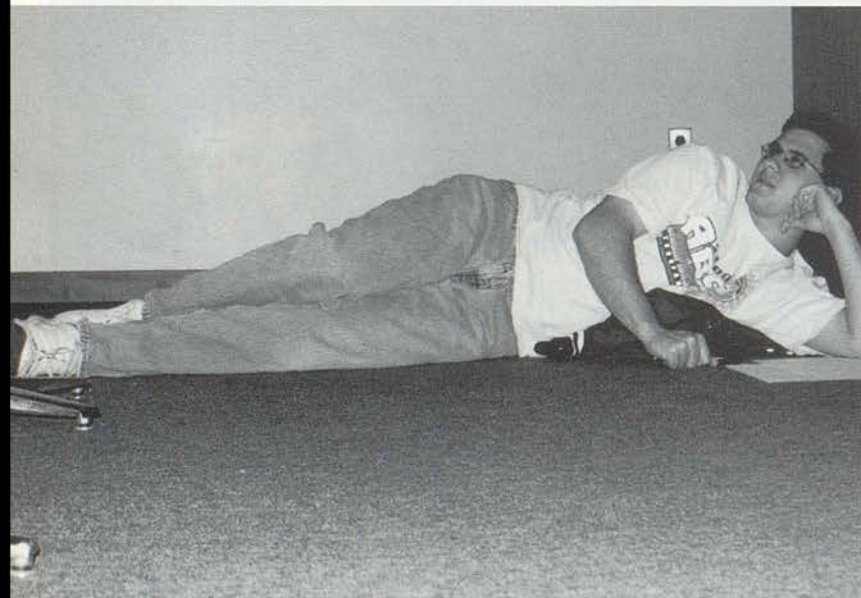

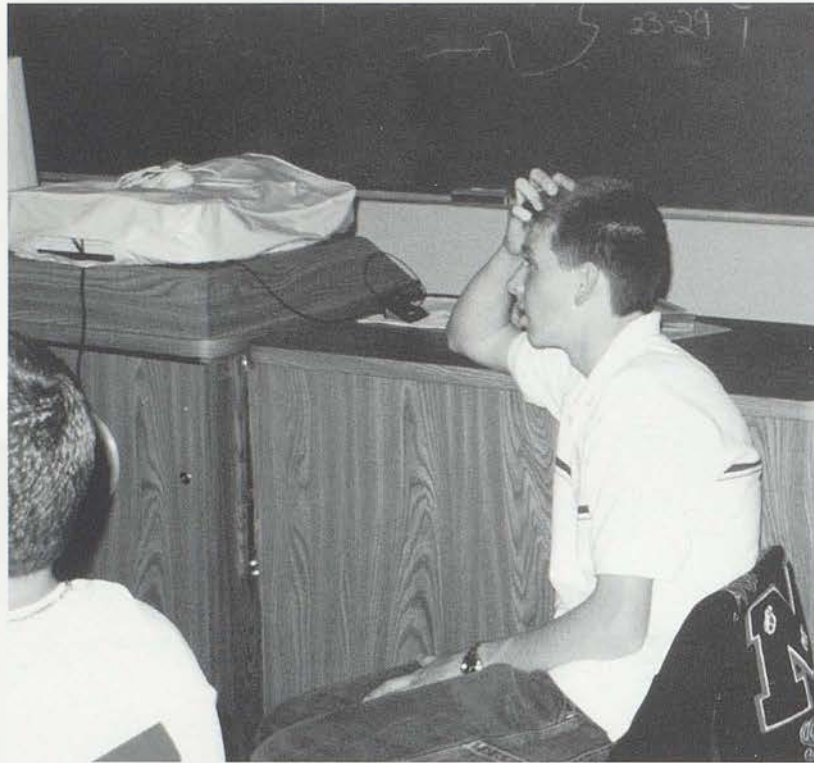

A team of 14 Marshall High students scored 1,176 of 2,000 possible points. This score placed the team 16th in the state out of 26 teams, and 573 out of 1,026 teams nationwide.

On December 6th, in the 35th Knowledge Master Open, thousands of students in middle school, junior high, and high school, even from other countries, faced their computers and answered 200 tough questions to vie for top scores based on the accuracy and speed of their answers.

Results of the contest are tabulated into overall, state, and enrollment-size ranking. "It was fun to compete, but getting out of class was the real bonus," junior Jared Palmer said.

Is This Tough or What?!

"It challenged me, and I'm glad we had a strong group of students," junior Ryan McCann said.

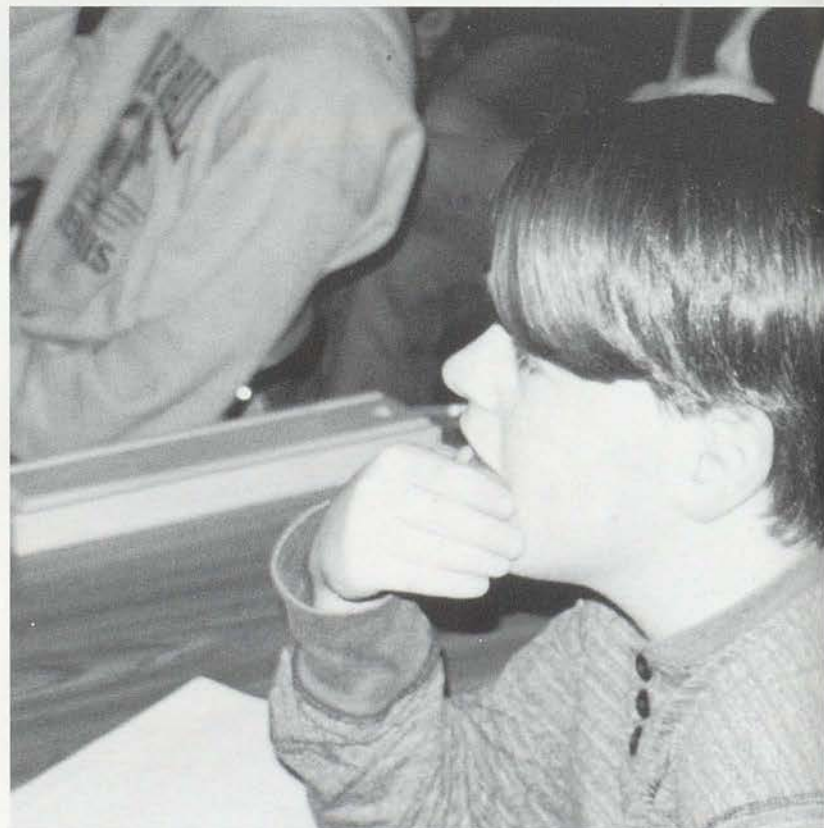

Laid Back, Time to Relax

"I've been doing it for a long time, and it's fun. Everybody has fun. Nobody really takes it seriously," senior Joe Hutchings said.

I got This Under my Belt

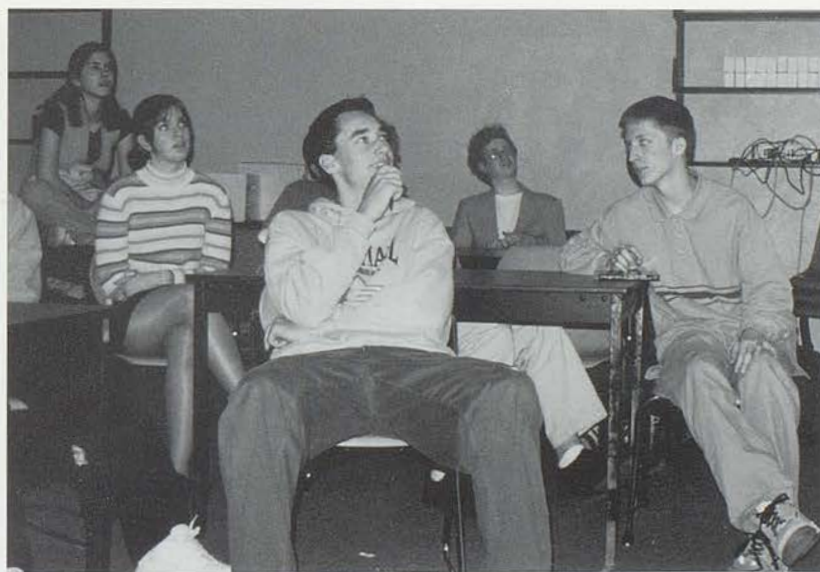

"I thought it was kind of different and it tested how much you actually have learned during school throughout the years," junior Eric Blum said.

I Think I Can, I Think I Can...
"The questions are really tough but we got most of them right," sophomore Krinn Hess said. Helping her out is sophomore James Lueng.

The Great Thinkers
"It's an awesome adventure," freshman Eric Heirman said. "It's an educational waste of time," freshman Alli Wills said while sitting next to her fellow classmate.

Taking it All in Stride
"It was challenging, but it was a laid back atmosphere," senior Jon Hausler said about the Knowledge Master Open.

Intelligence at Work
"It was a good experience. It's a good way to develop problem solving skills," junior Britney Hainline said.

Celebrating her "fake" birthday is junior Essie Galloway. Members of Close-up form a circle and surround her as they sing and dance.

Ahh!

In shock of how tall the Washington Monument is, juniors Jenny Stulburg and Aubry McCaully stand in awe.

Shaded...

Sitting under a tree taking a break from all of the action that comes along with being in Close-up is junior Cheryl Hedges.

Lincoln Memorial

Taking it easy in front of the Lincoln Memorial are juniors Jenna Hurd, Kelsey Schnaitman, and Becca Riser. These are just three of the girls picked to go for this year's Close-up trip in Washington D.C.

To Washington and Beyond!!!

MHS Juniors travel to Washington D.C. to expand their knowledge.

Every year Marshall High selects a few lucky student to be taken to our capitol, Washington D.C. Students have to be eligible, and to be this, they have to be interested in law, politics, government, and other things related to these subjects.

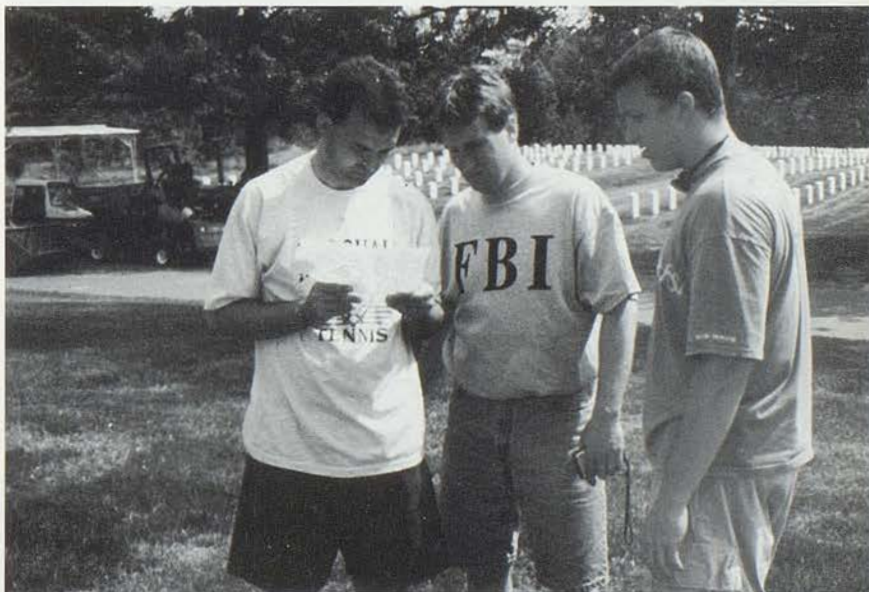

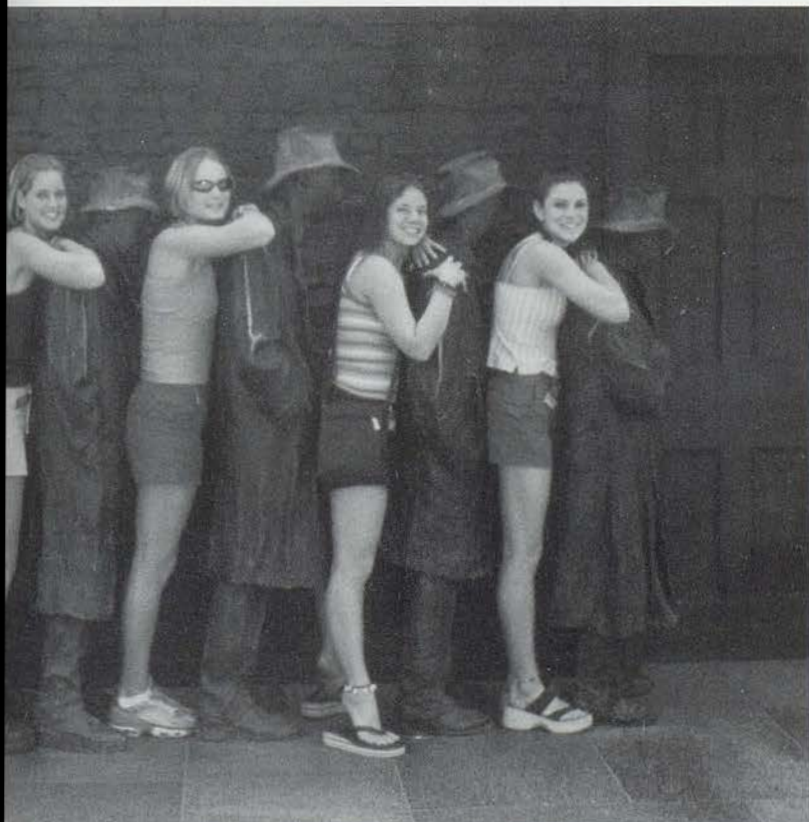

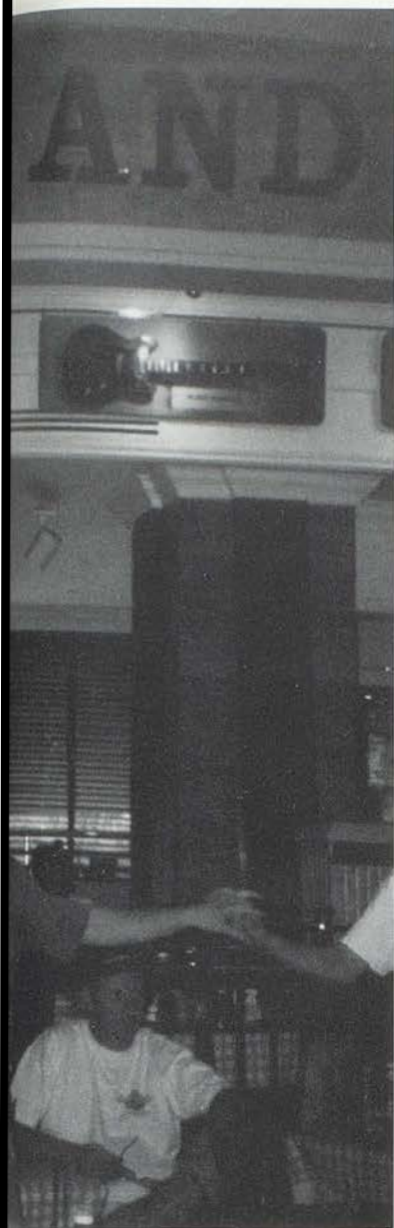

For the past years, Marshall's juniors have gone and came back with nothing but good comments. A last year participant, now a senior, John Lambrix said, "I had fun last year. The time we got to experience was unbelievable. It was so worth the time we had to spend preparing for it."

Being in Close-up is a great experience. It involves a lot of work and long hours but in the end it pays off because you get a trip to Washington D.C.

Whistle While We Work...

Working in her classes, so that she can get her work done before she leaves for Close-up, is junior Becca Riser. "I really wanted to go this year, I was very excited about the whole experience," Becca said.

Lean On Me.

When you're not stong, they'll be your friends. These junior girls from Close-up, Aubrey McCauley and Jennifer Stulberg meet up with other girls as they travel on their trip.

What's Next?

Figuring out what is going to be next on their daily activity list, junior Matt Vandermuelen is first in line to find out.

And The Beat Goes On...

Playing the MHS grand piano is musician and student Emzy Collins. "I was very impressed with his musical talent. I had no idea he even played!" Mr. Burns, coordinator of Class Night, said. Emzy also accompanied the senior class in their opening and closing acts.

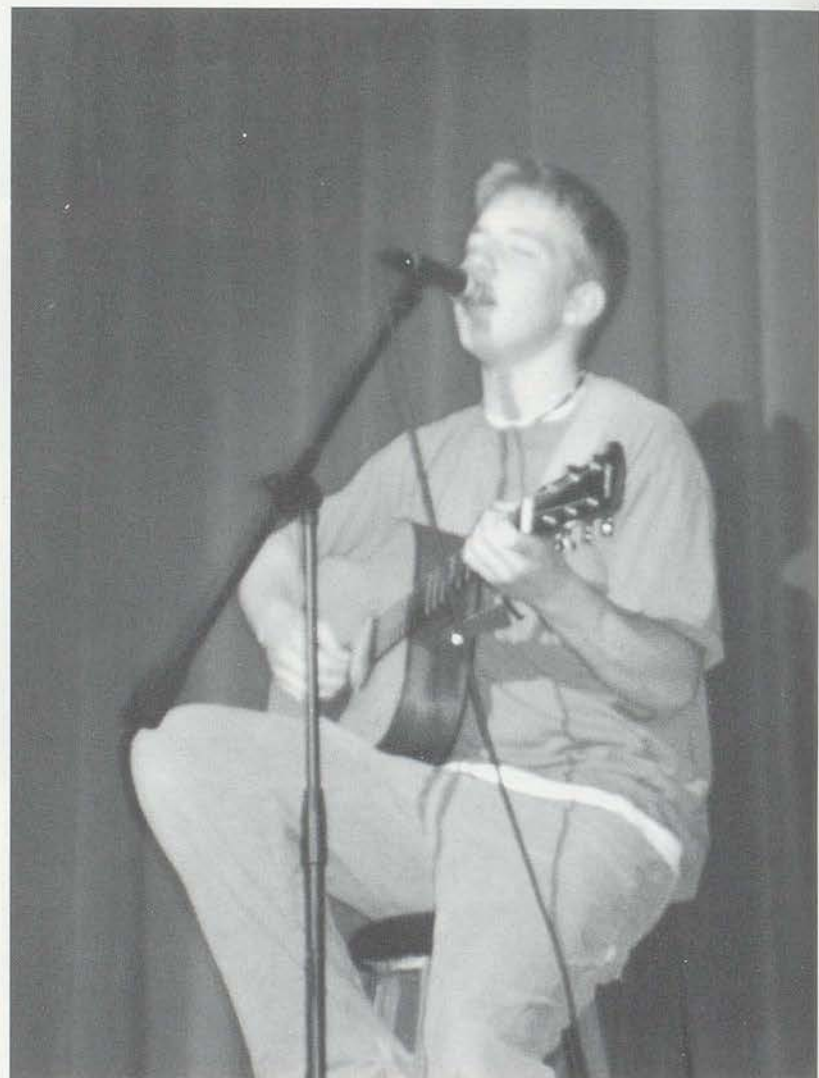

Shimmy, Shimmy

Impersonating well known pop music performers are Erica Eash, Jaime Lourige, and Bethany Weare.

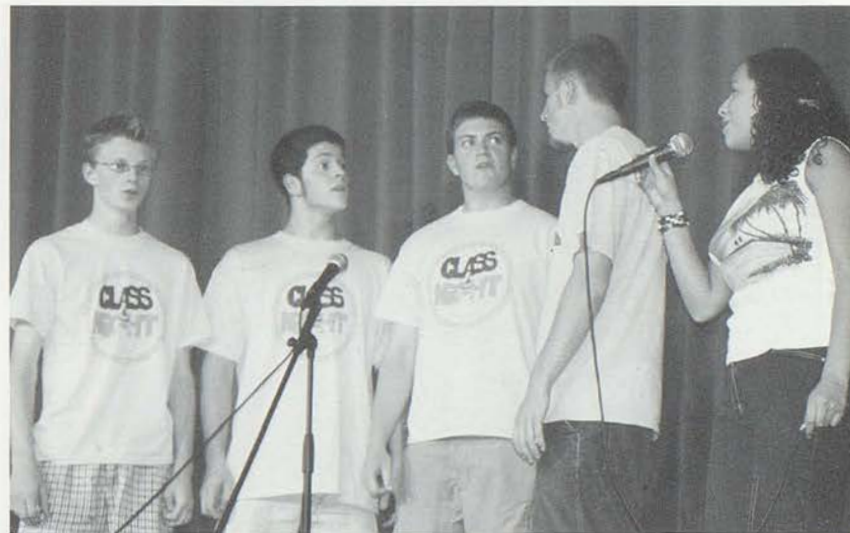

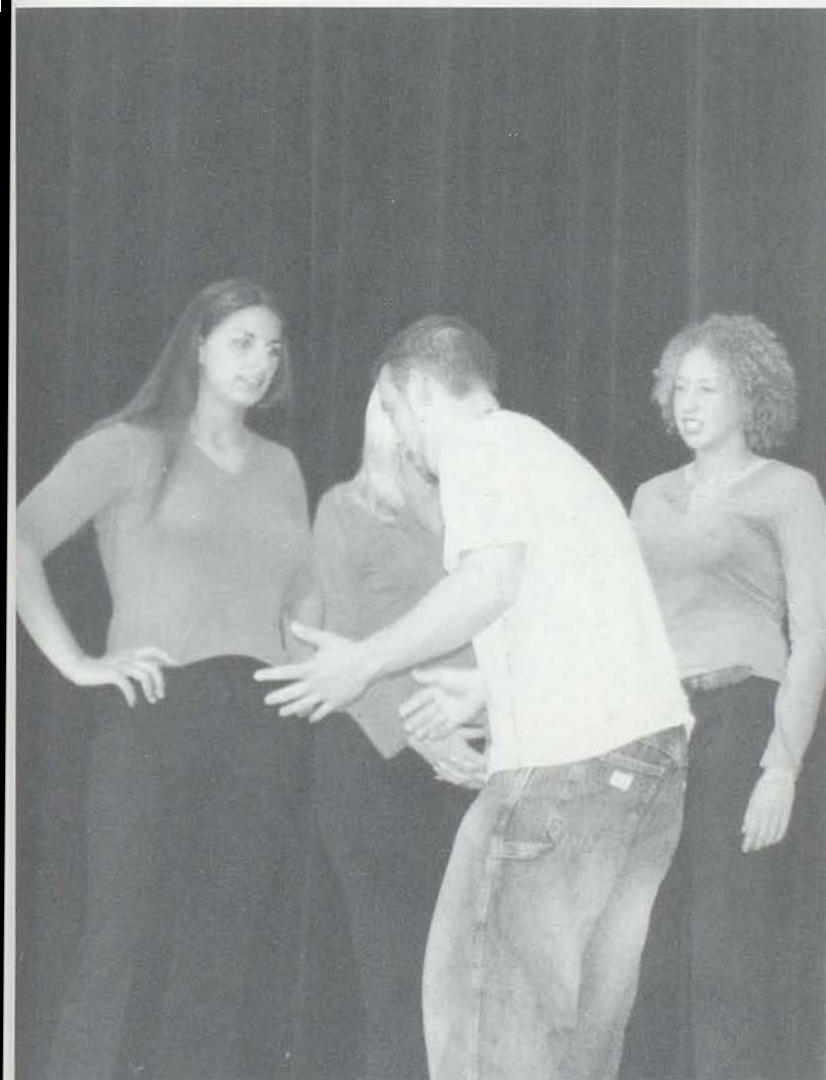

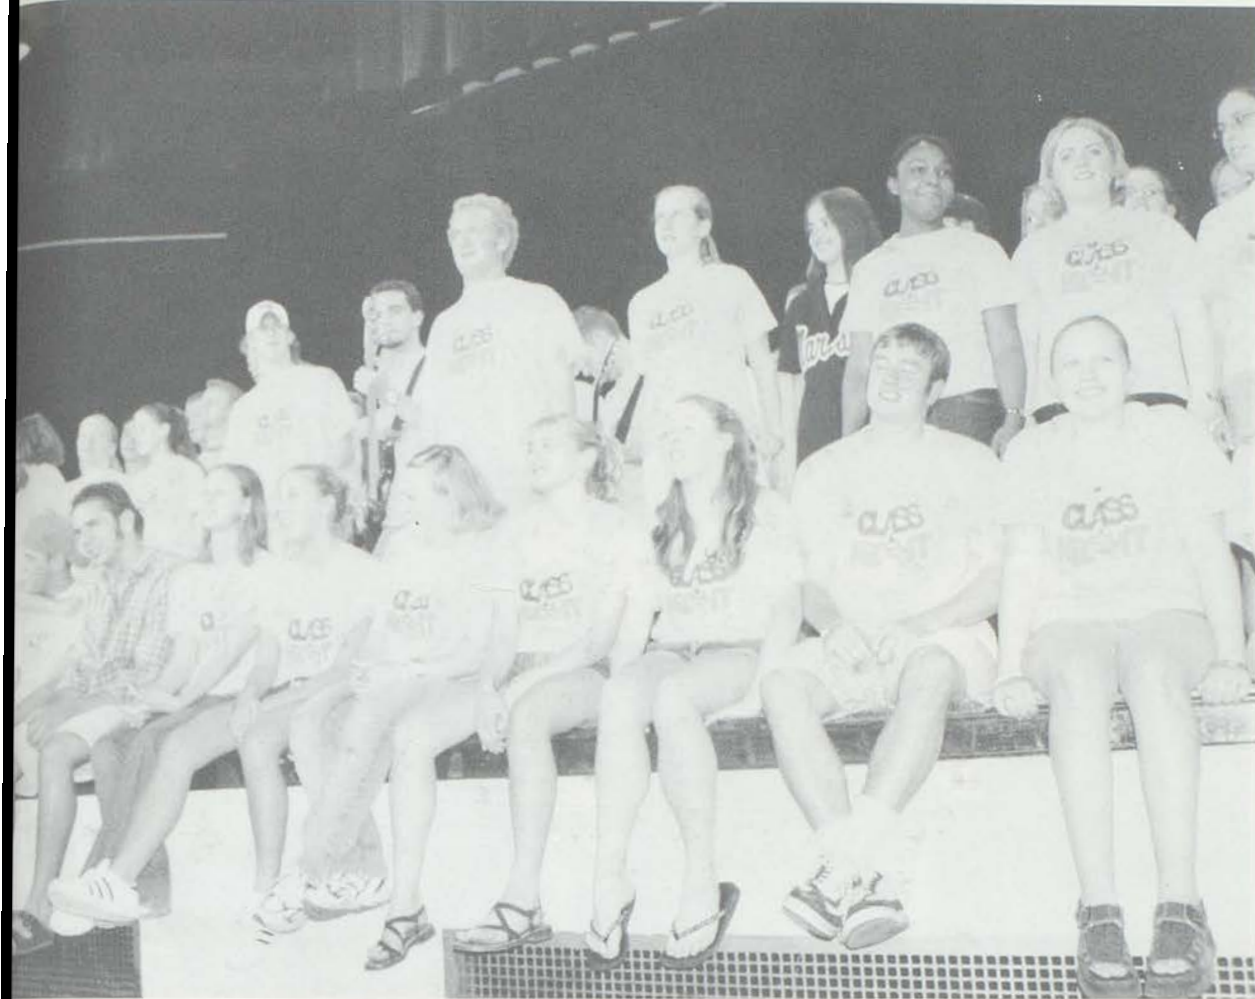

Going Solo

"I love to perform whenever I get the chance; it's been my dream since I was little. Damascus Rules!" Joe Darling said.

United as 01
 "We are the class of 2001, oh-ay-oh!" could be heard across the auditorium as this years seniors sang their opening act.

Top of the World
 Decked out in shiny pink and purple attire, Felicity Osborn sings on the lonely stage. "It was scary being out there alone, but after a few lines, I went right with the music," she said.

Sweet Harmony
 "We decided to sing 'In my Life' by the Beatles because it talks about how life changes. Our lives are going to change a lot after graduation, too," Andy Rosko said. Singing with him is Dave Richardson, Phil Doud, Keegan Robbins, and Jaime Blossom.

The Land Down Under
 Wrestling alligators is no problem for Jon Hausler, who is originally from Australia. "The toughest kind are the ones you have to blow up. I always get out of breath," Jon said.

We Can't Dance... Or Can We?
"I was not nervous at all. It was more meaningful because it was dedicated to Dave," Jenny Rodgers said. With her are Tonya Dawson and Jessica Johnson.

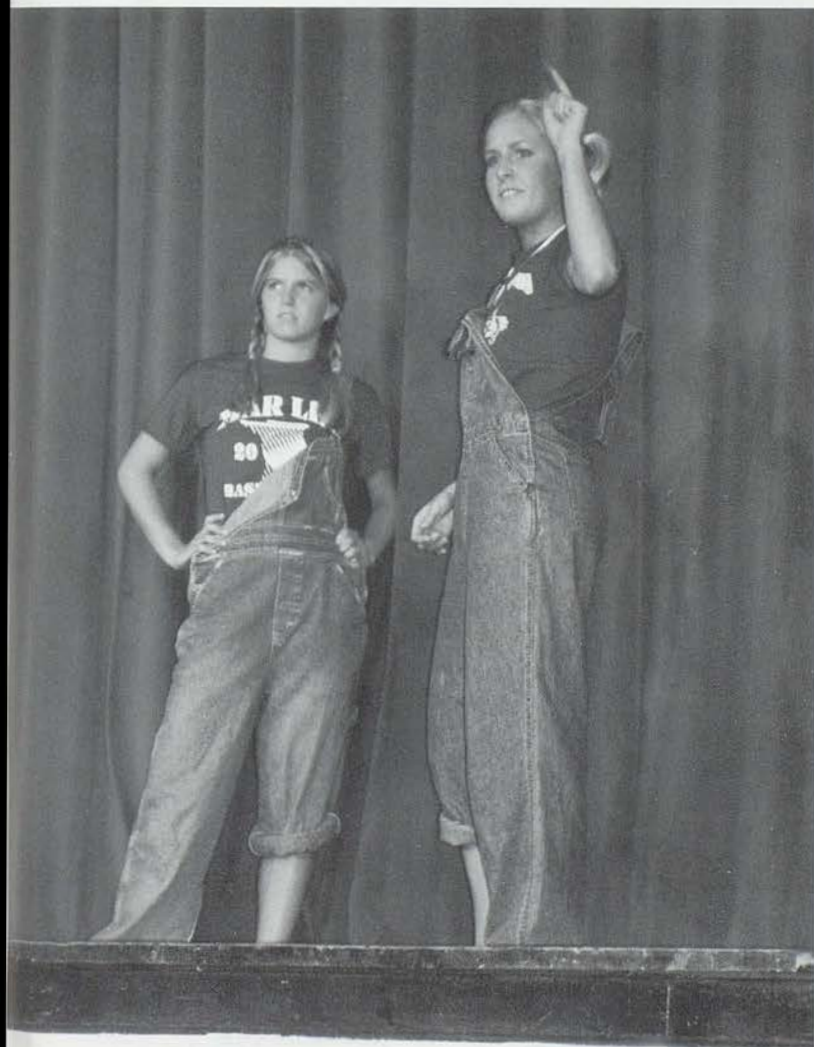

Definitely Not Juggling
"I've been here for four years, so I might as well be remembered for something amusing," Eric Hecox said.

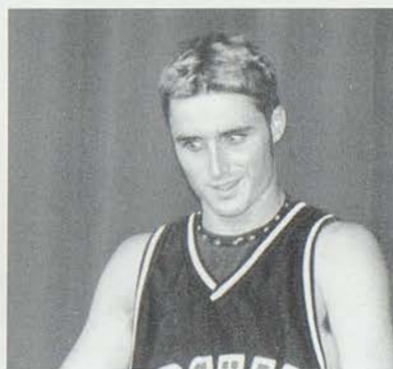

It's the American Way?
 One of the skits in Class Night consisted of foreign exchange student Stian Ottem dressing up as a woman. With him are Camela Teixeira, Chie Okada, and Hedly Veelied.

I'm so Excited, and I Just Can't Hide It
 "I thought Scott was really sexy when he took off his shirt," Jenny Yang said as she was watching Scott McLain.

You Are So Beautiful... To Me
 "Gosh, I really am beautiful," Rob Backland said when he saw himself as a woman. The shocked guys are Brad McCormack, Ryan "OC" O'Connell, Pat Clark, and Pete VanZandt.

Who's That In The Audience?
 "I know our Class Night was the best. I saw Mrs. Long in the front row, and it scared me," Brad McCormack said.

Where are Our Dates?

Their first prom in the United States and they can't seem to keep their dates from disappearing. The foreign exchange students Ricke Wiehler, Heddy Veeleid, and Camilla Teixeira said, "We found our dates finally and had a great time at prom."

Elvis Has Been Spotted

Dancing the night away are seniors Erica Eash and Cody Burghdorf. "I couldn't stop laughing. He looked so much like Elvis to me that night," Erica Eash said.

Bye Bye Bye

When asked what possessed him to get up and do the dance to the song "Bye Bye Bye" by N'Sync, senior Paul Mestemaker replied, "I just can't help myself when I hear my favorite song; the music just moves me, and I have the urge to get up and dance."

What a night!!

The Tropical Fever theme to this year's prom boasted tiki torches, palm trees, sand, and everything but real sunshine. "It reminded me of the prom on the movie Sixteen Candles," Jen Henry, sophomore, said.

Junior Class Prince and Princess

The junior class voted on who would become their Prince and Princess for the 2001 Prom. As the class waited in suspense, the announcers came on and announced Tyler LaFountain and Brittany Hainline would be the 2001 Prince and Princess.

Senior Class King and Queen

The seniors awarded with the honor of being the 2001 Prom King and Queen were the couple Ian Root and Dawn Saylor. They danced the night away in each others arms. "It was so perfect that we were picked; he really is my King!" Dawn Saylor said.

Pre-Prom Plans

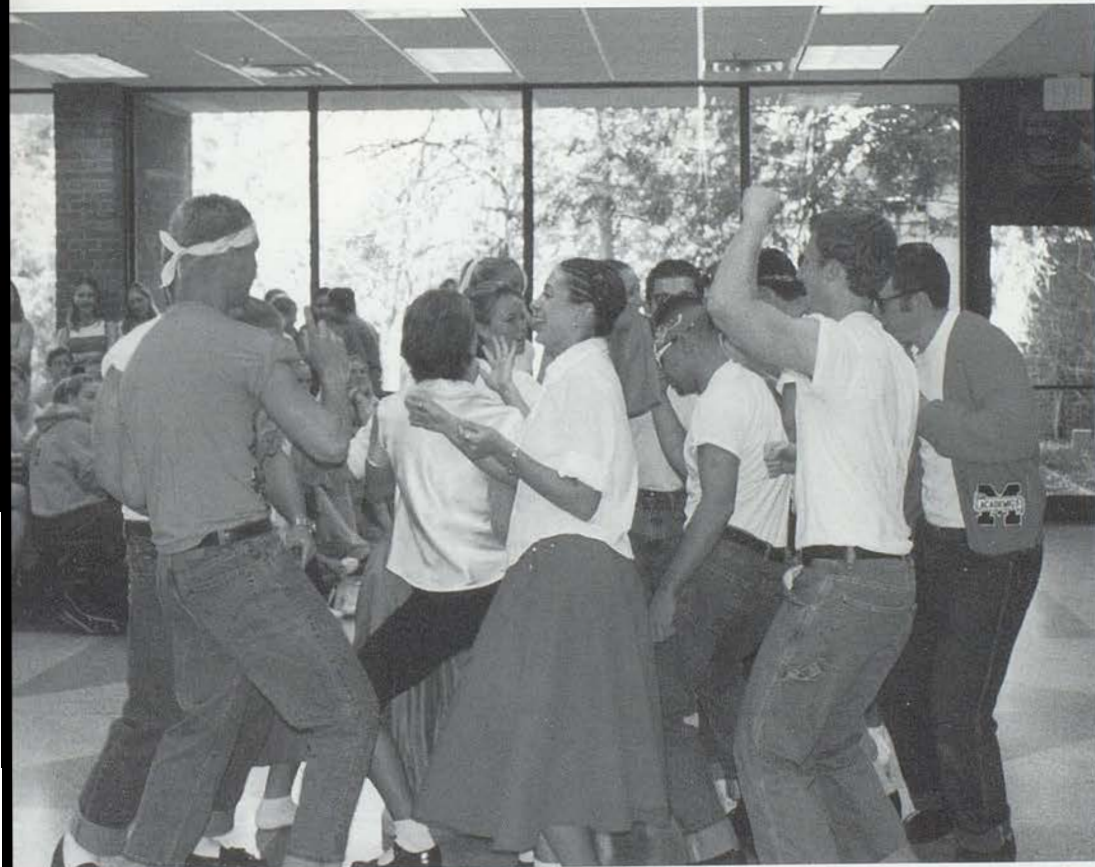

One of the best parts of prom is the before and after. Seniors Molly Miller and Andrea Twiss got special treatment from their dates since their group rode to prom in style in a limosine.

Dance, Dance, Dance...

After dancing the night away, seniors Joe Kubicek and Heidi Bramble take a break and enjoy watching others around them break it down. Prom was the night after class night this year, so lots of seniors were already tired.

United As "01"

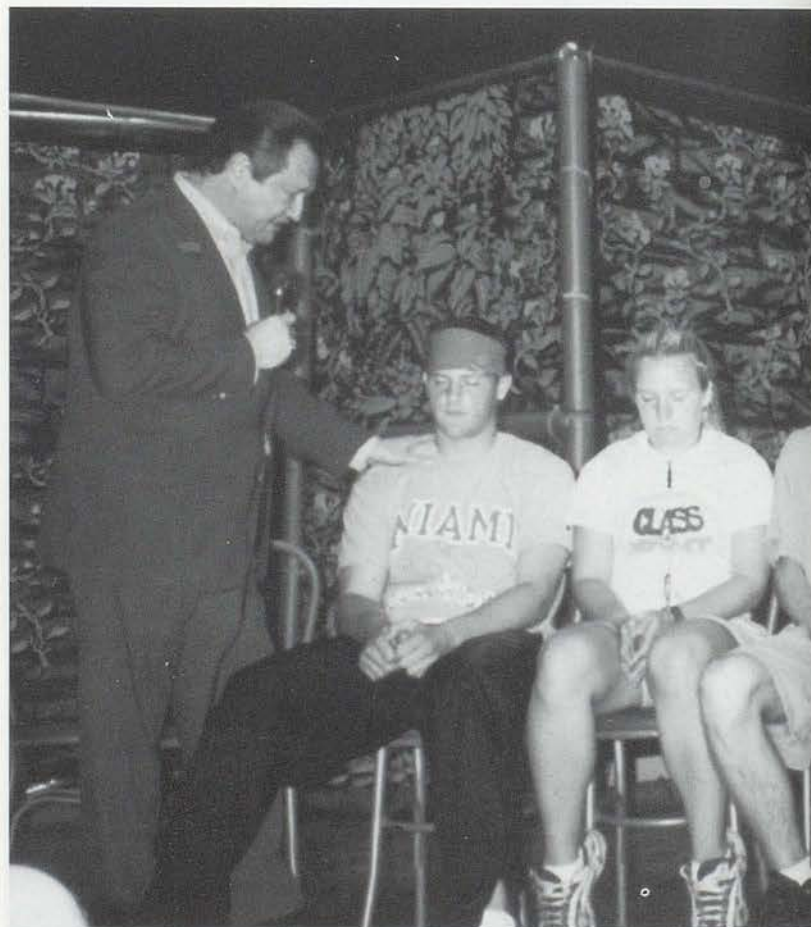

Each and every year the traditional Class Party is held for the Senior class after the night of graduation. This year's party theme was "Survivor". It was held at Full Blast in Battle Creek.

"We just want the kids to have some fun with their parents! Everyone should win a prize this year," said Mrs. Rosko, an active parent of a senior.

I'm in the Money...
Or in the tickets. Tonya Dawson enjoys her night in the arcade and likes winning all her tickets. All the tickets can be turned in to win a prize.

CasiNO, CaSIno...
Another activity that takes place during the class party is gambling to win prizes. Cynthia Hookway and Kristi PaaVo place their bets to increase their chances of winning.

A Harper Creek turnover is reason enough for Mr. Underhill and the football team to celebrate as sophomore Joe Kalisz watches passing cars. "They were shiny," said Joe.

I've Got Football Fever!

"My arm's the one on the football," explains senior Marc "Mox" Mead. "It was a successful snap."

Varsity Football

Up In Heah'

Fall is time for the new school year, homecoming, and more specifically, Marshall football. The varsity football team finished with a record of five wins and four losses. In Marshall's last game loss against Harper Creek, the team no longer had a chance to further advance their season. "It was no longer about preserving our season," senior Marc Mead said of the Harper Creek game, "It was about ruining someone else's season."

Marc Mead: "Travis, how would you describe our season?"

Travis Sims: "Well, Marc, I was injured the entire time, I never played, remember?"

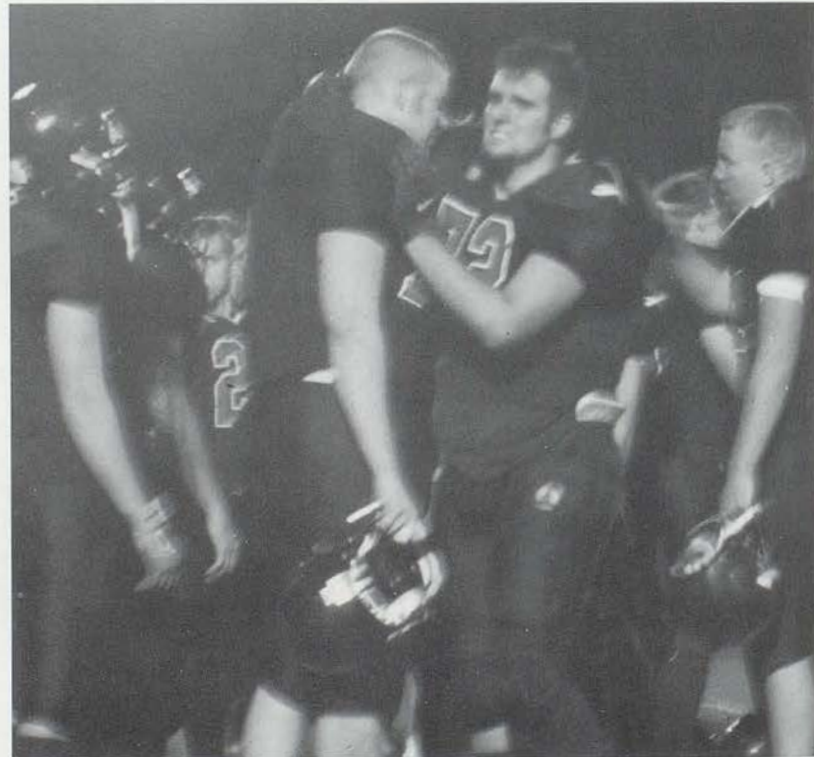

Marc Mead: "I'll ask the questions here, Travis. Why do you think that is?"

Travis Sims: "I think I just tried too hard, but I sure won't let that happen again."

Marc Mead: "Er, Travis, er."

"This is the first full football season I've enjoyed in it's entirety so far," Travis Sims said. "I didn't play cause I got hurt a lot, but I was on the team."

"I had a lot of faith in my fellow seniors and team mates, they did a good job even when I wasn't playing...or even there," Travis said. "The fact that I'm a clydesdale doesn't hurt either."

A Moment For Us

The football team gathers on the sideline as senior Chris "Tree" Robinson and senior Brian Leninger share a moment. "I really don't want to talk about it," said Brian.

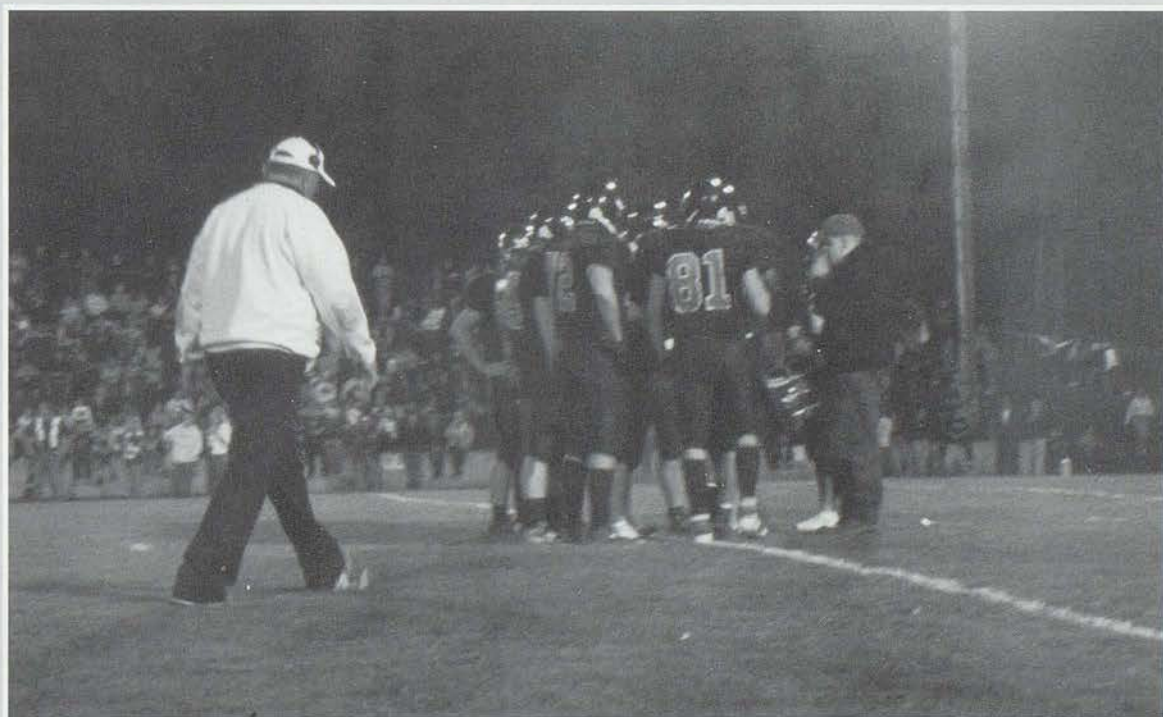

As Much Action as One Man Can Handle
 Standing aside to observe the team, junior Colin Vincent is unconcerned with his own safety. "I never wear a helmet," Colin said. "Ever."

We're so Nice We Don't Slice; We Sever
 "Our offense is a rock, dude," said senior B.J. "Laser" Van Dyke, "but that's the kind of results you get when you put me in."

He got it
 Catching a pass and preparing to run is freshman player Todd Gore number eighty-one. The Marshall team used that touchdown to help them win the game.

Ouch
Falling over after taking down a player on the other team is sophomore JV player Jimmy Biggs.

Set hike
Marshall prepares for another play, starting as all plays do with a hike to quarter back. QB for the JV team is sophomore Joe Kalisz number three. "I feel we didn't play as intense as last year," Joe said.

Charge
Charging right over a Spartan is freshman player Chad Burdette.

Silver pon pons sparkle in the lights

With pon pon's in the air, senior Kaity Adams, junior Danielle Woods, and senior Nichole Madry show off their moves.

Doing "the wave"

Waving their hearts out at a varsity football game are junior Kari Hamaker, senior Heidi Bramble, and sophomore Ashley Maisner.

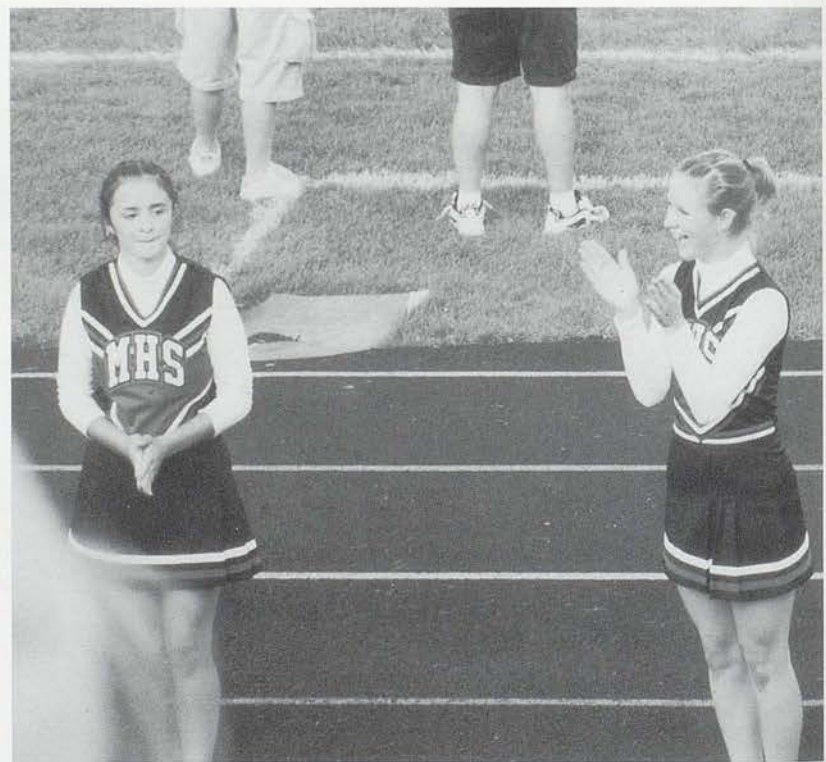

Cheerleaders' stylish moves keep the crowd on their feet.

Cheering away with style

Whether the football team wins or loses, the cheerleaders keep the crowd going. "It's improved from last year to this year, and it's important to have fun," freshman Megan Iobe, a JV cheerleader, said.

"We had a good season. I feel that it's a great opportunity to work with other girls you don't normally talk to or get along with, and it's nice that we've actually had a good reputation," senior Nichole Madry, a member of the varsity cheerleading squad, said.

"I get tired because the games are back to back, but it was a lot of fun anyway," freshman Brianna Bulgarelli, a JV cheerleader, said.

Looking their best

"Our team has really improved, and we had a great season," senior Sarah Amaro said. Helping her out is senior Heidi Bramble.

Intensity at its best

"Sometimes the crowd just doesn't get into it, so that's why I was clapping," freshman Brianna Bulgarelli, a member of the JV cheerleading squad said.

Splitting the air

Proving she can be creative, freshman Megan lobe gets lifted into the air with the help of freshman Sarah South. Also helping them out are freshman Brianna Bulgarelli, freshman Sara Potter, and freshman Jacqueline Haun. All are part of the JV cheerleading squad.

Turning the crowd upside down

Doing partner chartwheels, freshman Sarah South and freshman Megan lobe push their limits. "The only stunt that was hard was when Sarah and I were doing a liberty, and I fell," Megan said.

Hello... I'm open!

Calling for the ball, senior Tonya Dawson posts up on a Coldwater defender. Tonya received the ball from a teammate and used one of her post moves to give her team an easy two points.

Listen up girls

Working up one of her secret plays during a time out in the fourth quarter of a close game against Lakeview is Coach Sal Konkle. The Skins ran the play and went on to win the game.

The Lady Skins are feeling good about their successful season.

“How You Feel... Feeling Good!”

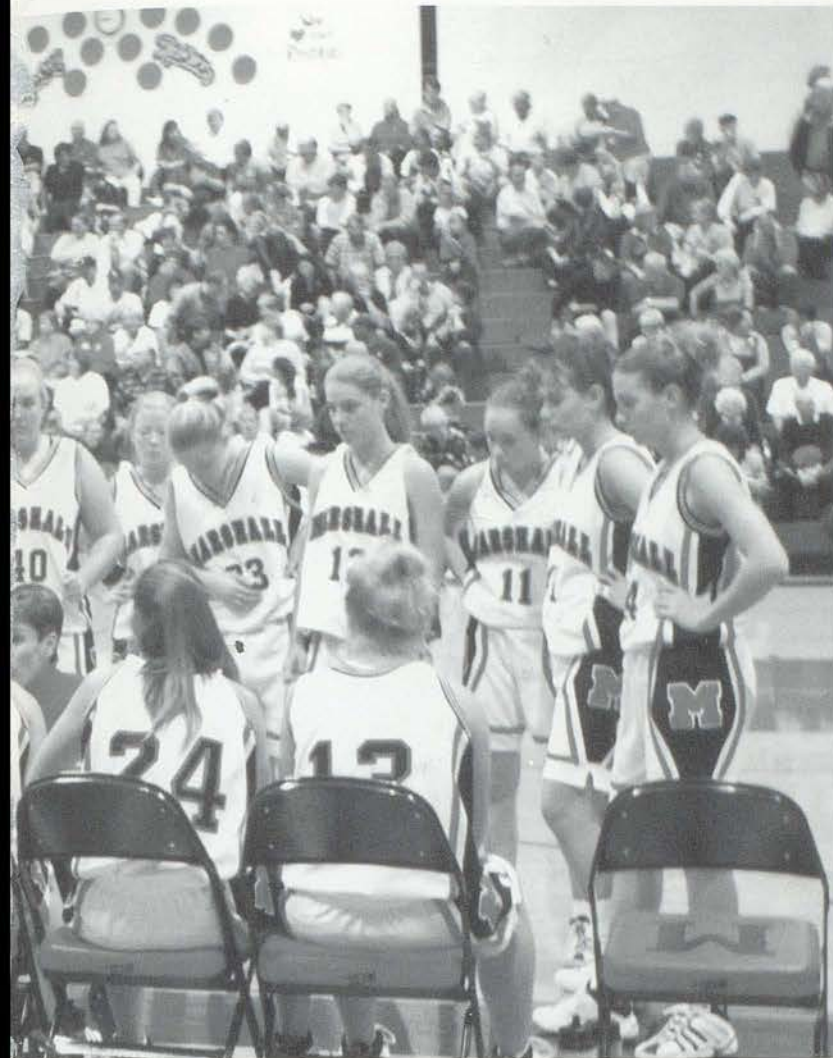

“1,2,3... Yes!” The Lady Skins shout this cheer to psych themselves up before every game. Despite losing a lot of players last year, the ladies prove that they are still on top of their game. “People were worried that we wouldn’t be such a great team after losing all the seniors, but we knew we still had a lot of talent,” senior Marissa Long said. They finished their season with a 18-6 record.

“We might not have always looked our best... but when it came down to it, we got the job done,” senior and co-captain Jenny Rodgers said as she reflected on the season. The ladies have been concentrating on team unity this season, starting with four straight days of basketball this summer at Hope College team camp.

“My favorite memory from this season was team camp. Besides staying up late and having fun with my team, we played hard and improved on the court,” junior Morgan Goodwin said. One thing the team improved on was their defense. “Overall, our defense improved the most throughout the season,” junior Beth Scherer said. Jenny Rodgers also added, “Our team unity improved as the season went on.” After their successful season, including a fifth consecutive district title, the Lady ‘Skins prove they still have what it takes to be champions.

And she's off!
As she drives to the hoop, senior Kari Searles blows past a BCC defender. Thanks to this senior's offensive skills, the ladies went on to win the game in overtime.

Follow through, Katie!
At the free throw line, senior Katie Schaum concentrates to line up the ball with the hoop. Katie has spent a lot of hard work on her free throws at practice. All of Katie's hard work paid off; she swooshed the shot and helped Marshall to beat Harper Creek.

We're #1... again!
The Skins celebrate after beating Brooklyn Columbia Central to win their fifth consecutive district title.

Showing how it's really done, freshman Sarah Richardson looks for the perfect opportunity to pass or score.

Push off

"We worked really hard , we were a really determined group of girls," freshman Kristen Welch said. Here she is looking to pass the ball to set up a shot.

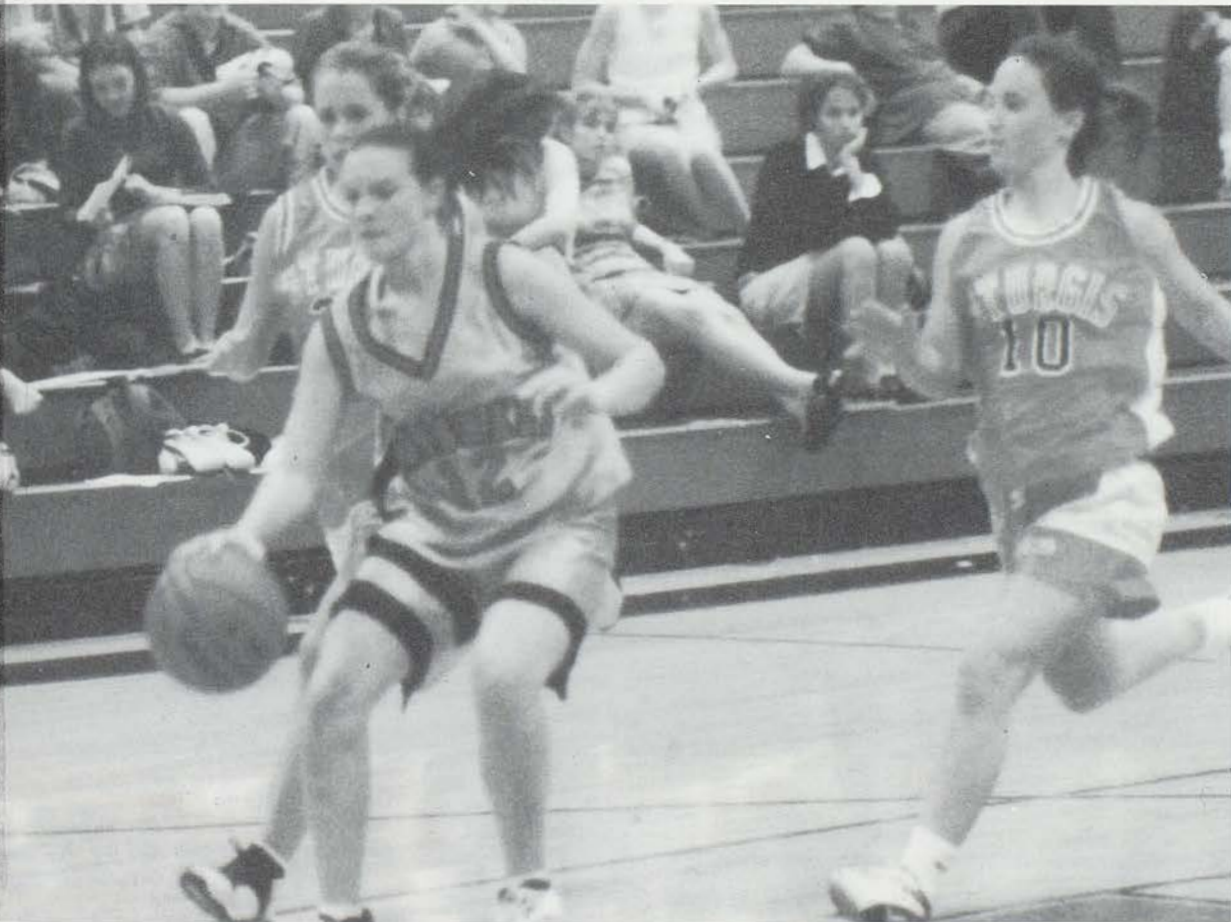

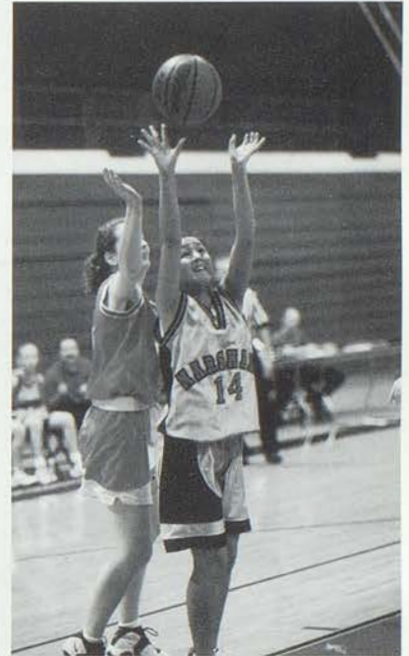

Perfect shot

Sophomore JV player Monica Long shows her outside shot form. Sophomore teammate Beth Anne Murphy runs to get the re-bound, but didn't; the ball went in.

Gimme, Gimme, Gimme...

Going for the ball is sophomore Ingrid Edwards, who holds on tight to the ball for her team.

Wait a minute..

Taking a minute out of playing soccer to have a little chat with the ball is junior Kail Robinson.

Kicking back

Taking it easy after being injured is junior Ian Stewart. Ian got to watch the games and practices in comfort after teammates decided to bring a couch down on the sidelines for him.

The boys were on fire this year, while going all the way to districts.

There's no stopping the Twin Valley champs.

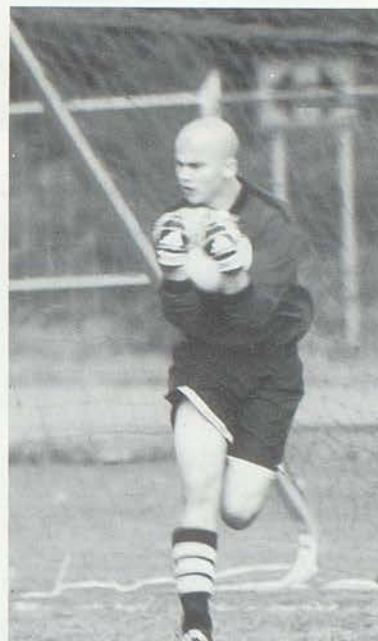

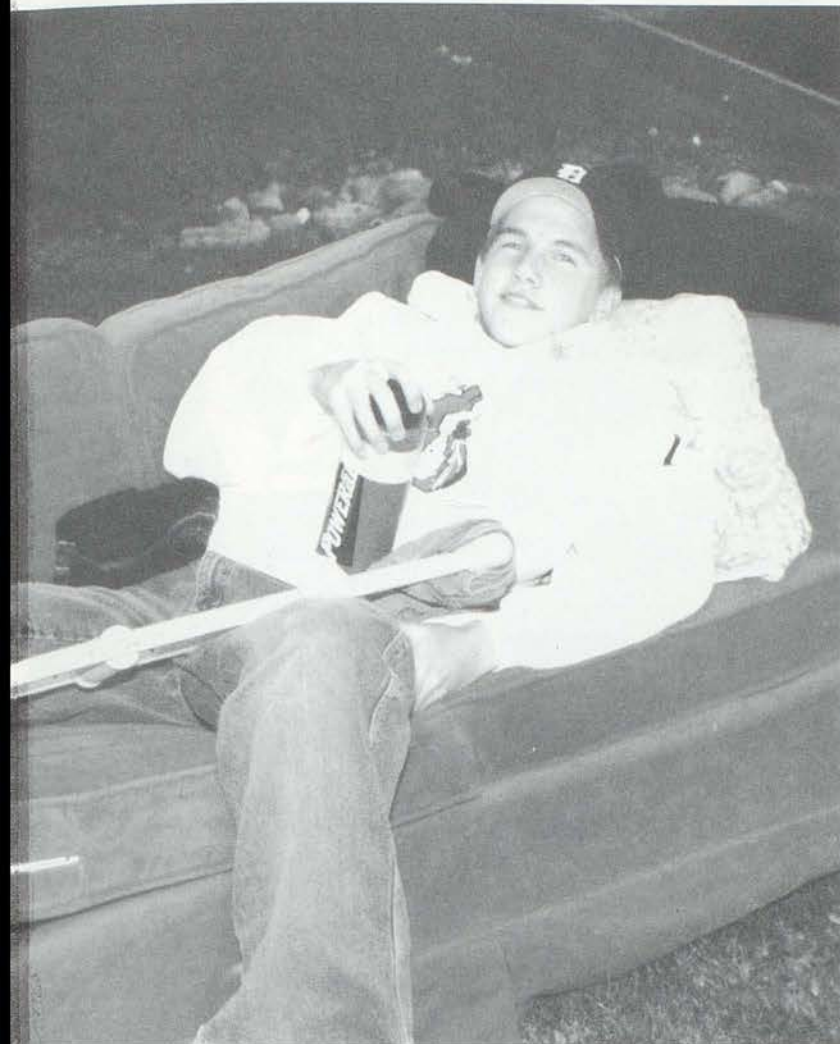

They all played their best, both defense and offense. With four sophomores, ten juniors, and eight seniors, the boys proved that age didn't matter when it came to team work. In the Harper Creek and Sturgis games the Skins scored 10 to 0, and they showed us that nothing was going to get past them. When the boys were asked what the hardest part of this season was, Captain Rob Backlund said, "Staying focused every day and at practices."

Also Ryan "OC" O'Connell said, "The hardest part was concentrating on the game and just to remember to have fun." And the boys did just that. They stayed focused during the games and practices but also had fun. The long hard practices and games all paid off in the end with the varsity capturing the Twin Valley Championship and making it to three games in the Districts.

Out in the Open

As usual senior Rob Backlund left out in the open with the ball and the defense wondering what he'll do next. "It's always a blast to play," Rob said.

Say WHAT?

The look on sophomore Brad Polcyn's face could keep any opponent away. "I was so mad because my defense gave me two P.K's," Brad said.

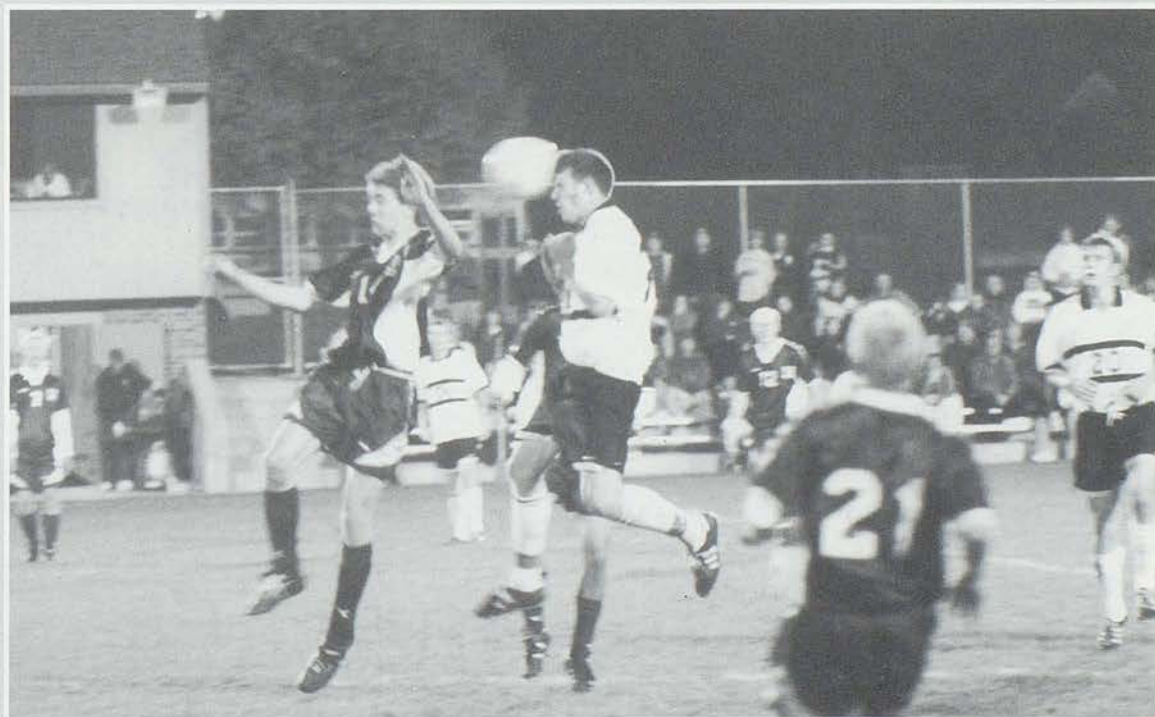

Little bunny fu fu...

Hopping through the field, sophomore Jeff Cox takes some time to demonstrate a childhood fairy tale he used to play a long time ago. "I like to bring childhood memories back when I'm having a hard time on the field," Jeff said.

Don't Doubt the Lady Skins

Never Say Never

Knowing that the match against Coldwater would be tough, Coach Foreman wanted to motivate the girls.

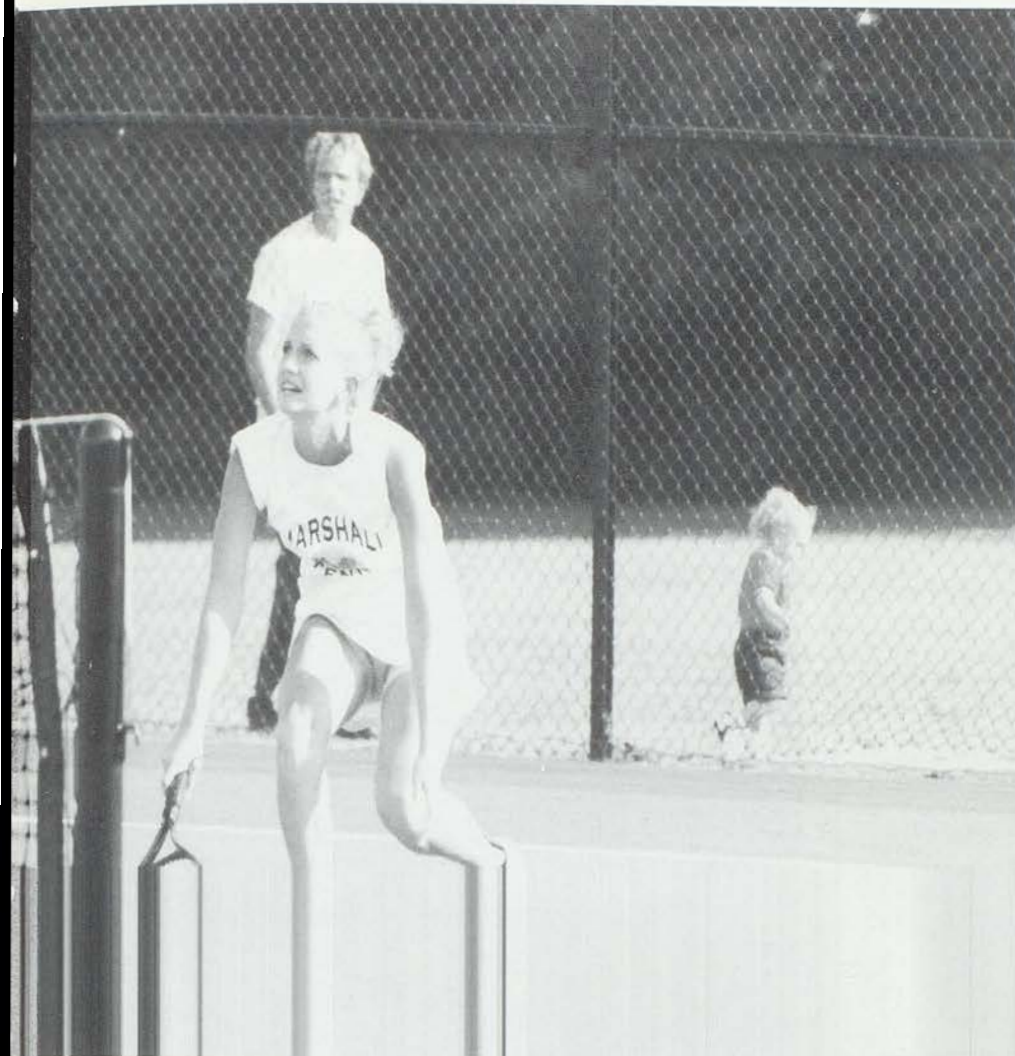

"I wanted them to achieve something I wasn't sure they could accomplish," Mr. Foreman said. He told his girls if they won, they could do whatever they wanted to him. The girls got all kinds of crazy ideas, but settled on dying his hair the color of a tennis ball.

"I was hoping they would throw a pie in my face instead," Mr. Foreman said. The girls defeated Coldwater 5 to 3. But instead of hot green, they had to get purple because the store did not have hot green.

"It was so much fun. I think dying Coach Foreman's hair brought the team together," sophmore Kealey Cottrel said.

Watch Out!
As senior Stacey Roberts gets ready to punch the ball toward her opponent, she takes time to make it perfect.

I got it!
As the ball flies her way senior Jaime Loughrige runs up to smack the ball down where the other girls can't get it.

Here it comes.
The opponent sends senior Jenny Yang a nice ground stroke. She returned it with a killer slice." My lucky sweatband helped a lot this year. Intimidation is the name of the game!" Jenny said.

It's all about the touch! "I'll miss chillin' with Code One," freshman Lance Crull said. "Cody was the wildest, and most entertaining player on the team this year," sophomore Josh Coles said. Cody Burghdorf was one of the five members of the golf team that will be graduating this year. In this photo Cody has selected his club from his bag, and is preparing for his approach shot. Cody knocked this one stiff on the green. Then he went on to make the putt. Cody has golfed for Marshall High School for all four years he has been here. "Next year the younger players will have to step up to account for the graduating seniors." Coach Reynolds said. Code-One will be one of those seniors.

Swinging into 2000

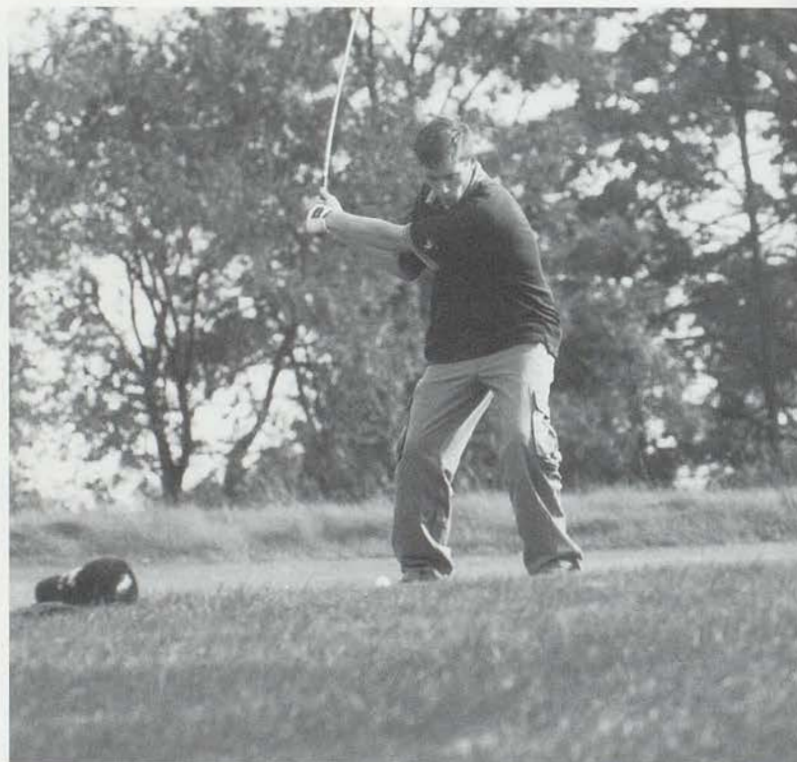

Tee Time

The stage is set. One meet to go with the Twin Valley title up for grabs. Five seniors, one junior, and a freshman worked all year to get ready for this. The boys' golf team not only keep their cool, but they come out on top of everyone.

"To give you an idea of how close it really was, we had 25 points, the second place team had 24, two other teams had 23, and the fifth place team had 22," explained Coach Reynolds. "Then we went on and lost in a tie-breaker at regionals and were turned back from state."

The boys' golf team is now looking towards next year, even though only two golfers will return. "We will lose a lot of seniors next year, but I think we will still be good," replied sophomore Josh Coles.

Only time will tell if the boys' golf team can live up to the season of the year 2000.

Practice Makes Perfect!

Letting loose his drive, senior Matt Tarpley practices his stroke. Matt practiced his stroke for four years while at Marshall. Matt played as the lone Redskin at state.

Look at the pose!
This pose is brought to you by senior Paul Mestamaker following this drive into the fairway. "Paul is one of our good seniors this year." Lance Crull said. Paul was one of five seniors that put in rounds for the Marshall High School boys' golf team.

Concentration!
Searching for the correct line to the hole are seniors Matt Bennett and Cody Burghdorf. Cody figured it out as he went on to find nothing but the bottom of the cup.

Leave It All In The Pool

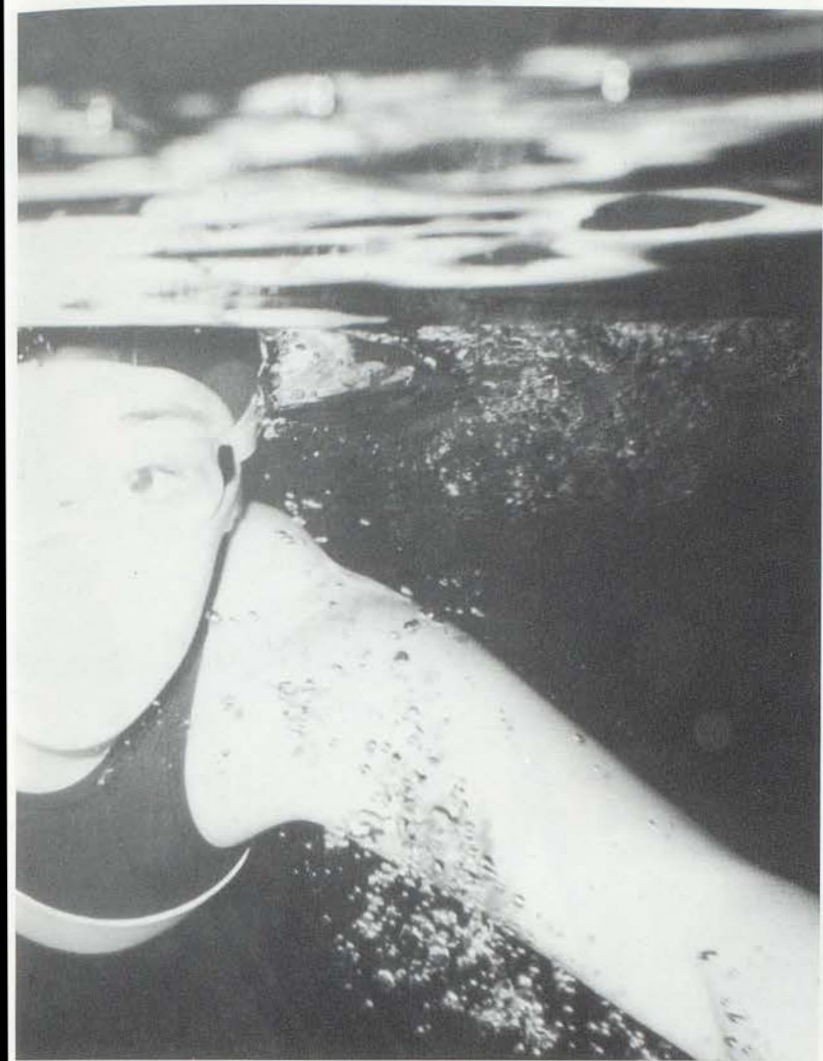

The MHS lady fins kicked their way through another season. "We had a good season especially because we are such a young team. I think we learned a lot this year that will help us have a better team next year," John Hamlin, the girls swim coach, said.

"I enjoyed swimming sooo much because the hard work really paid off in my events. Hard work and determination is our key to success, and me and Jen put the A and J in team," Ashley Heitmeyer sophomore swimmer said.

Although some members spent most of the season finding the event that was just right for them, others heard their calling. Six girls managed to qualify for state including two divers. Sophomores Kristi Miller, Kolleen Kowalske, Carrie Jones, and Carrie Schroeder all qualified in the 200 Medley relay, 200 free relay, and the 400 free relay. In individual events Kristi Miller qualified in the 100 butterfly, 50 free, and the 100 free. Kolleen Kowalske qualified in the 200 free, 500 free, 200 individual medley, and the 100 back. In diving Lauren Fletcher and Mallory Feeny completed their most practiced and organized dives.

Alright, so maybe these guys don't get totally lost, but they sure do run places most of us wouldn't even bother driving to. These guys hop creeks, jump stones, and climb hills, and still find the energy to finish strong. "The hardest thing is trying to run on gravel," sophomore Ryan Howard said. This year Phil Baranowski and Wes Schoenherr made it to the state meet. Phil placed 35th, while Wes placed 110th with times of 16:25 for Phil, and 17:06 for Wes. Phil's time just barely missed an All-State ranking. The meet had a total of 247 participants.

Obviously the athletes have to train hard for their strenuous trials of will power. "We all get tired of practice, but it really pays off," stated junior Josh Deno.

These Girls and Their Horses Are Flyin' All the Way to State.

The 2000-2001 Equestrian team definitely sped things up this year. They only have three meets a year and then head off to State if they qualify, which they did by beating Coldwater by only five points.

"We just practice on our own time if we get the chance and then all meet up at the weekend meets and hope that it all comes together," said sophomore Ashley Fast.

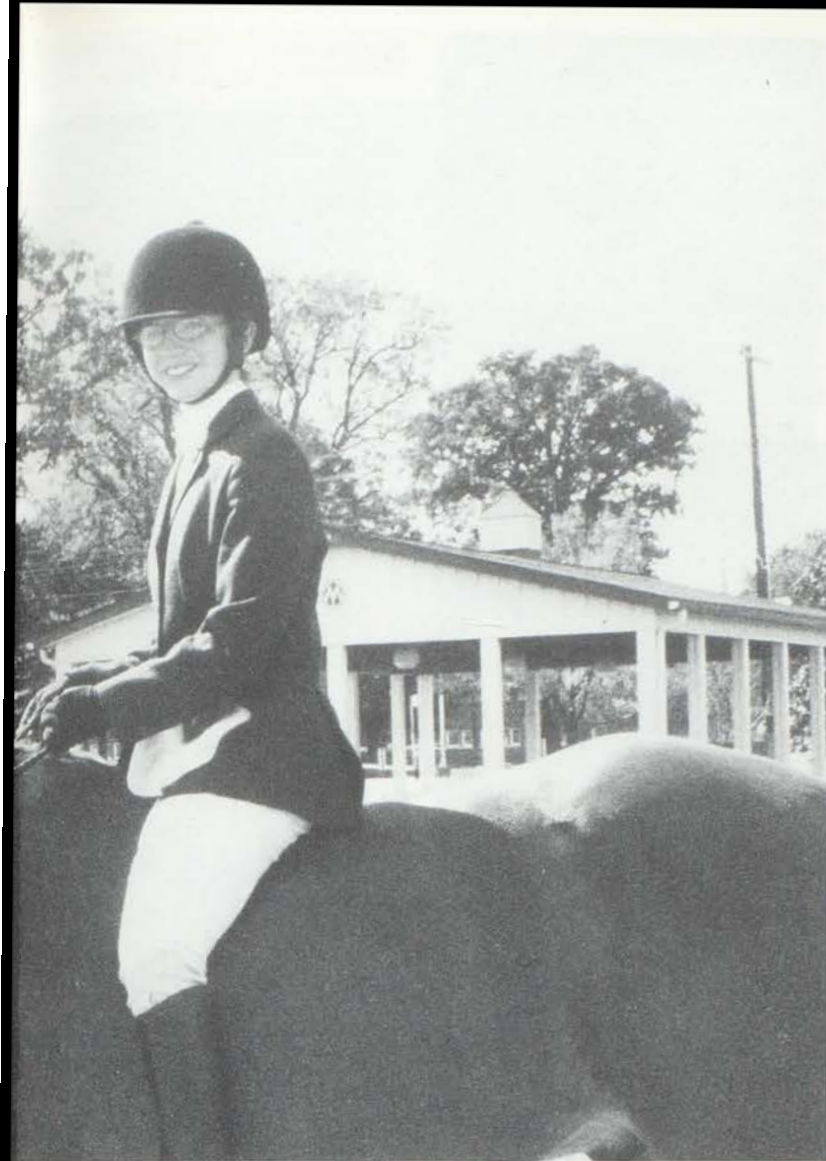

"I love our weekend trips. The people are great, and it's a lot of fun getting to watch and cheer on your friends," said sophomore Brittany Byrens.

"We had a great team this year. I really hope the team next year and the year after keep on getting better and better," said sophomore Ashley Ramos.

Hot cowgirls!

Taking a break from the competition, sophomores Laura Howland and Ashley Fast decide to have a dress-up day in the barn. "It's fun to have this time to just goof off with your friends here since everything else is so competitive," said Laura.

 This is a sight Redskin fans became accustomed to. Senior Jon Hausler charges down the floor after stealing the ball on defense. He made this bucket to help the Redskins get past the Beavers.

We are the Champions!
 The six seniors of this year's varsity boys basketball team celebrate the last Twin Valley Title. They pulled out a win over Sturgis in double-overtime.

At the beginning of the year, everyone expected Marshall to be a team in the middle of the pack in the Twin Valley, except for 13 players, a few locals, a short coach, and his three bald assistants.

Marshall went on to 14-0 in the Twin Valley and had an overall record of 19-3. This year's Redskin varsity basketball team started four seniors and a freshman. The captains were Brad McCormack, Ryan O'Connell, and Ben Hughes. The captains pushed the players all year and found ways to be successful.

"Since we had no star, everyone really had to come together. Not one player was ever greedy, and we busted our butts. The hard work paid off as we exceeded others' expectations. We felt we could have gone farther, but no one can ever take away the memories we did leave behind," senior captain Ryan O'Connell said. The team consisted of three other seniors that helped to lead the team; Joe Kubicek, Jon Hausler, and Adam Roth.

The Redskins had 13 role players, and each person knew how important their role was. From scoring points to pushing the others in practice, all the jobs were covered. The other thing that the Redskins did was make up for their lack of size. With only two guys at 6'4, the Skins were often short in size and ability, but they were never short in heart. These Redskins were warriors, warriors who always made the big plays when needed! One example took place in Eaton Rapids when freshman Pat McCloskey hit a game winner in overtime after having to leave the game twice with two bloody noses. "Pat was a bloody warrior. He really earned his varsity stripes tonight," Coach Coddens said the next day in the paper.

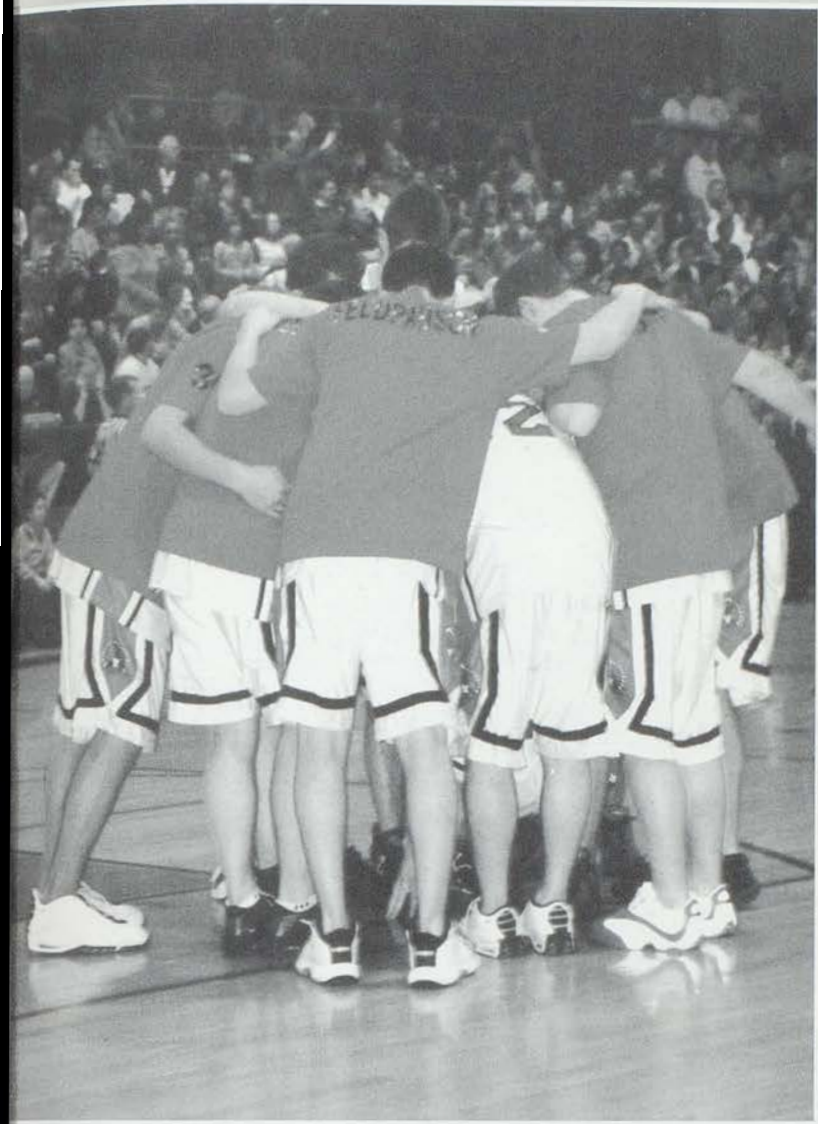

"My favorite moment was the first win against Sturgis. It was crazy, and no one thought we'd win. To make it even more memorable it was on a shot with one-second left in overtime. It was sweet when everyone rushed the court, and Cods was going nuts!" freshman Pat McCloskey said.

"This team set a great example of hard work, and the true meaning of team for all the future Marshall teams to come," Coach Coddens said.

Game Time!

Marshall prepares to take the floor. Some of them for the last time of their careers to play for a Twin Valley title. Later that night, they captured it, and quieted the doubters once again.

Get up Big Fella'

The second overtime of the biggest game of the year started off right as Pat McCloskey tipped the ball to Brad McCormack for a lay-up. Marshall hung on and captured the Twin Valley Title.

'Mack Attack

Setting up the Marshall attack is the starting point guard and senior captain Brad McCormack. "Brad was a true leader for this year's team," Coach Coddens said. Here he passes off to Jon Hausler and gets the play started.

Get a Grip on It

Trying to get a grip on this rebound is senior captain Ryan O'Connell. He did get a hold of it and started the Marshall run. They ran away with this game and won by 15 points.

No Soup

Getting a piece of this shot is senior Joe Kubicek. "Joe could really jump and was known for his dunks in practice," Coach Coddens said. Joe started at the beginning of the year and was a key contributor off the bench later in the season.

Lady Skins Keep the Crowd Cheering!

Let's Get Riled Up!!
"I like the excitement the crowd gives you. I like stunting and the gymnastic part of it," senior Kaity Adams said about cheering.

Who let the cheers out?!

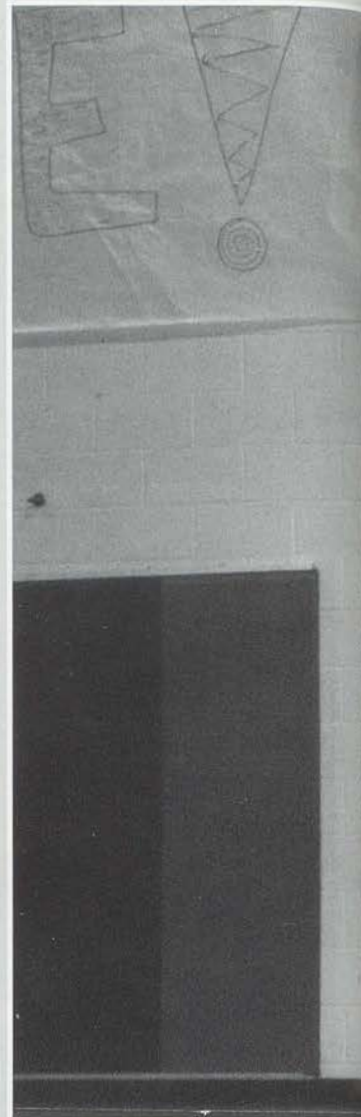

"I like cheering our team. I like doing the gymnastic stuff too. It's hard to cheer with so many people because you can't always do what you want to do," junior Ashley Mainer said. Helping her out is freshman Emily Conant.

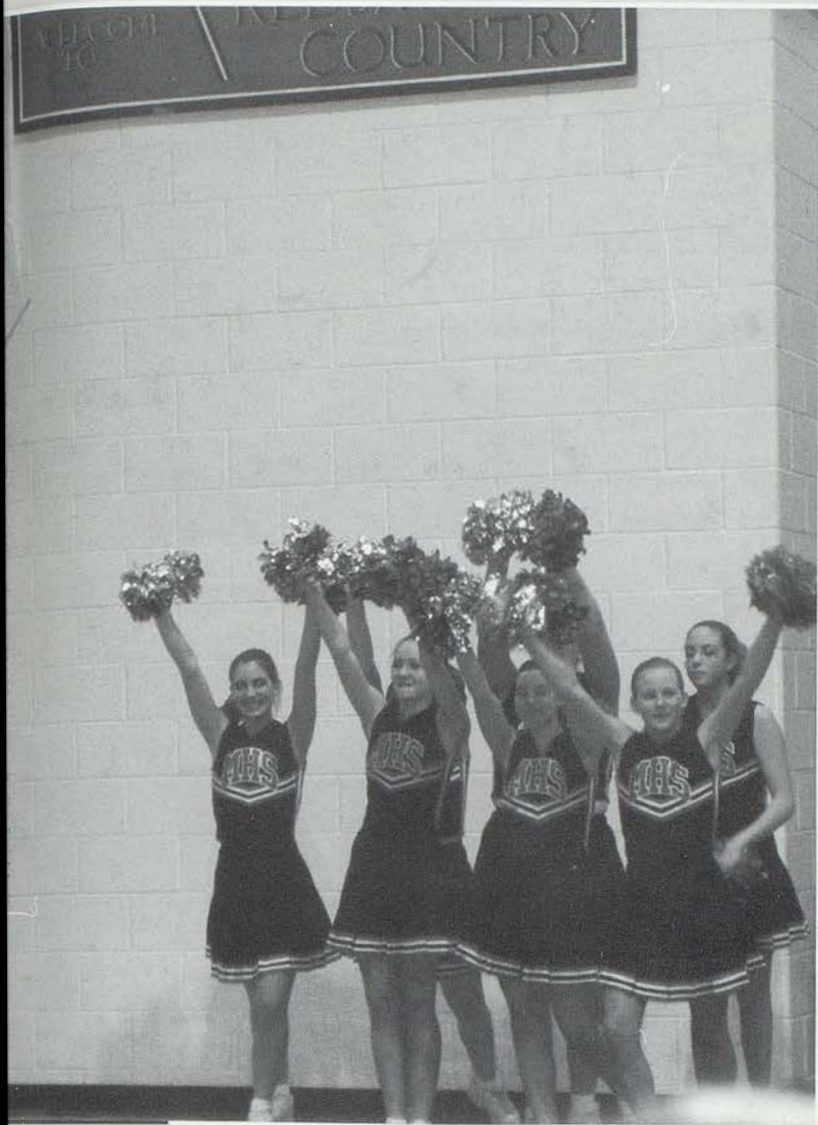

There's no doubt about it, the Lady Skins always cheer their hearts out at the basketball games. They have a lot of teamwork, and watching them work together is unbelievable.

"Yes, it definitely takes teamwork because we have different opinions about what we want to do with our cheers. So many times we compromise," freshman Emily Conant, a member of the JV cheer team said. Not only do they have teamwork, but they also have a lot of skills. All of these Lady Skins prove that with everything that they do, from flips, to throwing girls up into the air, cheerleading takes a lot of strength and concentration. These cheerleaders not only have learned a lot of cheers, but even have made up some of their own.

"Sometimes we get together and make up our own cheers. We do use them at games, but we do keep the popular cheers also," junior Shelby Breckenridge, a member of the varsity cheerleading squad said.

Flying to the Top
"I think it's fun. I'm not scared about the catching me," senior Ayslenn Anthony said about going up in the air.

Make Those Pom Poms Shine!

"It's a really good experience. I'm looking forward to next year," freshman Sara Potter said about cheering.

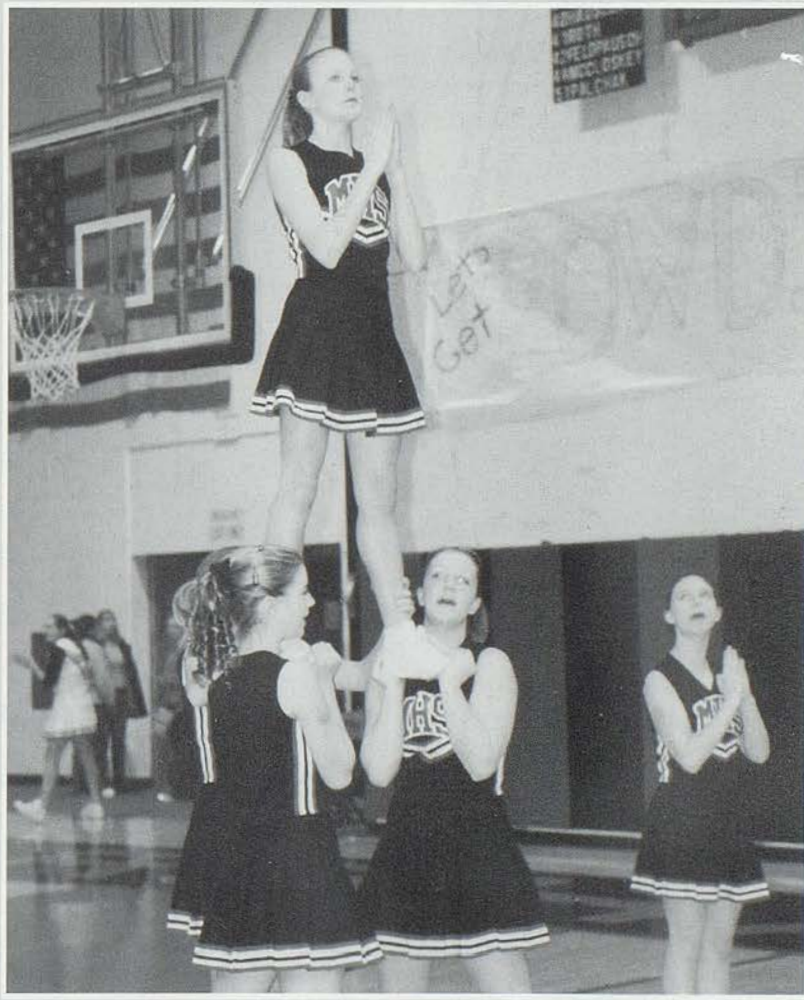

Put Your Arms In The Air

"I just like cheerleading. It's fun to be able to encourage the guys and watch them win," junior Kari Hamaker said.

Above the Rest

"It's inside, so you're closer and the crowd yells louder. They're more spirited. I actually get to stunt," senior Heidi Bramble said.

Am I Upside Down or are They?

"I like to tumble because it helps get the crowd pumped up for the game," freshman Emily Mills said about her tumbling stunt.

Am I Tall or What?!

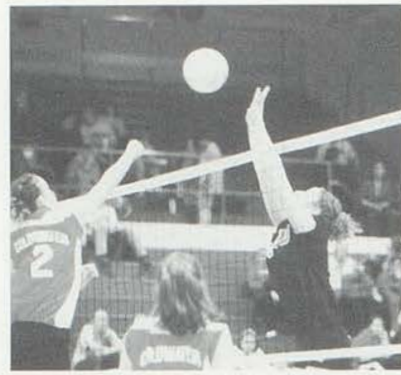

"It's kinda cool because I feel tall. It's kinda scary though because they're holding me, and it gets shaky sometimes," freshman Megan lobe said.

Bump, Set, Spike

Marshall Lady 'Skins Rule the Courts

The Last Game
Making a good block, senior Molly Miller enjoys the last game of her season. "I had no idea that a few minutes later I'd be on the floor with a sprained ankle," Molly said, "and I was really bummed that my season had to end so soon."

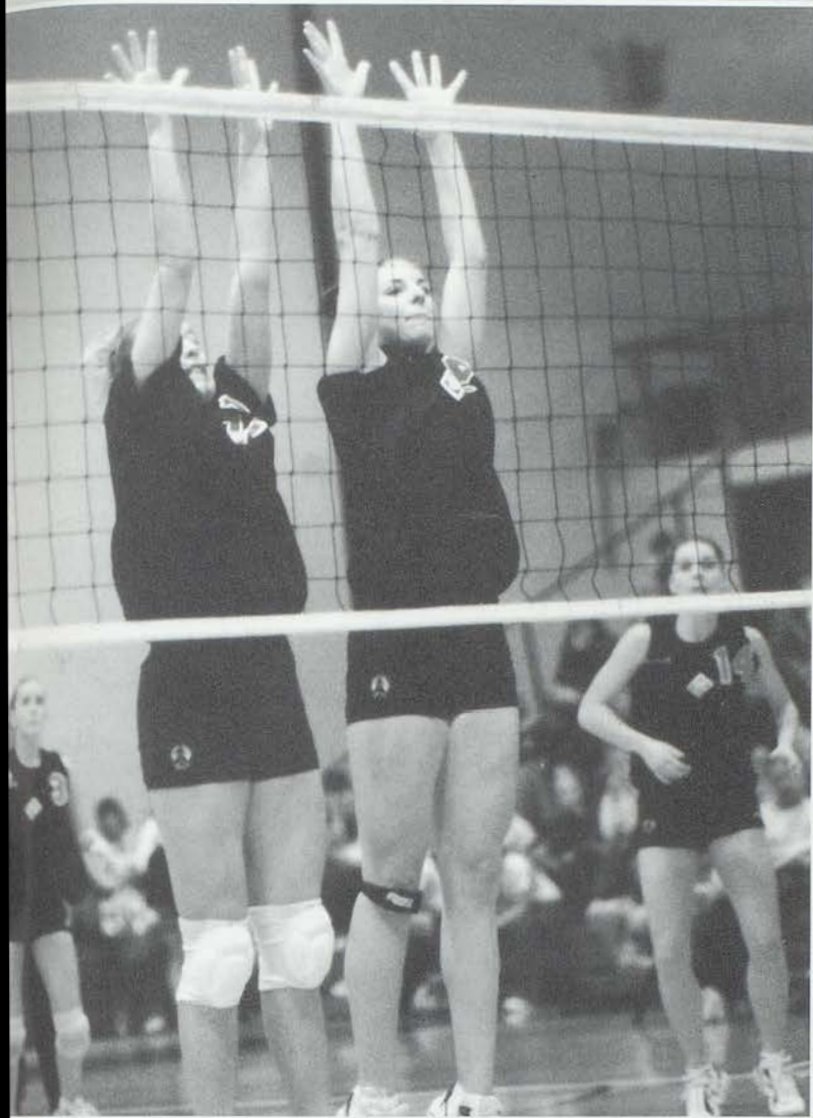

Mine!
Diving for the ball and nearly colliding, are juniors Morgan Goodwin and Erin Simmons. Erin closes her eyes as Morgan sends it soaring.

The Lady 'Skins were up for another year full of bumping, setting, and spiking. They left Redskin Country in hopes of finding some competition, and had some matches in the Twin Valley. This group of diggers, bumpers, and hitters, led by team captains Kari Searles and Erica Eash, kept their coach hoppin' and the crowds cheering. The Lady 'Skins showed how their hardwork and teamwork payed off, especially at both the Olivet and Union City tournaments in which they won. Junior Aubrey McCauley sums up their season saying, "Although our record may not have shown it, we had a very successful season with lots of fun times and new friendships."

I Believe I Can Fly

"Me and Kate-dog set up a block no one could get by," senior Beth Weare explains. Using excellent teamwork, Katie Shaum and Beth block the ball to the floor.

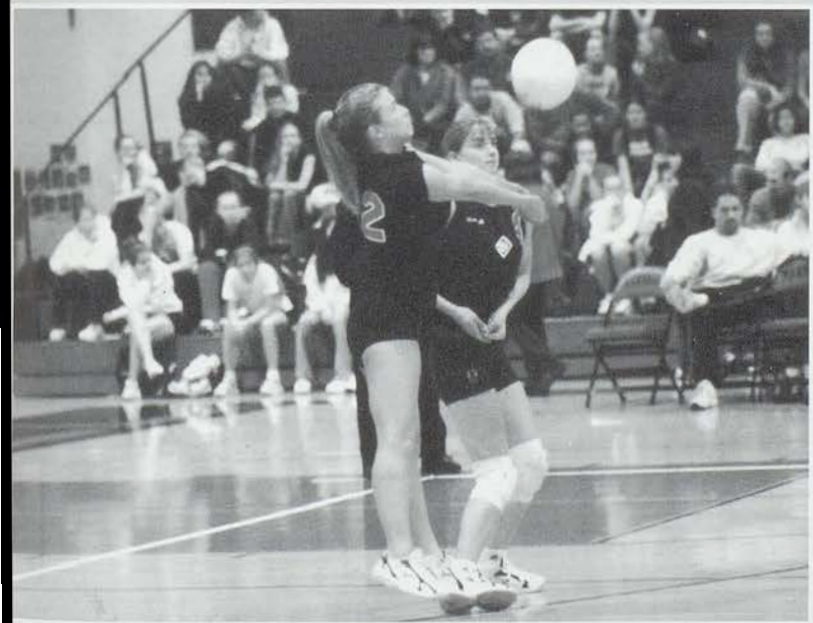

This One's For You

"My aim may be off, but I've got girl power!" senior Kristin Dominique exclaimed. With a spring in her step, she not only mastered mini ball chucking, but crushed her opponents as well.

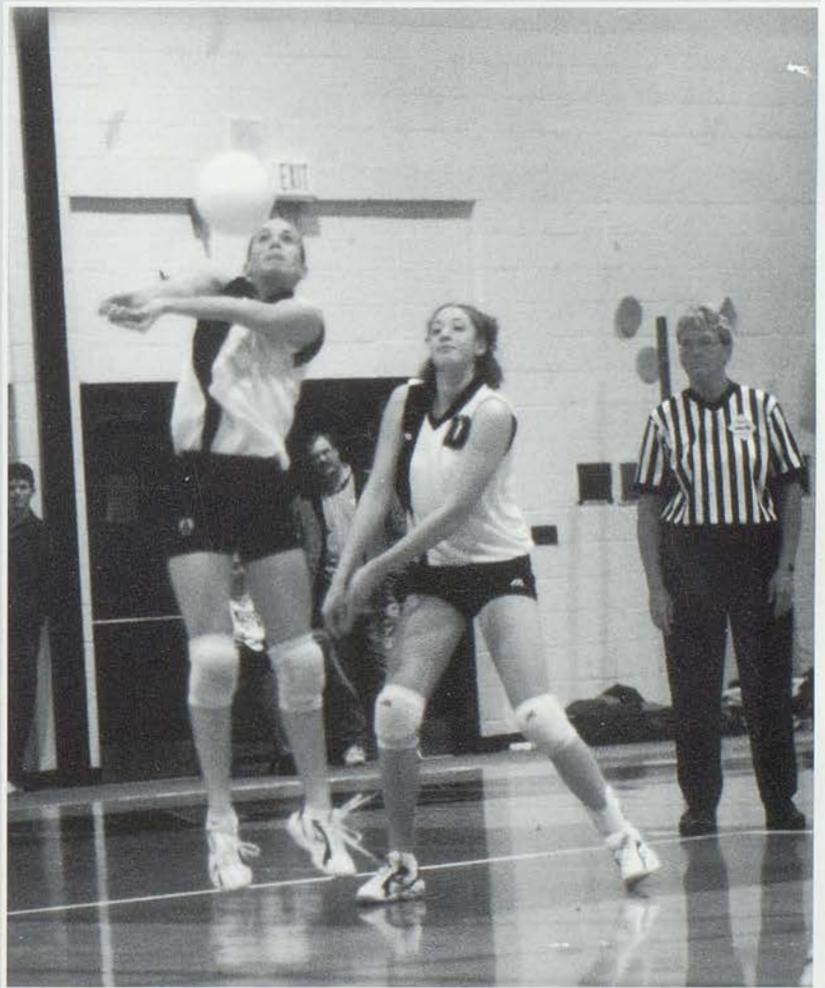

I've got it!

Keeping her eye on the ball, senior Katie Schaum bumps it over the net. Senior Erica Eash looks on as Katie saves the day... or at least that point.

Just Dig it!
One of the most important things in volleyball is starting a play with a good pass. Senior Corrie Edwards knows how to pass.

Do I Look Good in a Speedo?

Boy's swimming questions everything but the need for speed.

Yeah, I Look Good

Where are the Bubbles?
 This is no bubblebath, this is a swim meet. "Without goggles the chlorine can get to your eyes, freshman Pat Jennings said. Even if there were bubbles this is no time to play. There is a race to be won.

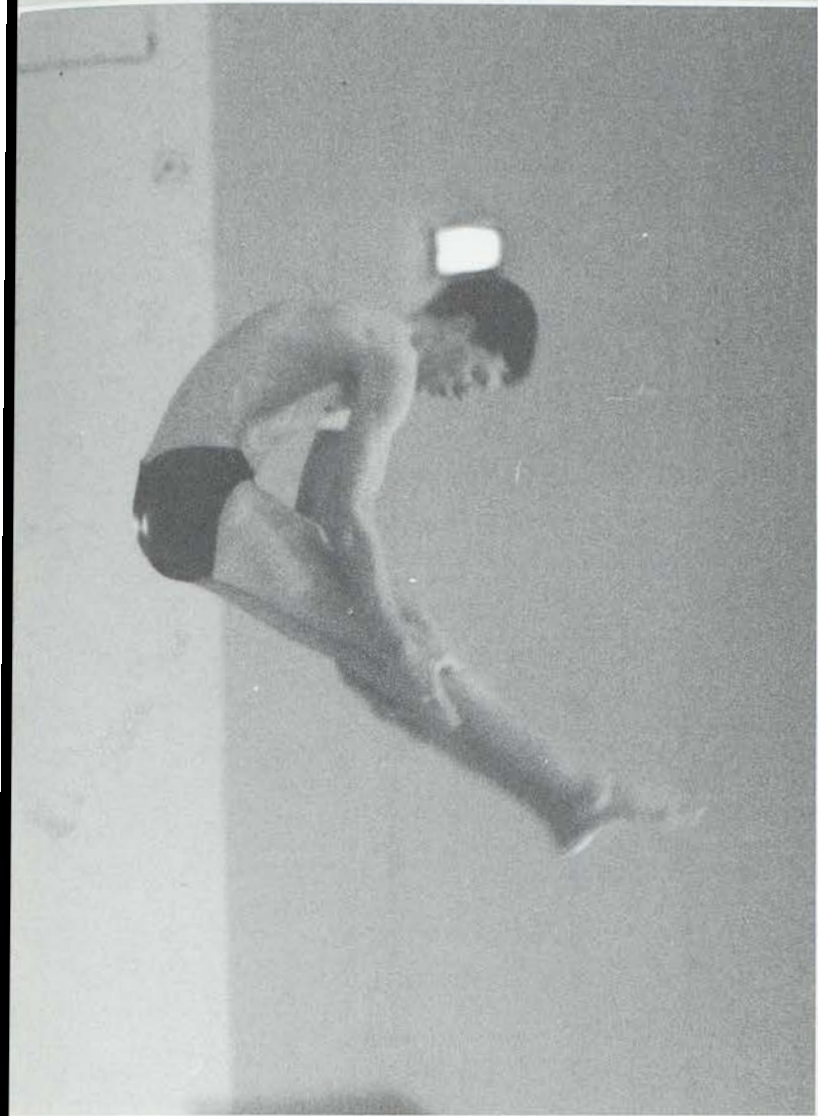

They're boys. They swim in a pool. Although this equation may sound relatively simple, it requires skill and confidence; not to mention some crazy hairstyles. Every year the halls become a sea of multi-colored heads as the boys swim team gears up for their conference meet. "I think I look good as a blonde," senior Phil Doud said as he shows off his new "do". Whether in the pool or on land, these guys display a unique style.

In the state competition this year, records were broken and goals were met. "I didn't do as well as I hoped to do, but I'm proud of Steve Weaver for doing so well," Phil also said while congratulating his buddy. Steve Weaver finished ahead of the Marshall squad with his record breaking times for MHS. It wasn't enough for first, but it got him in the top ten.

"We won regionals, then conference, and now were going to state. We beat Coldwater in the conference. They had never lost before. I thought that was pretty miraculous for us/me in my first year," Sara Potter freshman varsity bowler said. Not only did the girls have a good year, the boys also had to join in on the fun.

"We're good, so it wasn't hard to win. The only team we had trouble with was Coldwater. They're really good and beat us in conference but only by a few points. It was fun though," freshman Tommy Saylor varsity bowler said.

The Many Questions a Wrestler
Faces ??????????????

Get Down and Stay Down
Taking down and holding down his opponent is sophomore Ben Taylor. Ben was able to keep him down for a few more seconds which helped him win this match.

I've Got Him
Holding down his opponent is sophomore Nick Zuehlke. "The easy part is getting them in the hold. Keeping them in is hard," Nick said.

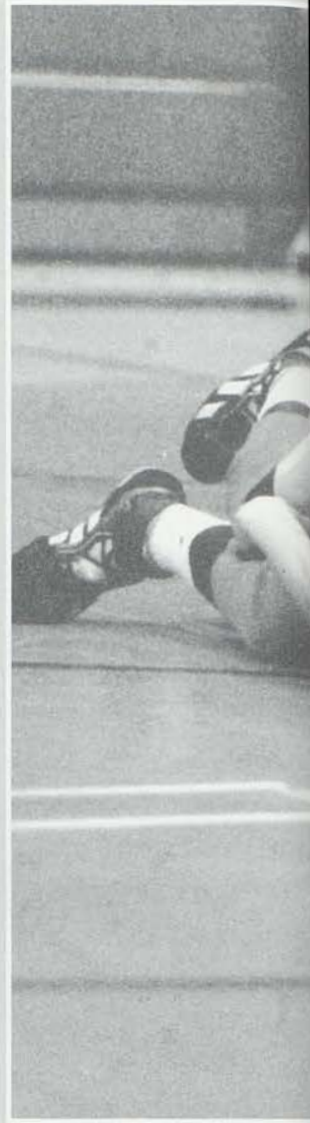

No lunch? How about an after school jog? Do you have practice? Are you going to work out? Do you have to do any of these things? Well the wrestlers are doing it all the time. Alright so did this schedule help them at all? Was it really worth it?

"I thought we did swell! We had individuals who also did good, and we had others that had a learning experience for years to come," sophomore Andy Lake said.

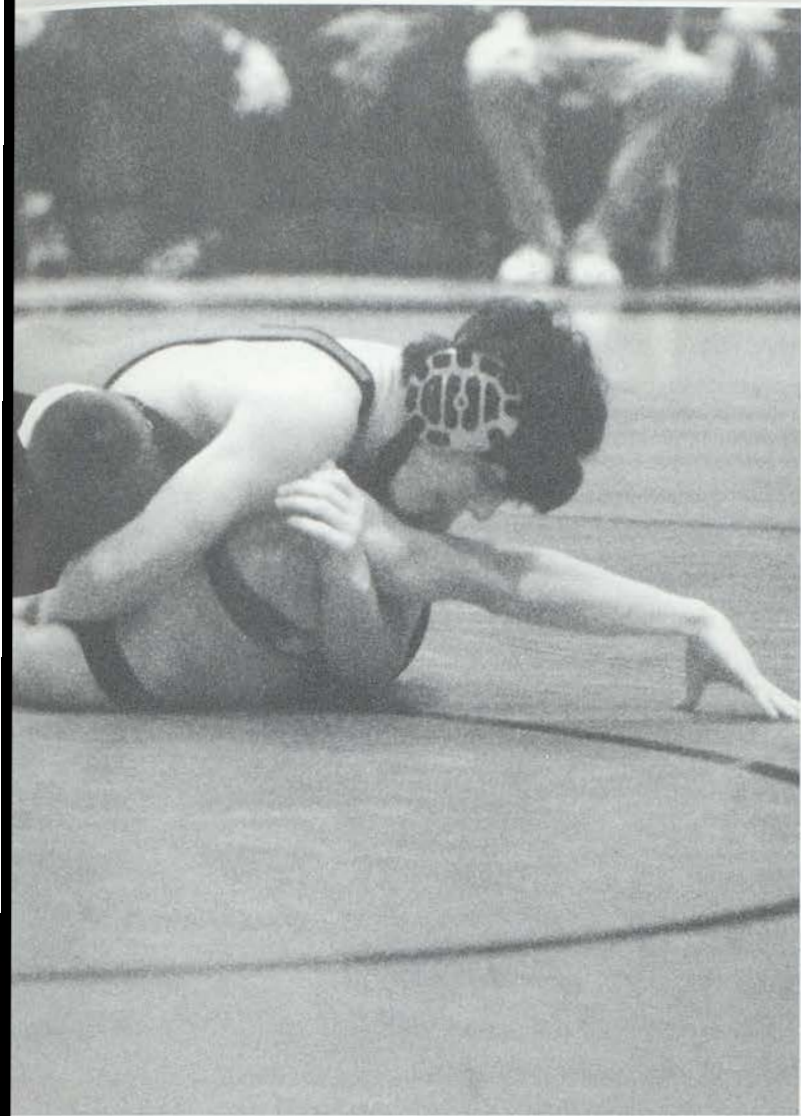

It may have been hard to keep the wrestlers on the schedule and it may have taken some getting used to, but the wrestlers stayed with it every step of the way.

"It took a long time to get used to having to take a jog after school and really hard to miss lunch. But in the long run it payed off for me and others," sophomore Josh Damron said.

There were good times and bad times, fun times and hard times, and even times of intense feelings. So now when looking back the question is asked, "Can next years team duplicate this teams achivements?" No matter what the answer is lets just hope that the extreme striving to win and persistance with victory is still there.

 "All work and no play makes Dr. Heit no fun. My coach tells me that I am no work and all play. But I believe he is wrong," Ashley Heitmeyer, sophomore, said.

Nothing Gets Past Me
 Shortstop is played by sophomore Alyssa Reniger who played this position as a freshman also.

Ouch That Hurt
 "I got hit with the ball in the hip. That field was very bouncy, and it hit me hard. But I'm tough, so I stayed in," Tonya Doolittle, freshman, said.

She's going...or Is She?
 Before the new batter steps up to bat, freshman Megan Bailey must decide whether or not she can make it to third base, or she can just look at her coach and he will tell her what to do.

"This year has been a blast . We have a lot of great girls on our team with a lot of talent.. I'm looking forward to playing next year, but I'll miss the sophomores so much . They were great. I learned a lot from them and our coach, too. The whole team got along really good, and I can't wait till next season. "

These girls have it all going for them

There it Goes

Throwing the ball back in is junior Mike Kiewiet. He was trying to get the man running to second base out. Mike is Marshall's center fielder.

Where'd it Go?

Looking in amazement at where the ball went is junior Will Hagerty. Will plays outfield and pitcher. "I really enjoy playing baseball. It's a fun sport," Will said.

Run Like the Wind

Running back to the dugout is sophomore Justin Newsome. "I like playing on the varsity team; it's a lot better than JV. I wish we could have had a better season than we did, but hopefully next year will be much better. I'm looking forward to next season. I play baseball whenever I get a chance. I've been playing since I was six years old," Justin said.

The varsity baseball team keeps on going, and going, and going...

I'm Ready..

Standing there, trying not to be bored is senior Nick Heitmeyer. Nick plays second base. "Yeah, it's kind of boring when nothing is happening and we're just waiting for the other team to get ready," Nick said.

Group Talk

Waiting for their turn to play is junior Mike Sayles, sophomore Justin Newsome, and juniors Brad Palik and Tyler LaFountain. "This is my first year on varsity. I like it a lot more than JV because it is more competitive," Tyler said.

Huddle Up
 Teammates and coaches huddle up to prepare themselves before it's their turn to go out there and hit some homeruns. "Even though our season didn't go as well as we expected, our kids never quit and always worked hard," Coach Triece said.

Road Runner

Cheryl Hedges, Junior

Rising above and beyond the necessary height is junior Cheryl Hedges. "Gee, I'm good," Cheryl said. The girls track team had some troubles this year. They often found themselves at the bottom of the scoreboard, which would keep any team down. This team kept running, jumping, throwing, and clawing away at their opponents. They were able to come away with two league wins and showed some good signs for the future at a league meet in Harper Creek. The JV team took second place. The only way to go for this group of girls is up.

Pushing herself down the stretch, inching closer and closer to her teammate, is freshman Hannah Robbins. "They [hurdles] are hard to learn, and hard to perfect. All the practice is worth it..." Hannah said.

HOPS!

Clearing the bar is freshman Lindsey Roth. "I enjoy the high jump although it takes a lot of practice. It is all worth it in the end."

Up, Up, and Away!

Preparing to raise the bar is freshman Emily Conant. "It [pole vault] is a lot of fun because it is challenging," Emily said. Emily broke the freshman pole vaulting record this year.

Backs to the Wall

With their backs to the wall in almost every meet, the girls track team never quit. They were younger than almost every team that they faced and became accustomed to losing. This did not hold them down, though, as they kept struggling on setting personal records and shooting for their goals. Shown here is junior Cheryl Hedges and sophomore Tiffany Moreno asking for their times after the race.

Photo Finish
Losing in an exciting finish in her relay race is sophomore Christine Schaum. "When I lose, like in this picture against ugly girls from Hillsdale, I am pushed to be better," Christine said. She has two more years to get better and sting the Hornets back.

Every track team needs a good shot put thrower. Junior Mike Henshaw throws a practice shot before the big meet at Lakeview. "Shot put is fun but really hard, too. You sure do get your workout for the day though," Mike said.

Lamaze Running

You might think senior Geno Klisiak was practicing his lamaze breathing when you watch him run. "I love to run; that's why I get into it so much," Geno said.

Casey Eash, Freshman

Every winter you see boys in the M.H.S. halls add on their extra sweatshirts and pants. Why you ask? Pre track season starts again! "It helps to start running in the winter because then you get to take off some layers in the spring," Greg Leahy, freshman, said. With this being the last year of the Twin Valley Conference, the runners are much more concentrated. Next year the boys will be running up against all different schools throughout Michigan, not just local schools. "We will definitely have much more competition next year, which will make us stronger," Casey Eash, freshman, said.

"Yearbook's Good Yearbook's Great..."

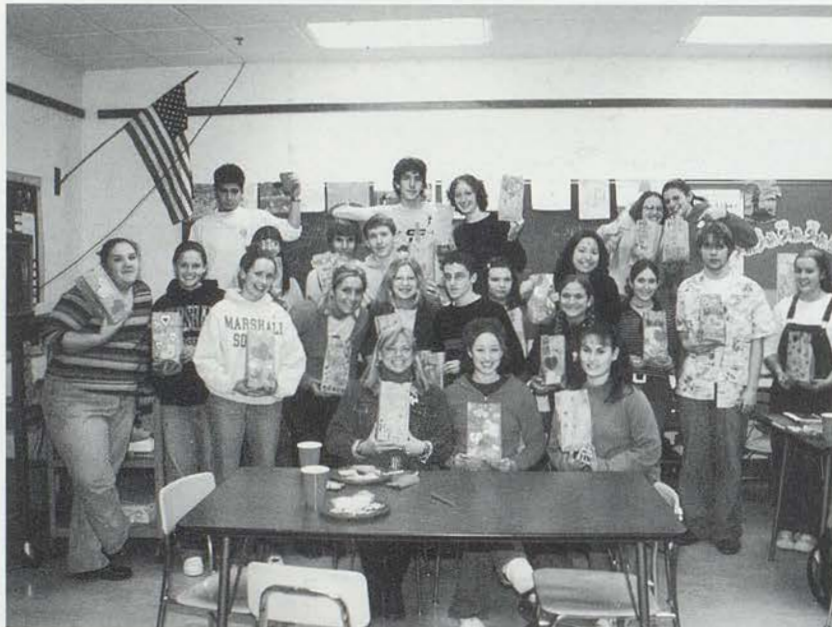

...Come On In
And Don't Be
Late! Come On
In... It's Lot's Of Fun! Yearbook's
Good For Everyone!"

When walking by Mrs. Long's room during seventh block, one is quite likely to hear sounds of the yearbook cheer. The yearbook cheer was designed to help students during the stressful time of deadlines. This year the yearbook is going digital, all the layouts and some of the pictures are directly done on the computer. "This makes it a lot easier since I am not very artsitic," freshman Doug Brotherton said. Most find yearbook a rewarding experience. "Yearbook gives me a great sense of accomplishment," senior Ryan Varner said.

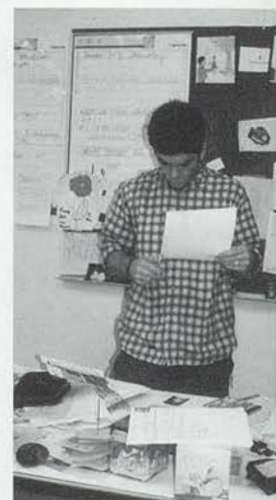

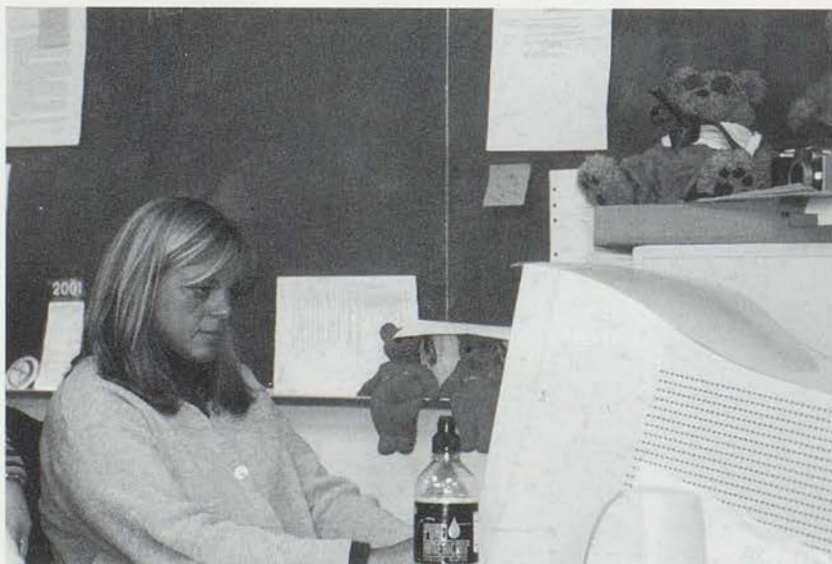

Party Time

The yearbook class is all smiles during their Valentine's Day party. "It was great. We got to bring in Valentines and decorate bags. I had a blast! It was a fun way to relax after working so hard throughout the school year," junior Kristen Barnes said.

Hard at Work

Yearbook adviser Mrs. Long checks out some pictures from the digital camera. "This year it was nice to be ahead of schedule. I'm enjoying my students and my class. The computers made this year easy, and next year will be even better," Mrs. Long said.

Working Toward Perfection
Before handing in his layout Ryan Varner makes sure it is just perfect. "I enjoy yearbook class tremendously. It is a lot easier this year because of the computers. I felt that I have won an award every time I walk out of this class," Ryan said.

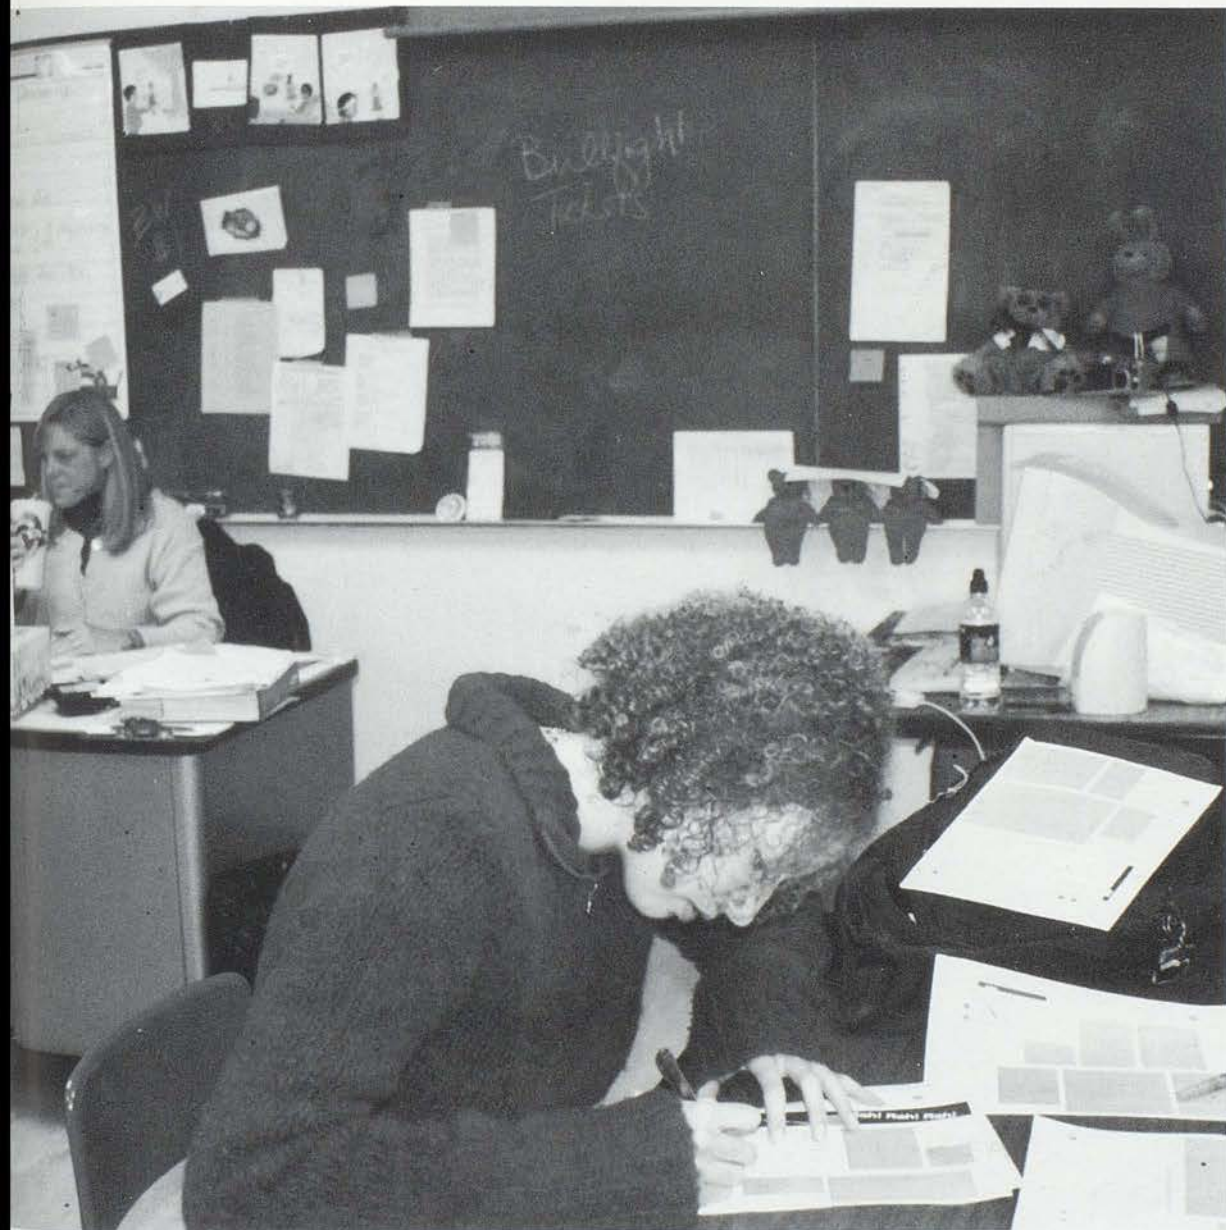

It's Almost Done

Putting the finishing touches on her pages before handing them in is sophomore Jenny Litton. "I enjoy yearbook a lot. I get to learn new software and how to put a yearbook together," Jenny said.

Break Time

Sitting back and relaxing after meeting yet another deadline are juniors Megan Adams, Jeff Hammer, and Aubrey McCauley. "There is always a new challenge awaiting whenever you go to class," Megan said.

Almost done

Creating new layouts for the upcoming deadline is senior Beth Weare. "The best part of yearbook is all the parties, food, and co-editing with Molly Miller," Beth said.

Whistle while you work

Correcting pages for the upcoming deadline is senior co-editor Molly Miller. "Being an editor is a lot more work than I expected...I have to correct everyone else's pages along with working on my own. But I enjoy the work of producing a yearbook and the satisfaction I get from knowing I helped create the final product," Molly said.

Another day, another book.

"In journalism class you need to know how to manage your time. You could be crammed with things to do one day or nothing to do the next. On a mellow day after I've got all my things finished, I like to just kick back and read a good book," junior Dave Palchak said.

How are those fingers doing??

"Even though Mrs. Long is known as one of the funnest teachers in M.H.S, don't get the idea that it's all fun and no work in this class. It is a blast, but we have many deadlines to meet too," sophomore Nicole Hopkins said.

She Works Hard For the Money

Being a newspaper teacher means hard work all the time. It helps that Mrs. Long is an English teacher as well. She really knows what she's talking about.

ENOUGH NEWSPAPER!!!!

Sophomore Tony Barrosso's face tells all in this photo. "Journalism is a very, very stressfull class. That's why it's a smart idea to have a sense of humor," said Tony. Journalism class is deffinetley one to take if you knwo how to let your humor flow!

The Newsies

Controversy hits the Marshall "Smoke Signals" hard this year, all caused by two main articles. The "Hitler" and "Redskin" were the two main topics of the year, that literally everyone was talking about.

Both articles, written by junior Mindy Davids, caused quite a bit of commotion around the town, not to mention the journalism classroom. "I didn't think writing either of these articles would cause such talk around Marshall," Mindy said. "I wrote the 'Hitler' article just because I was a little offended that it was on the cover myself, so I just wrote an opinion article on it. But I didn't think it was going to cause as much as it did at all. I sort of figured that the 'Redskin' issue would cause some issues, but I didn't realize how out of hand either of them would go."

"All of the comments, letters and phone calls really took a toll on us all, good and bad. Some people didn't realize when they were going too far and personal with some of the bad comments. The good letters and calls that we got from people were very reassuring, so that felt very good. That's what journalism is all about, some people might agree, some maybe not. And we're prepared for that," Diane Long, Smoke Signals advisor said.

Extra! Extra! Read all about it...

Controversy hits the Smoke Signals

staff in the year

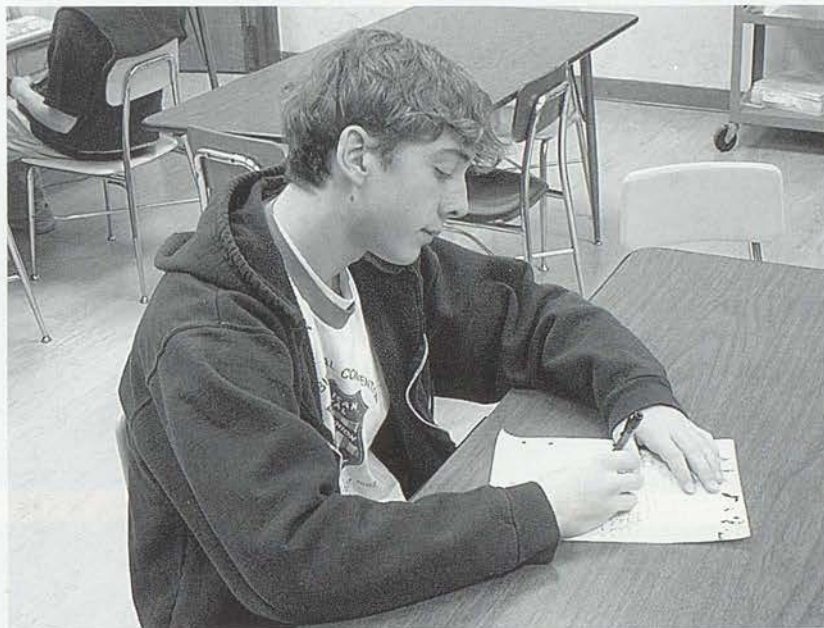

2001.

"I was very honored to get to be an editor this year. It's a lot of hard work, but it's a good feeling when you get to see your work printed out at the end of the week.

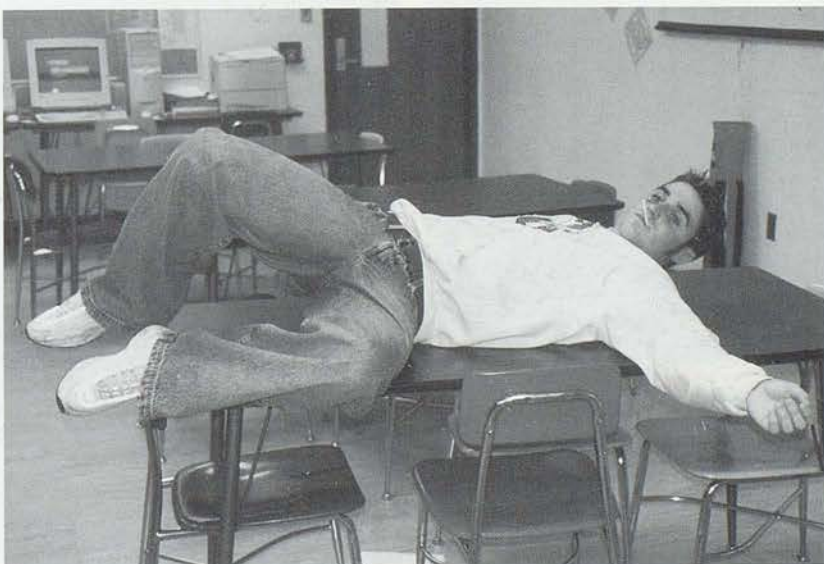

Journalism has helped me in many ways.... I've even thought otherwise now since I've had this class about what I want to do in college."

~Joe Darling

Helping Hands

"I like to get my stuff done early, so I have time to help everyone else out if they need it," freshman Alex Hamil said. The newspaper faculty all help each other when their deadlines are coming near. "It's a good thing to have people help you, and it feels good to help your classmates out," Alex said.

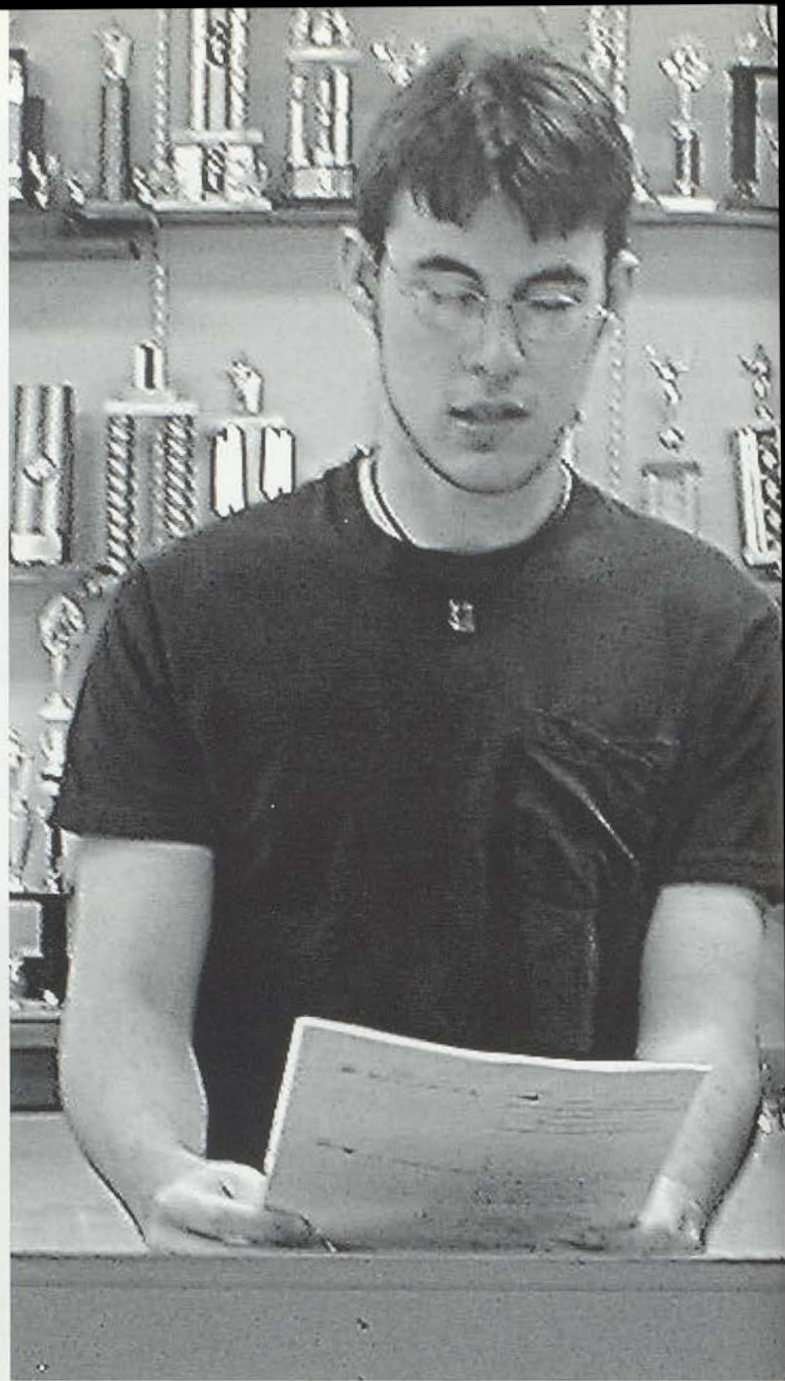

I need to go to bed.

"Since I'm one of the editor's for "Smoke Signals", I have many responsibilities. One of my main goals in this class is taking naps on the tables. Sometimes Mrs. Long comes by and starts punching me to wake me up. I don't care though....she may be queen of the universe, but I'm king of this class... hehheh," senior editor Brad McCormack said.

Demonstrating impromptu debate, junior Brian Quillhot said, "Both Debate and Forensics have taught me to think on my feet and has increased my character."

Dueling it out

Giving a duo interpretation are seniors Keely Sedgman and Catherine Crouse. "Forensics is a really good extra-curricular activity to be involved in. It helps prepare me to speak better in front of people," Catherine Crouse said.

No Issue is too Big for these Redskins

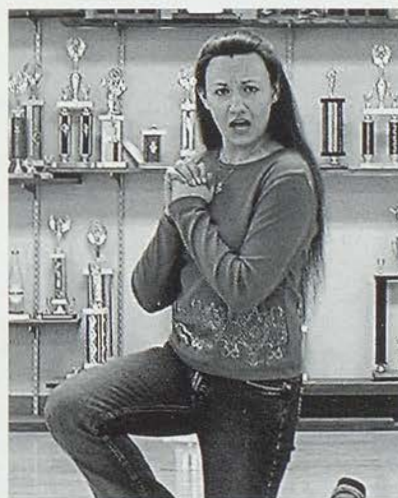

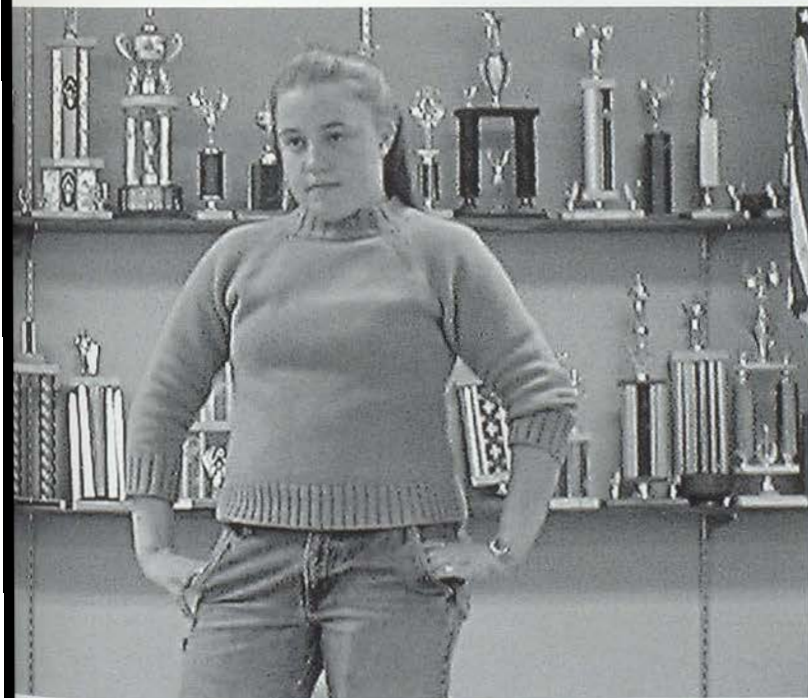

Although he has only been involved in Debate and Forensics for one year, "I plan on being in it next year. It's a fun class, and it's also an easy A," freshman Andrew DeGraw said.

"Being involved in Debate and Forensics is awesome because you get to go to all the tournaments and meet a whole bunch of new people. It's a really good way to have a creative outlet," sophomore Necole Hopkins said.

"Debate is the most worthwhile class that I have taken at MHS, and I definitely plan on being in Debate next year," sophomore Susan Lambrix said.

Planing on being in Forensics next year is freshman Erik Heirman who is also involved in Debate. "Forensics is a journey," Erik said.

The Little Mermaid

Add Some Music to Your Day

M.H.S. Band goes through many new, yet good changes.

The Marshall High School band has gone through enough changes in the past few years that prove their strength. With going through four new teachers in the past five years, some kids don't know what to think.

"It was really hard getting used to someone and then having them just leave the next year," senior John Lambrich said. The class of 2001 has gone through the most with the changing of teachers. They learned how to play instruments with Mr. Conklin in middle school, and then went onto Mr. Sackavech along with Mr. Rupp who teamed up to finish out their year in eighth grade. By the time they got to high school in their sophomore year, Mr. Rupp was their new full-time teacher. Now as they finish out their senior year, another new teacher, Mr. Larzelere came along. All the classes have gone through these many new changes, but the class of 2001 have had a new band teacher almost every year since they've learned how to play.

"It's been very hard with all the new changes, but I really think we've found a keeper this time," junior trumpet player John Fear said. This is Mr. Larzeler's first year teaching. He came out of the Michigan State Marching Band!!!

"The fact that he knows so much about marching and that he just came out of college makes things even better because now he knows the up to date things that have to do with bands," junior horn player Shae Redfield said.

So all in all, it's been hard, but the band proved themselves tough enough to handle it!

Lending a hand unpacking the class project in her third block Economics class is senior Stefanie Gibson. "The MESE project was my favorite because it gave me the opportunity to see what it was really like to run a business," Stefanie said.

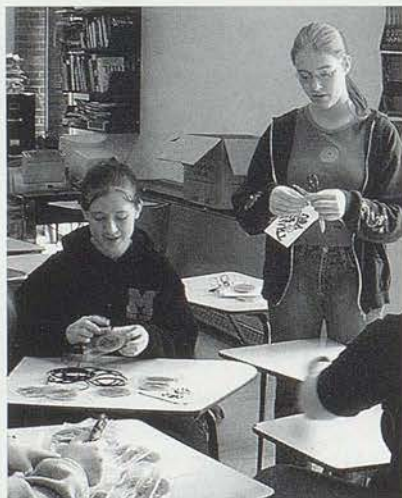

Please Buy This American Product!

Experimenting what it's like to be an American business man is exchange student Stian Ottem. "In Economics I can compare Norway's and The United States' ways of doing things," Stian said.

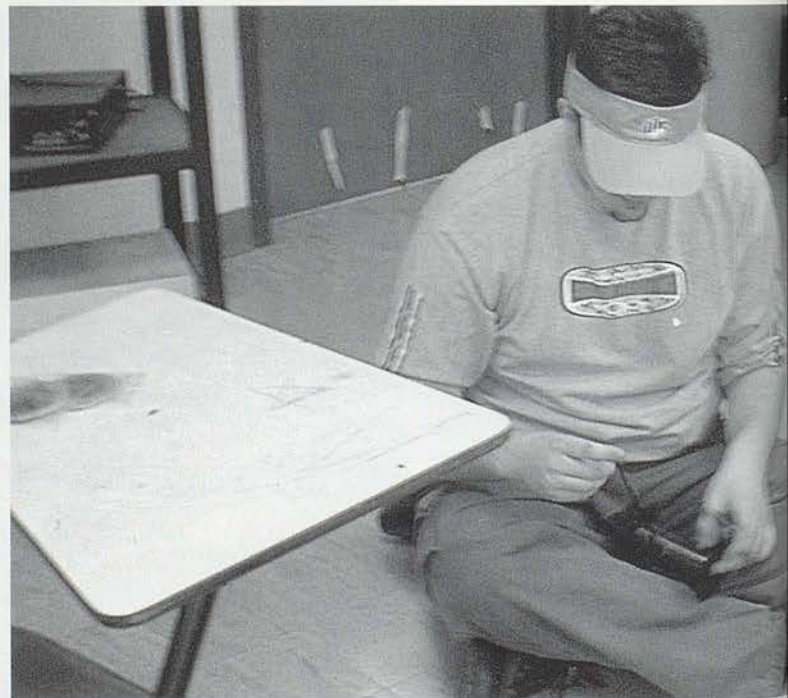

We Work Hard for Our Money

Preparing air fresheners to be sold is one of the many things Economics students have to do in this semester class. Seniors Jenny Goodman and Patti Fedak are doing just that. "I like being able to take a class where it's not just stuff all out of a book, and we actually get to use our ideas," Jenny said.

"Economics can be a lot of fun if you actually participate in Mr. Foreman's activities. And since I do, I really like his class," senior Roy Pierce said.

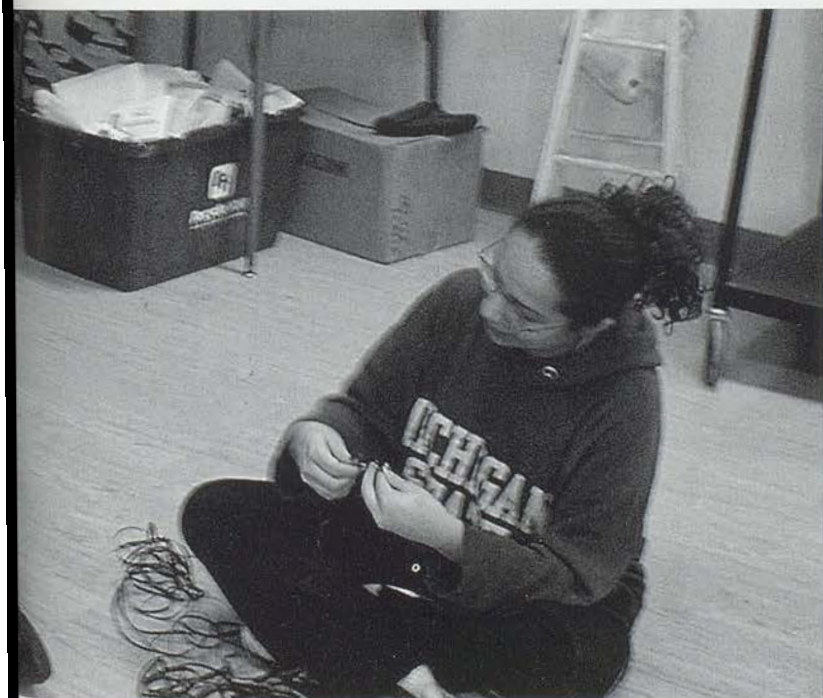

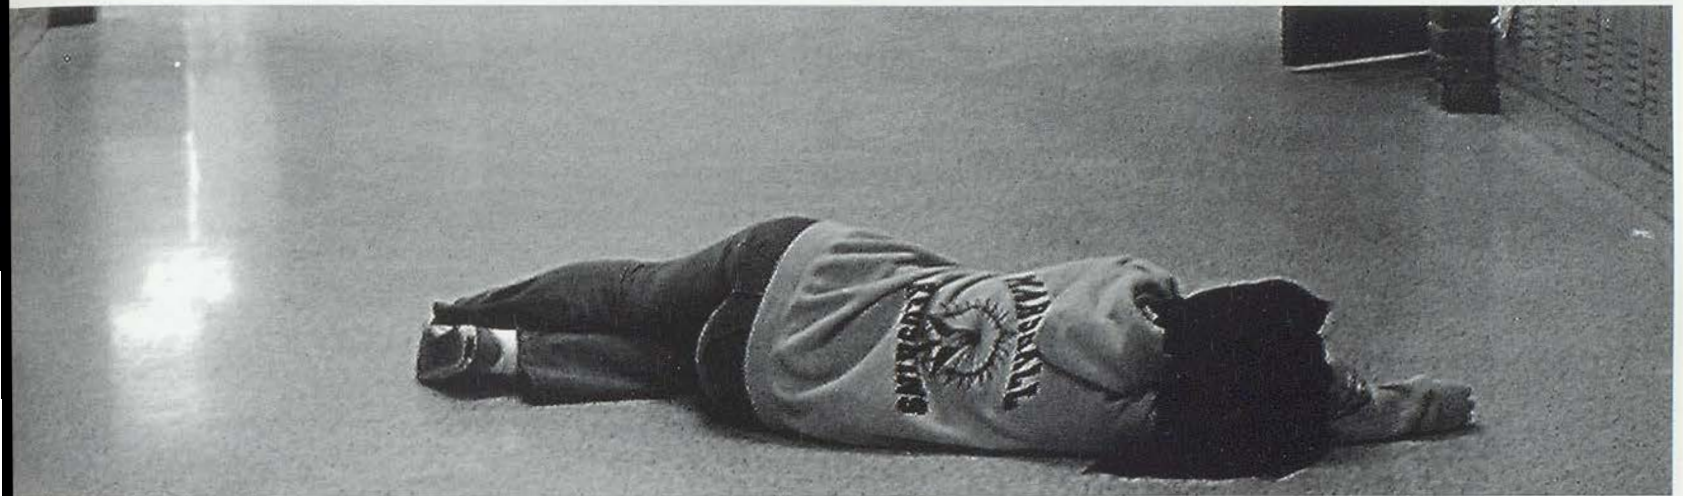

"My evil twin isn't actually evil. He is actually my better half! He helps me a lot in Econ," senior Cody Burghdorf said.

"My class decided to do flip flops but they turned out really ugly so we decided to go with strawberry scented air fresheners instead," senior Erica Eash said.

"My favorite part of Mr. Foreman's Econ class is being able to do activities with the stock market and bonds. I think it could help me in my future," senior Felicity Osborn said.

Pleasant Dreams

Taking a nap is exchange student Chie Okada. She has been working with her Econ class on their class project the Redskin sweatshirts. "I will come back to America and become an American business woman," Chie said.

----- You are here to Learn...

Mmm... My Pen Tastes Good!
 Taking a break in Mrs. Wingerter's class are sophomores Brittany Miko, Andrew Steele and Jason Bushong. "Chewing on my pen always helps me think better," Andrew said.

Sleeping Beauty
 Taking a quick cat nap in Miss Huckstein's tenth grade advanced English class is sophomore Brittany Byrens. "Sometimes I just need a quick nap, and then I'm refreshed for the rest of the day," said Brittany.

Learning Through Literature

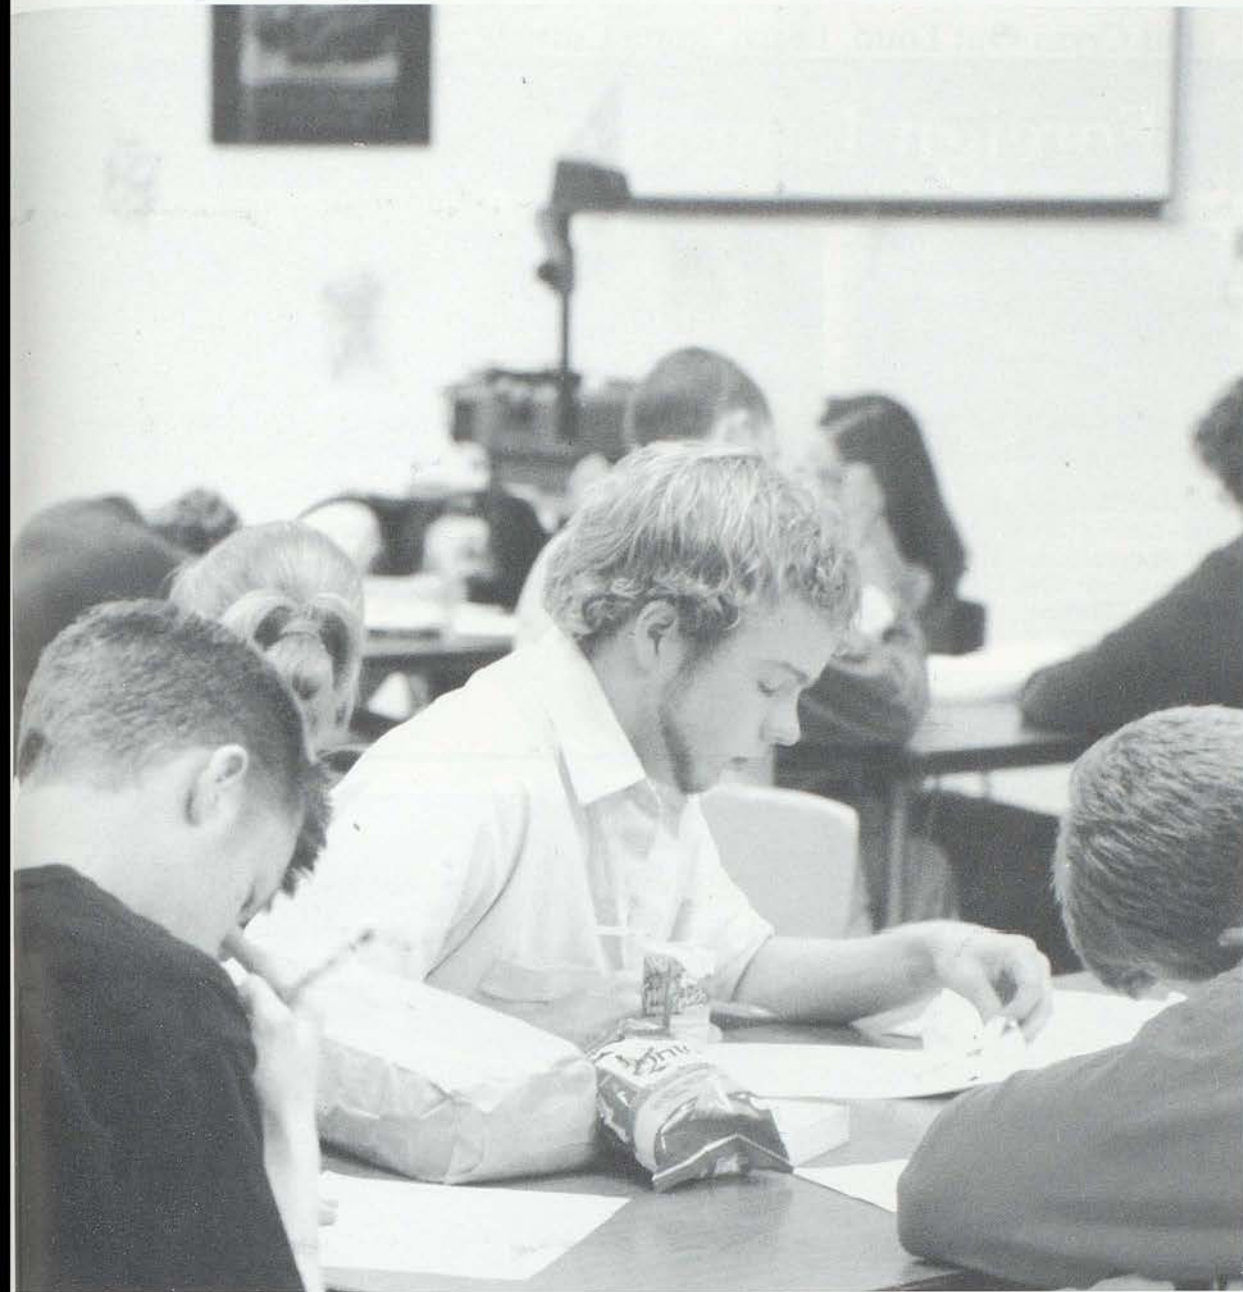

Reading your way into a whole new world

Social Studies classes at M.H.S range from Psychology to Ancient History to American Government. Freshmen are required to take Social Issues, sophomores take World Cultures, juniors take U.S History, and seniors are required to take Government and Econ. To graduate from M.H.S it is a requirement to have at least four English credits. However, one can choose regular or advanced English classes. Seniors have the option of taking an A.P English class, which may count for a college credit. "I really enjoy Mr. Luciani's A.P English class even though we do a lot of work. It's preparing me for college," senior Marissa Long said.

Food For Thought

While eating a late lunch, junior Aaron Ebner works on his English along side his classmates Wes Schoenherr and Josh Petty.

Does This Test Ever End?

Taking a test on one of the many books he read in Mrs. Long's eleventh grade honors English class in junior Jonas Heirman. Some of the books Jonas read in Mrs. Long's class include Hamlet, The Scarlet letter, The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, and many more.

Oh No, I'm Next

Watching his classmates give presentations in World Cultures class on South East Asia is sophomore Tony Borosso. Tony is awaiting his turn to give his presentation.

What Is Everyone Staring At?

Giving a presentation on New Zealand in Mrs. Wigent's World Cultures class is sophomore Ariana Mankerian. "The projects were fun because we got to learn a lot about any South East Asian country we wanted to know more about," Ariana said.

What's Up Old Sport?

Taking a test on the novel The Great Gatsby, is junior Cindy Moore. "We read a lot of books in Mrs. Long's English class, but I enjoyed The Great Gatsby the most," Cindy said.

Foreign Language

"My brother is going to love this forwarded list of jokes."

-Heidi Bramble - Senior

Working on his Latin homework sophomore Brandon Gill tells of the potential of the Latin language, "Latin helps me converse with other Latin speaking students." Brandon followed his comment with a smile.

"I do Spanish in Yearbook just like I wear my sunglasses at night."

-Megan Adams - Junior

"Someone should name an ice cream treat after me."

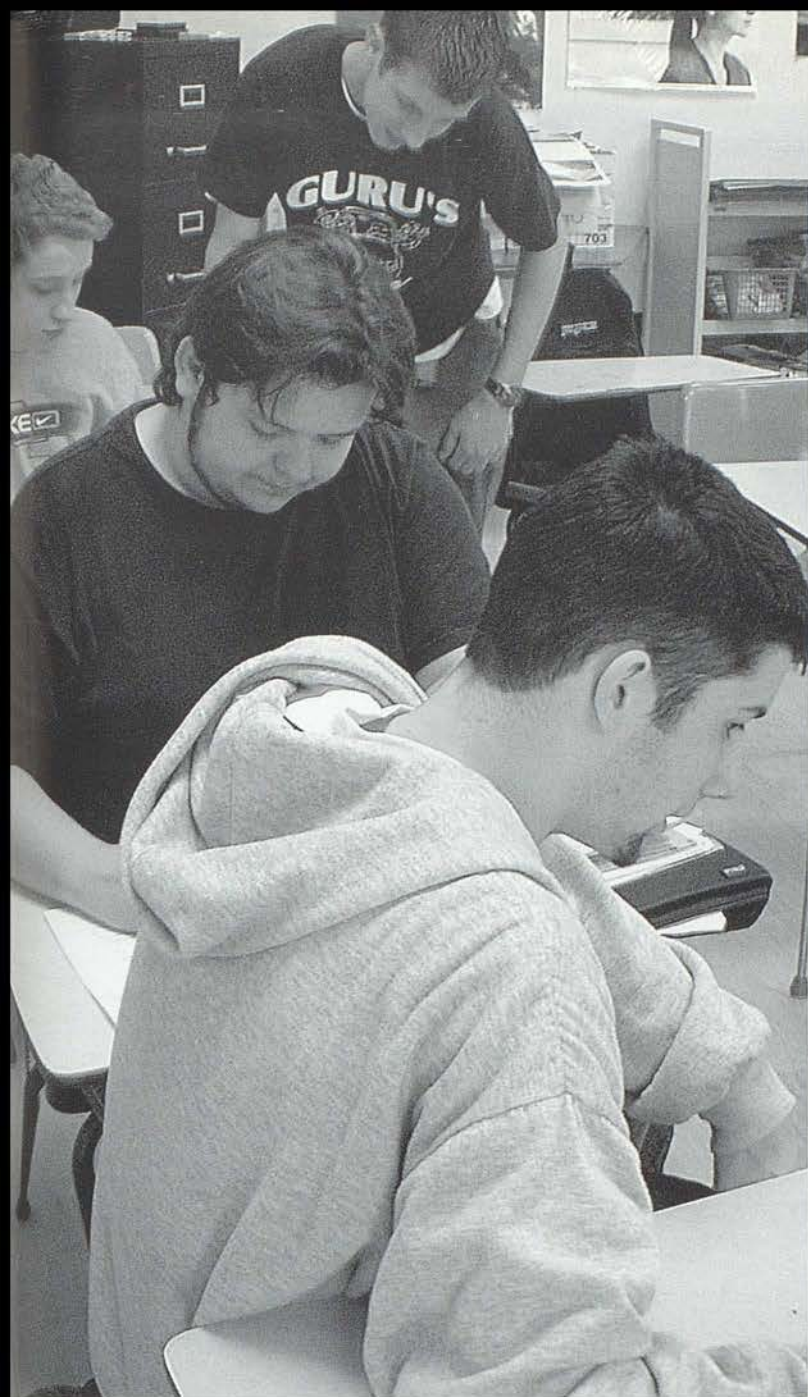

-J. Posma - Senior

Computers are the future "I only know how to talk about running in Spanish," Phil Baronowski, junior, said. "Wait, no, that's English."

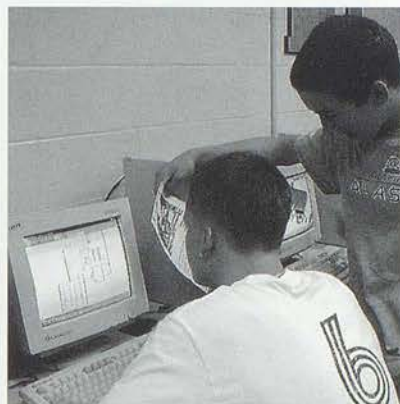

Teach me, I wanna learn Learning from esteemed Spanish 3 teacher Ms. Snodgrass is junior Chad Duckwall. "I am learning about rooms, and the things that go in them."

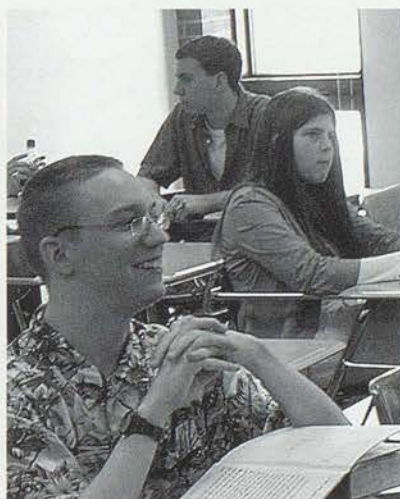

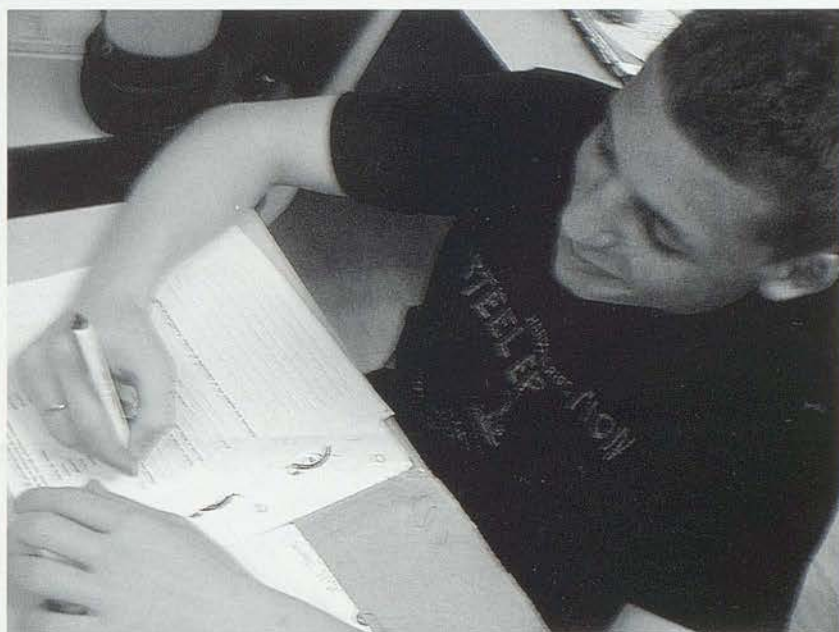

Doing Things

Spanish, at times, is a collective effort. "We work a lot better as a group," Tony "Sweet Tony" Margera, sophomore, said.

Miami Vice

Helping Wes Harvey construct a computer house for a cooperative teaching experiment is Dan "Don" Johnston. "Houses are made of walls, floors, and roofs, but that's not how you say it in Spanish," said Don.

The fantastic mind of Matt Thomas
"I'm doing an assignment," said Matt Thomas, junior. Matt enjoys doing Spanish assignments.

Latin is for lovers
Folding his hands is sophomore J.J. Nelson. "In Latin class we speak Latin, much like you would speak Spanish in Spanish class." Latin is a lot like other foreign languages.

French is my business, and business is good In Ms. Berryhill's numerous French classes, students learn about France and French. France and French are integral parts of any French program.

Faster and Faster...

"Being in this computer class has really taught me to type faster," Mitch Jennings, freshman, said.

Moving Right Along

Playing on the internet is sophomore Ian Loughridge. "This just goes to show that taking this class will help you out in your life later," Ian, sophomore, said.

Quick Fingers

"Computers is a lot of fun. Mr. Elyea is cool, and I really enjoy this class," Kara Kiebal, sophomore, said.

Gotta Have It

Chatting away is sophomore Carrie Jones who is in Mr. Elyea's computer class. "Communication is essential in every day life," Carrie, sophomore, said.

Getting Down to Business

Working on their Family Financial Management homework in General Business is sophomore Maggie Adams and freshman Stephanie Hamlin.

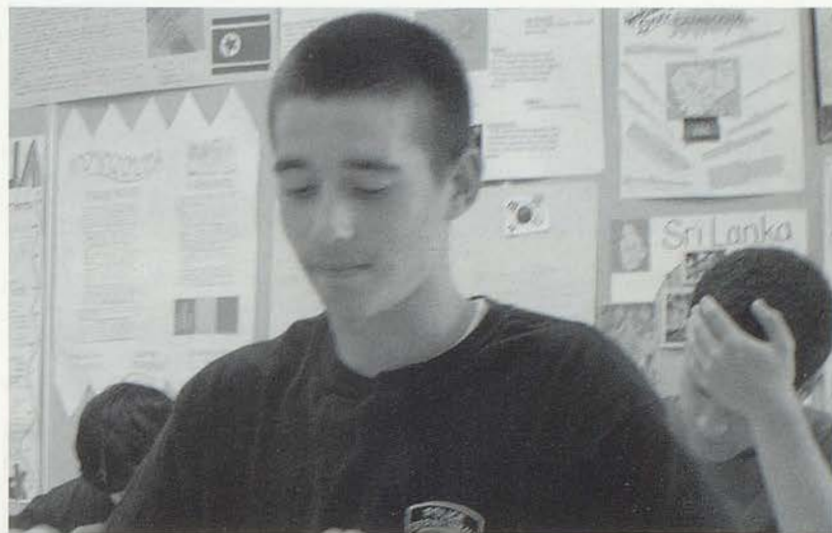

Typing up a Storm

Typing one of his many papers in computers is freshman Jeremy Grable. "Computers is an awesome class to be in," Jeremy said.

In the Business World Today

Sitting in General Business and working on his homework is freshman Nate Hughes. "You get to learn about the business today, and it's an all right class to be in," Nate said.

A Step Above The Rest

Business and Computer students prepare themselves for the 21st century.

Several years ago at MHS, business and computer classes did not exist.

"I have been teaching buisness for twenty-nine years and I'm only twenty-six!" Mr. Engle said. Mr. Engle will be retiring this year. As for Mr. Elyea, who has been teaching computers for twelve years, he will continue to do so. "Computer usage is a necessity for every day life. It is very important each student at Marshall High School has experience with computers," Mr. Elyea said.

No Problem

This problem is no problem for junior Mark Stark. Mark worked his way through this equation and found the correct solution.

Y=mx +b

Working her way through this equation with only the powers of her brain and a calculator is senior Catherine Crouse.

Ooooooh ... Aaaaahhh

Checking out the pig before the pig dissection are juniors Sarah Dominique, Ryan McCann, and Amy Conant. They are in Mrs. Krueger's class, she does many different experiments and other hands on activities.

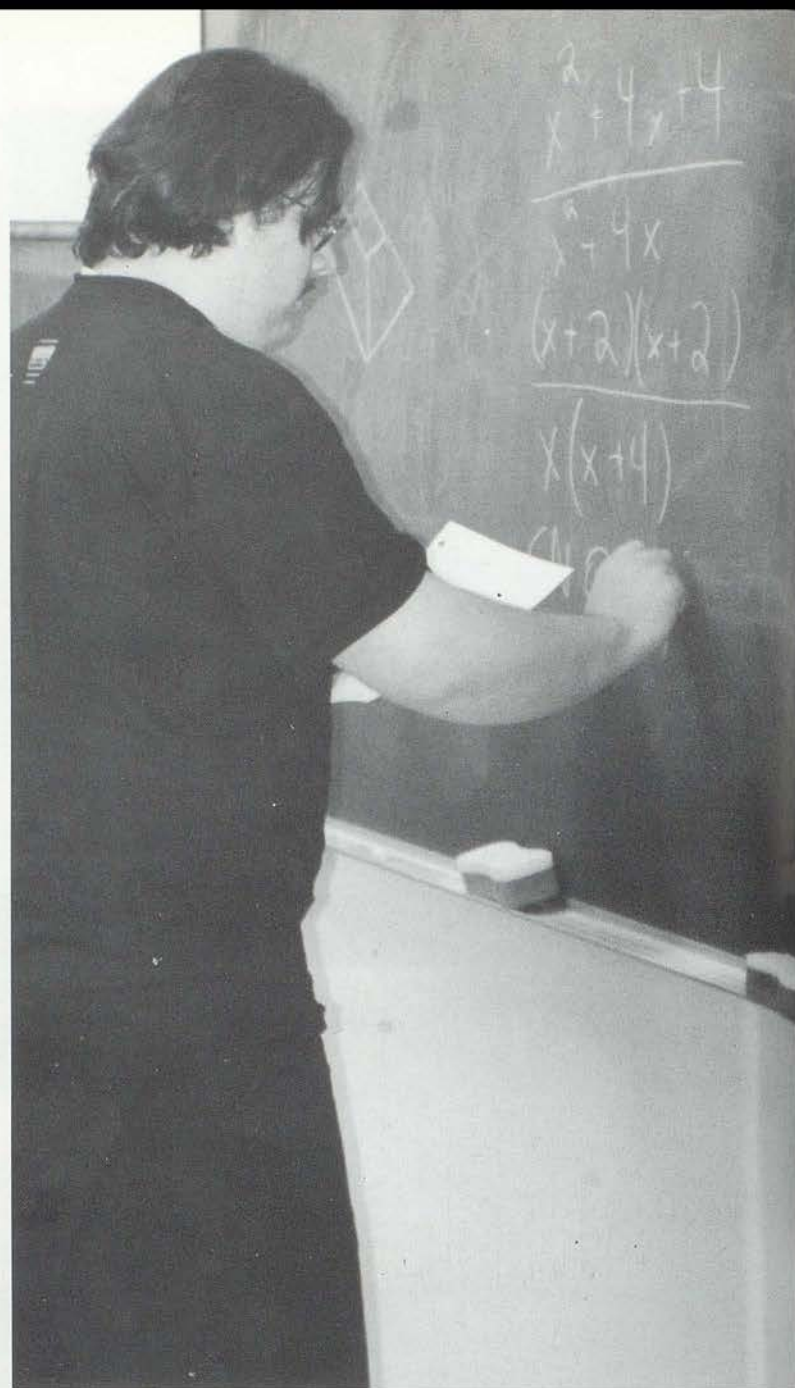

Follow the Leader

Leading the way and directing the group is freshman Molly Hazel. "We were studying cells, and I found it to be pretty interesting," Molly said.

Down the Line

Down this line is a bunch of interested Biology students. The students were working on a packet in groups while the rest of the room checked out the cells in the microscopes.

Whether you're counting numbers, or cutting pigs Math and Science is fun for everyone.

Count 'em, Cut 'em

"I'm in Algebra Two Honors. I like this class because there are only fourteen people in the class. I just do my work fast and talk to Kolleen and Maggie," sophomore Beth Anne Murphy said.

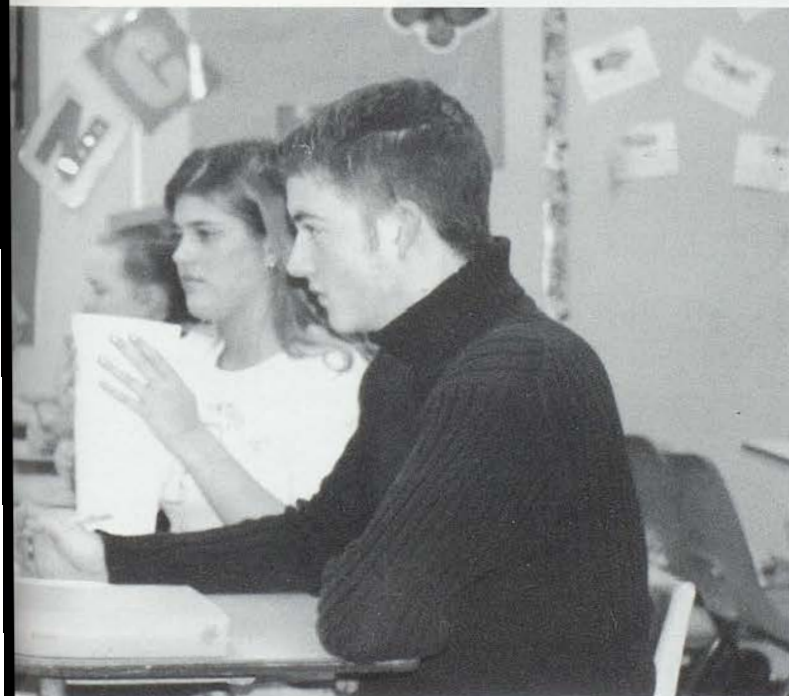

"Earth Science is the most enjoyable when we are doing group activities. I especially like the experiments," freshman Sara Mestemaker said.

"Math is my favorite academic subject. I am taking Geometry Honors this year. My favorite part of the class would have to be just solving the equations," sophomore Nick Zuehlke said.

"I'm a Life Science dude! I find that Life Science helps in my everyday life," senior Mike Dillon said.

Duh!

Pointing out an obvious fact is Mrs. Krueger. "I like teaching Science because it is a hands on subject with experiments, investigations, testing of hypotheses, and much more," Mrs. Krueger said.

Do you see what I see?

Keeping an eye on some kind of cell is sophomore Jesse Faurot. "I was looking at something and it started biting at me, but I kept looking at it. The cells didn't really interest me," Jesse said.

That's Confusing

Mixing everything up, seniors Rachelle Toney and Jessica Dally work on their mixed media collage. "I take art... well just because I like it," Rachelle Toney said.

Now That's Perfect

"I work really hard on my projects. I will settle for nothing but perfection," junior Terry Duff said.

Building or painting their future one project at a time.

There are many forms of art. Whether it be working with a paint brush or sandpaper, these kids are doing wonderful things. "I take art because it is a way of expressing myself," sophomore Jaime Morrison said. One of the more recent projects the students did was a social issues collage.

"I liked the social issues collage a lot. It made me aware of what was going on in the world and put a splash of my personality in it too. It was fun," sophomore Amber Maurer said. During conferences the wood shop students created a chest to show off their talent to the parents.

"I like wood work," sophomore Ben Jones said.

"I take woodshop so that I'll have something else to do rather than sit in a class all day," sophomore Brad Reinhold said.

Oh my gosh it moved?!

Working on her Movement project sophomore Kristi Miller tries to get her picture perfect. "It's interesting because normally we do something still," Kristi said.

This Makes Me Hungry

"Art is fun. I like to draw. Can I have some food? That's all think about when I am in here," junior Danae Hugget said.

I Thought That I Was Supposed To Move
Working on her movement project senior Corrie Edwards just can't figure it out.

Stop Moving!

Although they don't use live models, sophomore Amber Maurer doesn't really like the movement projects. "It's hard to draw objects in motion. I don't really like it at all," Amber said.

Did you say food?

"Art is great. Sometimes we draw food, and it just looks so yummy I want to eat it up. But the paper and paint just don't settle in my tummy," freshman Tabitha Bess said.

I Found Fitness, it was Under My Couch

Fitness for Life

Run for Your Life

"Dodge ball is the best game in P.E., unless you get smoked in the head by a senior guy," freshmen K.C. Baily said.

Keep Your Eyes Open

"P.E. is the best class because it's the only class I don't end up falling asleep in!" senior Matt Robinson said.

Pen Caps Are Good Chew Toys

"In health class there are too many notes to take. I like Mrs. Jones as the teacher though," freshman Joahna Waller said.

Chillin' at Third Base

"Matball is the best P.E. game. I usually like to play at third base so I can make the cool plays," freshman Dan Middlebos said.

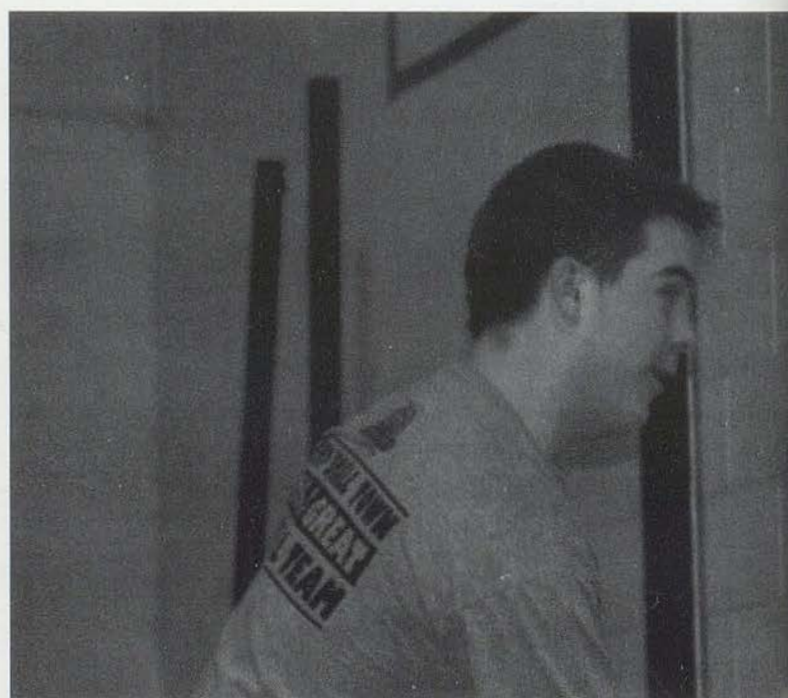

Can I Have a Water Break?

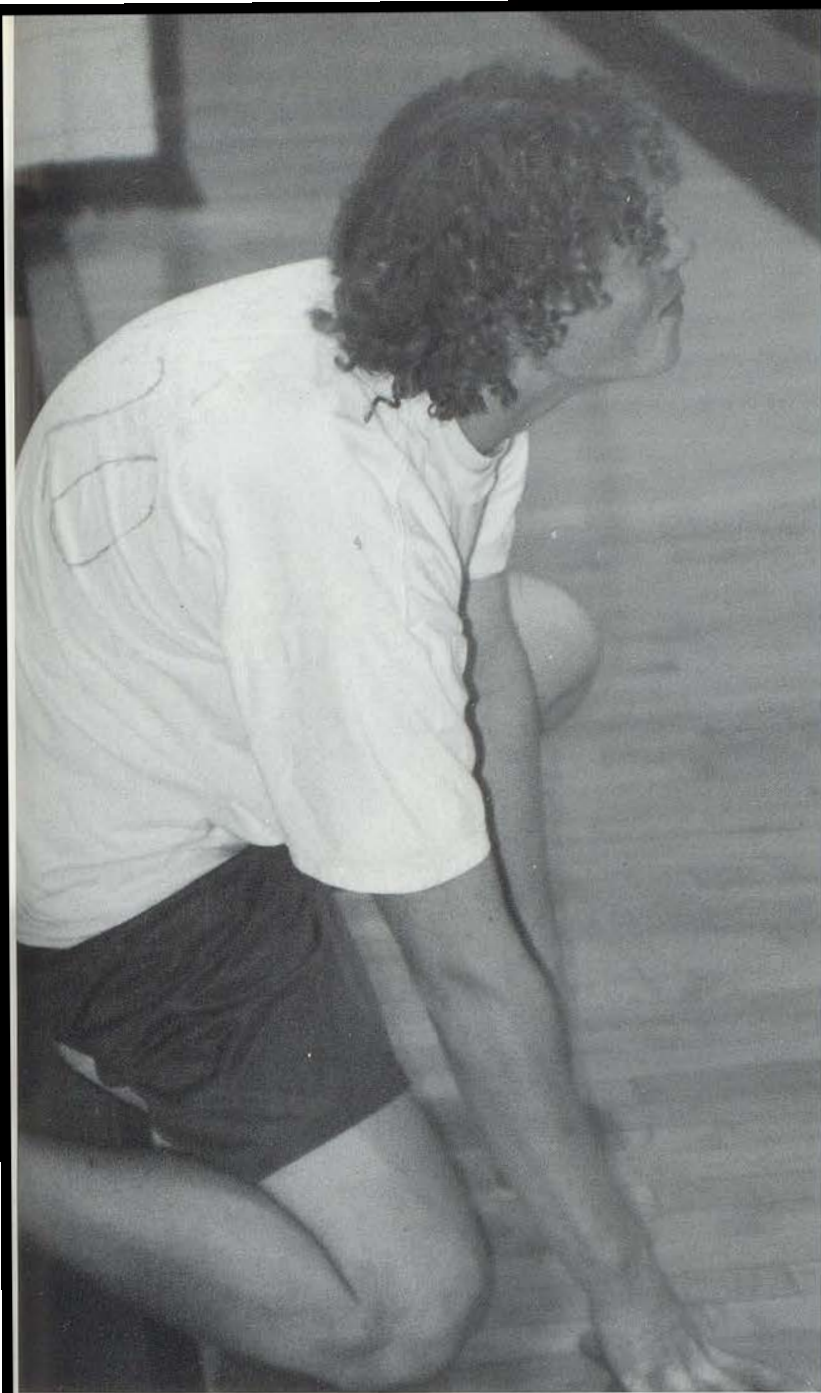

"P.E. is getting a little to hard for me. I can't even stand up anymore!" senior Mike Dillon said. Mike has to start working out or start bringing a pillow for the hard wood floor.

Question Here!

Trying to find out what the best nutrition plan will be is freshman Hannah Robbins. "Health isn't that bad, but I'm glad it only lasts a semester," Hannah said.

Let's Play Leap Frog

With his curly hair bouncing, freshman Eric Heirman plays a little leap frog. "There was nothing else to do, so I played a little leap frog," Eric said.

P.E. Spirit

Showing some P.E. spirit on the sidelines is junior Justin Jarvis. "I was the score keeper of an intense basketball game," Justin said.

We need some Recliners in Class.

"I always have a hard time getting comfortable in these stupid little desks," freshman Erin Skidmore said. Some day we might get some lounge chairs but not any time soon.

Giggling in Line.

Waiting for her turn to kick in matball is freshman Sarah South. "The boys never let the girls get in the front of the line!" Sarah said.

The Sport of Kings.

In Friday free-time a ping pong match was going on. "I am the master at ping pong," senior Kyle Albrecht said. Ping pong is very popular in P.E.

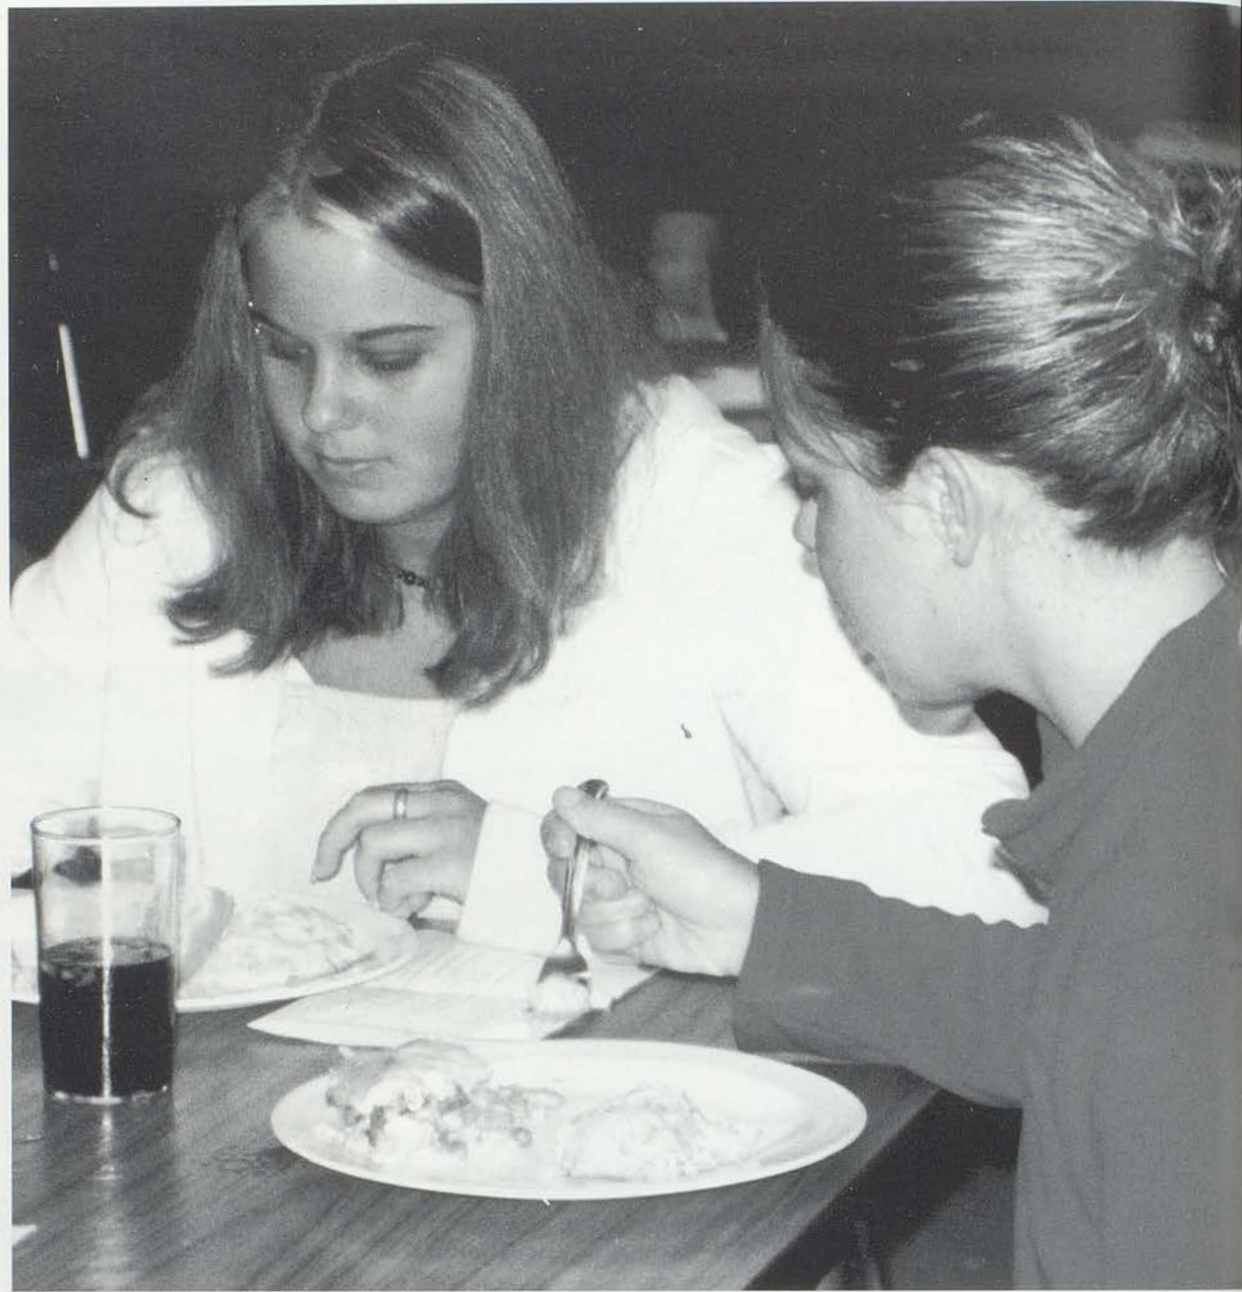

----- You are here to Learn...

No More Peas Please

Picking out her peas is senior Nikki Riggs with her eating buddy senior Lindsey Cox. "I hate peas. They are the nastiest veggie. That's the only thing I don't like to eat in that class," Nikki said.

Taco Salad Anyone?

Cooking up a storm are juniors Samatha Brockman and Vanessa Rodgers. "We were making a taco and we spilled the chips all over the floor," Samatha said.

Just Spooning Around

Looking intently at her spoon is junior Nikki Quada. "I like fun and fancy cooking class. I have learned a lot of new tips that I didn't know before," Nikki said.

Measuring the Right Way

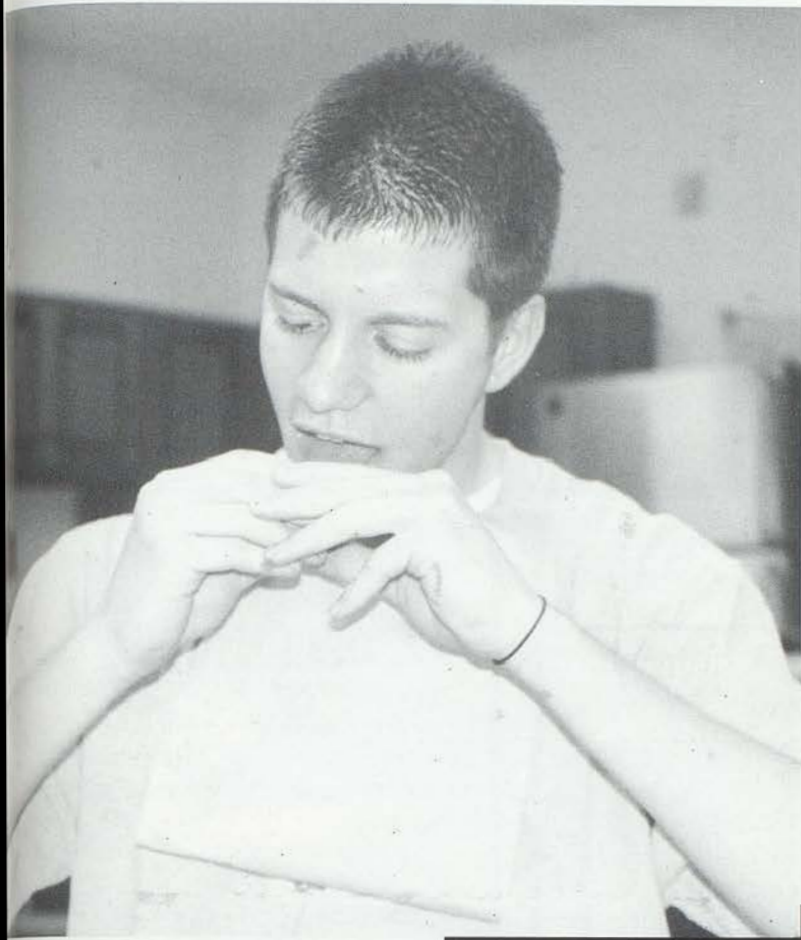

Trying to get the right amount of flour is junior Kevin Starring. "Measuring was the worst part of cooking because I had to make sure that I had the right amount, or the girls in my group would get upset," Kevin said.

Cooking Can Be Fun

Showing junior Aubrey McCauley how to peel an orange the right way is Mrs. Knaack and junior Cheryl Hedges laughing at the sight.

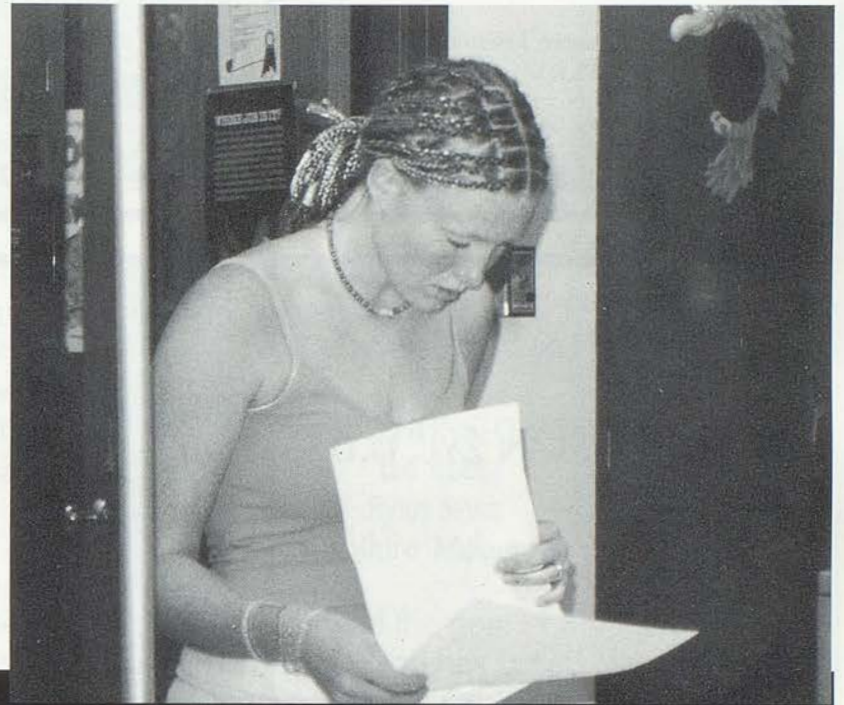

Finger Licking Good...

Wearing a paper towel as a bib to catch all his droppings is freshman Jeremy Woods. "I don't really like the cooking part, but afterwards the fun is eating what we made, even if it's gross," Jeremy said.

Recipe Hunt

Like searching for a buried treasure, senior Jessi Johnson is trying to find the perfect recipe. "I was having a hard time finding the one I wanted, so I just gave up," Jessi said.

Hey good lookin` what cha been cookin`?

Home Ec. Students are All Fired Up to Cook

Taking a cooking class can be helpful in the future or it could be a fun class where you know that you're going to have food. Whatever it is why miss it? You could be eating or watching a movie.

"I personally think of class as a slack-off class, but if you pay attention then it could be helpful in the future," junior Aubrey McCauley said.

COLOPHON

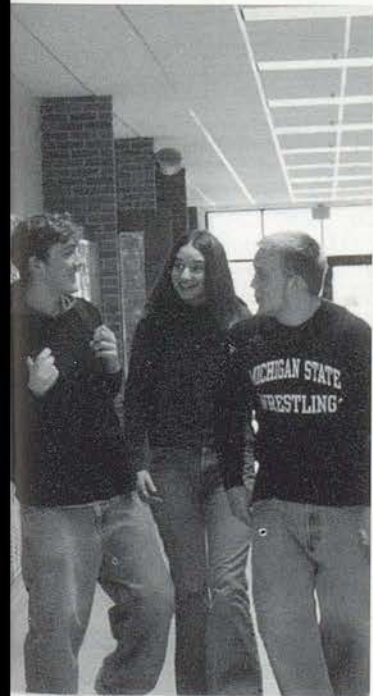

The 2001 Marshall High School Yearbook, The Dial, is 244 pages in length, with one full signature of color plus one color tip in. The theme and cover concept were developed by Nick Zalewski. The cover idea was then implemented by Jostens Cover Art Department. The yearbook is 9 by 11 inches in size. The printing cost of the yearbook is $32,000, with around $6,000 of this coming from advertisements. The yearbook was in severe debt from several years before 1999. About 546 copies of the yearbook were sold at an initial price of $40 each.

Beth Weare and Molly Miller headed up the yearbook staff as co-editors. Nick Zalewski was in charge of ad management. Jennifer Henry compiled the index with help from Jennifer Litton. The yearbook staff was overseen by Mrs. Diane Long as the yearbook Advisor.

The student sections were designed by Beth Weare and Molly Miller. Nick Zalewski designed the ad sections, and Jenna Berry designed the index sections.

This was the first year of incorporating digital design. The computers and other hardware were funded by grants from The Marshall Community Foundation, The Cronin Foundation, and a Mawby Grant. The software used were Adobe Photoshop 5.5 and 5.0 LE, and Adobe Pagemaker 6.5. We had two traditional EOS Rebel cameras, and two digital Fuji 2700 zoom and one Fuji 4700 zoom.

Underclass photos and team photos were taken by Prater studios. Senior portraits were taken by a wide variety of photographers. Body copy was set in 10 point Palatino, and captions were 8 point Helvetica. Special thanks to Mike Lafferty, who was our Jostens Representative, for his indispensable help and encouragement.

A: "I liked how nice all of the upper classmen were. I had a great year."

Keegan Dillon
Freshman

Q: What was your favorite thing about being HERE this year?

A: "The bigger lunches, I love to eat, so the more food the better."

Tyler Brown
Sophomore

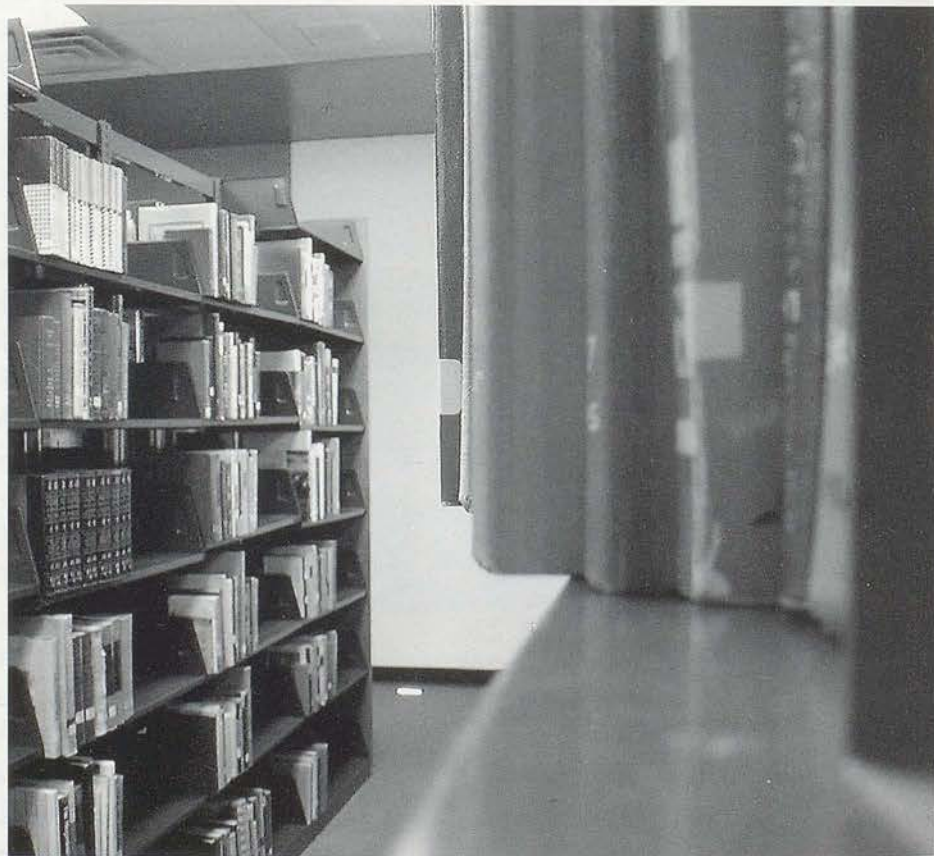

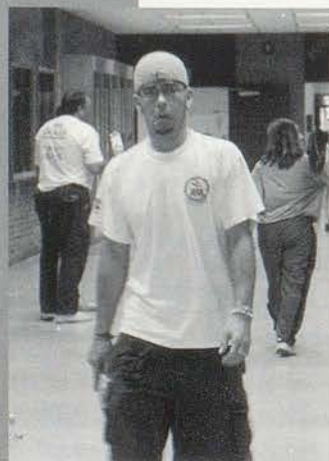

A: "That I was part of the District Championship baseball team."

Brad Palik
Junior

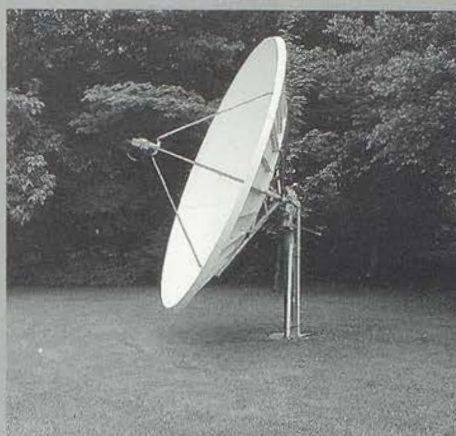

A: "Working with Mrs. Long on the year-book."

Ryan Varner
Senior

A&Q

Top Left: One great thing about being here is the opportunity to use new technology. The satellite dish gives us the access to that technology. Top Right: We live here...Marshall Michigan that is...a great place to live. Bottom: Though these lockers might be small, they are the keepers of the books and other belongings of hundreds of students during their four years at MHS. They also hold the memories made while students congregate around them.

for the future
HERE...

- 1: New Logo
- 2: New Teachers
- 3: No Twin Valley
- 4: New Students
- 5: Longer Year
- 6: New Rivals
- 7: Technology
- 8: New Classes
- 9: New Friends
- 10: MHS Pride

Shhh...
The Library holds many uses along with many books. It is where students come to read, study, and do research.

MHS Pride
Inside and outside of the cafeteria large Marshall flags can be seen hanging in the windows to display our pride.

Four Square
Marshall High School is fun and games as four corners becomes a game of four square for students after school.

Exit 2001.
